Documents: Boss firing tied to sledding accident, accounting for time

STEVE ZUCKER
COURIER EDITOR

Despite what appears to be a spotless work record for nearly all of his more than 35-years as the city's recreation director, Ike Boss' job performance was under heightened scrutiny in the months leading up to his firing late last month.

Last week the Courier reviewed a stack of documents provided by City of Charlevoix officials in response to a Freedom of Information Act request from the newspaper. The request sought copies of, or access to Boss' employment records, including any documentation about his job performance and any correspondence to or from city manager Rob Straebel about Boss' job performance or employment status.

Besides his original job application in 1972, up until March of this year, Boss' personnel file contained little more than the employment contract he signed from time to time during his employment with the city, the corresponding pay increase memos and a couple of monthly vehicle expense allowance increases.

Under the first contract in the file from 1978, Boss was making a little less than $6,000 per year. When he was fired, between a deferred "performance bonus" and his regular salary, he was making about $30,000 per year.

All of the contracts specifically said the position did not qualify for benefits and specifically said that Boss could be terminated at any time without cause.

Straebel fired Boss on June 24 and has since declined to give Boss or others a reason for his dismissal.

The first sign of trouble among the documents appears to be in March of this year. On March 9 Straebel gave Boss a written reprimand and one-day suspension stemming from

Charlevoix High students become a jury of peers

You're standing up in front of a judge. Your right hand is up. The judge asks you "Do you promise to say the truth and only the truth?" You say, "I do." You get to sit down and get asked a series of questions about what you did to end up in court. You can't believe that seven people will be deciding your future. But what if those seven people were seven high school students?

Students in Charlevoix High School government class have an opportunity each year to experience what it's like to be on a jury by attending Teen Court.

This program is offered because of the family teen court program which is used to provide an informal court process for juvenile offenders who are first time offenders. The goal is to provide first time offenders the opportunity to appear in court in front of seven seniors - someone close to their age.

"It was really interesting to see how our judicial works first hand," senior student Caroline Dupuis said.

During the hearings, seven high school students act as jurors. They ask the offender questions about what he or she did to end up in court. There is also one clerk and one bailiff. The clerk is responsible for recording all dispositions. The bailiff is responsible for escorting the juvenile and parent(s) into the courtroom.

Government teacher, Annemarie Conway noted that this program is very powerful in a number of ways: It allows students to see what can happen if they make wrong choices and it shows the defendant that students his age disapprove of his actions and behavior.

This program also allows students to get the chance to see how a courtroom works and how it feels like to sit and ask the questions.

"The Teen Court program allows our students to make a difference in another student's life. Our students render consequences as jurors, based upon the facts they get while questioning. Their job is to determine what obstacles and challenges are in the defendant's life, what problems he has, and then make him address these issues with counseling, etc.," Conway said.

a sledding accident that happened at the Mount McSaubia sledding hill on March 6.

The incident involved a 3-year-old girl who sustained "severe head injuries" when she crashed into a tree while sledding. The girl, according to Straebel, has since made a full recovery from her injuries.

In the document Straebel reprimands Boss noting that the incident happened on March 6 and he had just learned about it on March 9, and not from Boss or the incident report he should have filed by then, but from city EMS director Bob Roloff.

Straebel notes that not submitting the incident report "is a major violation of city procedures and could create future liability issues for the city."

Straebel goes on to say he's even more concerned that Boss had not looked into the accident or what steps might be taken to prevent further such crashes.

"Even more troubling is your lack of attention to this matter," Straebel writes. "You did not know any of the specifics (of the incident) including the location where the accident occurred. You further stated that no measures have been taken or even discussed with the ski hill employees to keep the from happening again. I am dumbfounded as to your total disregard you have shown in this matter."

"I have no choice but to find you derelict of your duties to follow up on this incident," Straebel writes before he goes on to suspend Boss without pay for March 11.

The documents also included three memos from Straebel to Boss on March 15.

In one memo, Straebel questions the hours Boss indicated he worked on day the Straebel told him of his suspension (March 10).

"Because of the uncertainty of the hours worked on this day, I will require Ike to substantiate his hours on each future time sheet," Straebel writes.

In a second March 15 memo, Straebel gives instructions to Boss, on how he wants his time documented — including date, hours worked, locations worked and tasks performed. In the memo Straebel writes, "In an effort to create a more efficiently run recreation department and to better determine actual costs of recreational services, I will require you to be more specific on your time card," Straebel directs Boss.

In the third March 15 memo, Straebel tells Boss that he will be required to maintain regular office hours of 8 a.m.-noon and 1-3 p.m. because his administrative staff had been cut. The second half of the third memo appeared to be a log entered by Straebel documenting his visits to Boss' office on six occasions from March 24-May 11. In four of the entries, Straebel notes that Boss was doing things such as playing solitaire on the computer, reading an article on the Internet or reading a newspaper when Straebel stopped by.

In a March 29 memo, Straebel tells Boss he is not documenting his tasks worked on in his time sheet documents.

In an April 6 memo, Straebel informs the mayor and city council that he has learned that Boss has hired a labor attorney and informs them about the March 9 suspension and the time documenting requirements he has placed on Boss.

In the memo Straebel writes, "What is the impetus of this? Frankly, I have great concern with the apparent lack of work in this department. Mr. Boss has admitted to me that there are times when he has little to do. Nevertheless, I remain nonjudgmental and am open to working with Mr. Boss to resolve these issues in the coming weeks."

In memos to Boss on March 29, April 16, April 28, May 11, May 28 and June 9, Straebel has various discussions with Boss about his way he is documenting his time on the job and other work-time related matters.

It appears Boss' failure to respond to a June 18 e-mail was what finally pushed Straebel to fire Boss.

In a document dated June 22, Straebel writes that on that day, he went to Boss' office to ask him why he had not responded to his June 18 e-mail. Straebel writes that Boss told him he had not received the e-mail, but Straebel said when he looked on Boss' computer he found the e-mail unopened when all of Boss' other e-mails had been opened.

Two days later Straebel fired Boss.

Following his dismissal, Boss has said he believes his firing was related to the sledding accident and to his objections earlier this year to cutting lifeguards at city beaches.

The day after Ike Boss' firing, Bo Boss, Ike's nephew and the manager of the Mount McSaubia Recreational Area penned a letter taking Straebel to task for firing Ike. In the same letter Bo Boss wrote that the entire Boss family is prepared to tender its collective resignation from all paid and volunteer city and community involvement at the July 6 city council meeting in response to Ike's firing.

Boss has requested to be placed on the Charlevoix City Council agenda for its Tuesday, July 6 meeting. The Courier went to press before the meeting took place.

ERIN HOLDSWORTH
CHARLEVOIX HIGH SCHOOL STUDENT

Walking down the halls of Charlevoix High School it may seem like just another normal day until a furry little ball of fun named Fisher frolics alongside of you.

Special education teacher Courtney Kemp continually brings her 5-month old golden-doodle puppy, Fisher, into school to help create a more relaxed environment, help teach her students responsibility and give students who cannot experience the excitement of having a dog the chance to experience it.

"Sometimes when a student is having a problem it is hard to speak to an adult. Fisher provides unconditional love no matter what the situation is and he is easy to talk to," Kemp said.

Eventually when Fisher is house-broken he will be welcomed into all classrooms and will be able to help students. Fisher is also being trained to be a therapy dog once he outgrows his puppy stage.

Next year Kemp and her students plan on taking him into the community (hospitals, nursing homes, elementary school, etc.) where he can hopefully brighten people's day and give the students a chance to give back to the community.

Although Fisher comes to school with Kemp everyday he goes back home with her and her family at night. "In the morning I tell him it is time to go to school and he runs to the door, he knows where my classrooms are in the middle school and high school. He has his 'favorite' spot in both rooms. Fisher goes home with me every night exhausted!" Kemp said.

Fisher has been a great addition to our school and the students love playing with him, he can certainly brighten anyone's day.

Erin is the daughter of Karen & John Holdsworth and is a sophomore at Charlevoix High School.

Three injured in Marion Township crash

Three people were injured in a one-vehicle traffic crash in Charlevoix County's Marion Township Thursday, July 1.

Charlevoix County Sheriff Don Schneider identified the injured as Mariah Lynn Lavanway, 19, of Charlevoix, Veronica Ann Fyan, 15, of Charlevoix, and Levi Lucius Antoine, 20, of East Jordan. All three were transported to Charlevoix Area Hospital by Charlevoix Ambulance where they were treated for their injuries and released. Deputies said the crash happened shortly before 7 p.m. on Phelps Road one mile east of Black Road.

Police said the injured were traveling east on Phelps Road in a Buick Century when the driver lost control while going around a corner, struck the ditch and the vehicle overturned.

Police said they have not yet determined who was driving the vehicle because of conflicting stories from the occupants. Police believe speed and careless driving were factors that contributed to the crash.

Enjoying life's path thanks to friends, family and GPS

On the road again — this time Chicago. The irreverent comedy of Second City was on my list of things to do before meeting my maker (my health is good, just a hocket list thing) so off I went. This trip would be sans husband. My plans were to meet up with a good friend from high school and board a train from Lansing to the Windy City. Having absolutely no sense of direction I added the portable GPS, clipping it carefully into its plastic holder then securing it to the front window like a radar detector. After a few tries I was able to decipher what information I needed to type in. Now I was ready for my next adventure. I found the woman's voice on this contraption to be quite comforting; something akin to having a back seat driver in the front seat.

A LOOK AT LIFE

Finding the way to my friend's home in Lansing was a piece of cake, the hard part was maneuvering the one way streets and street name changes in East Lansing. You can only imagine my shock when the GPS alerted me that the battery was low and was now shutting off minutes before my next exit. "No!" I yelled. "I need you now more than ever!" Wishing I had a co-pilot pilot to talk me in I said a prayer and miraculously landed safely in a rest stop. It was then that I realized I had plugged the gadget into my former cigarette lighter incorrectly not giving it the juice it needed to run. Okay, hack on the road again. Funny how that lady becomes irritated when I don't follow her commands exactly. She is beginning to sound exasperated when she has to repeat herself whenever I waver from the map.

No longer needing her company I have met up with my long-time friend who thank goodness is not fazed by my inability to find my way around a city block. The train to Chicago from Lansing clacked along the tracks like clockwork. Taxis at Union Station were in abundance so we took the pick of the litter; a fairly new cab that was cool as a fridge inside compared to the heat wafting upwards from the blacktop. There was an another plus; it was clean and the seatbelts worked.

This trip was a continuation of my things to do that I had put off for years. After completing a successful train trip to California this was my next undertaking. Chicago is not lacking for things to do but my interest in film and acting was beckoning me to spend time exploring only this direction. Paying a little more for reservations for the Second City performance was well worth it. It meant no long lines to wait in and an escort to our front row seats. This also gave us a chance to take a two hour film tour. We explored the city in the comfort of an air conditioned bus which rocked us to and fro trying to keep up with the beat of traffic. Our guide was a colorfully dressed film critic who topped his I love Elvis shirt off with a white beret. This is beginning to remind me of a scene from "One Flew over the Cuckoo's Nest." His fast paced dialogue described movies current and past, their film locale and a little history about their editing. I had to admit he had to talk manically as the vehicle maneuvered in and out of traffic that was not forgiving.

We arrived at our final destination with time to spare. Cheerfully greeted by a student of this prominent improv school she informed us we had time for a drink and food if we so desired. Now with a coffee liqueur drink in hand I eagerly read the biographical sketches the actors had written about themselves. What a treat it was to see a revue celebrating the 50th anniversary of Second City.

After the performance it was then I realized how grateful I was for various things in my life. The actors had been working hard on cruise ships and various comedy clubs coast to coast, never earning much of a savings let alone a 401k that an employer could add to. Their lives were not easy and family time was not always available to them. By the time the house lights came on and the roar of applause had left the building I was grateful that my parents encouraged me to enter the teaching and counseling fields as a career rather than try my hand at stand-up comedy. I was grateful connecting with a friend from the past because conversation flowed and thoughts continued as if separated by only a brief intermission. I also am grateful to have made a new friend in the woman's voice that provided the comfort and direction on this latest mission. She's resting right now and not asking for much more than a chance travel again and get a little juice for the trip. She's actually not much different than her owner.

Charlevoix, graduate of Charlevoix High School, and proud participant in Rayder athletics, I was enormously surprised and deeply disheartened by the events surrounding Coach Haske's departure from Charlevoix Public Schools and Rayder athletics on June 7. I was astonished that such a man of integrity, such a positive influence in the lives of hundreds of kids, co-workers, and community members throughout his 13 years of service, would not find security in his future as an employee of Charlevoix Public Schools or in his role as the coach of the basketball team.

School board officials, as well as the superintendent, are charged with making decisions solely based on the best interests of the students and school system as a whole. The responsibility that they bear as stewards of the education, mentorship, and development of the future generation is far too great to allow personal interests to guide their actions. The fact that Keith Haske was not treated in the manner befitting a professional, much less one of his unmatched character, sterling qualifications, and selfless demeanor, is a discredit to those governing Charlevoix Public Schools.

It's easy to brush events such as this under the rug, not ask too many hard questions, and let wounds scar over. However, I urge the residents in Charlevoix that are as disappointed as I am to ask the hard questions and demand honest, detailed answers. The students and employees of Charlevoix Public Schools, not to mention Keith Haske's replacement, deserve to know that they can expect to be treated in a fair, objective, honest, and transparent manner. There is no explanation for why someone who has such a deep love for the community, profound devotion to the kids, and proven dedication to their co-workers should feel they are unwelcome and unappreciated in Charlevoix.

With that said, I wish Keith Haske all the best in his new position. Charlevoix's loss is certainly St. Francis' gain. You will not find a finer person, coach, or administrator.

Sincerely,

Scott Friske

KUDOS TO NORTHWEST ACADEMY

Dear Editor:

I was reading last night's Petoskey paper (Tuesday, June 29) the same evening that I had just attended a budget meeting at Northwest Academy, where my children are enrolled. Reading about the surrounding schools and all their cutbacks, I felt such relief that my children attend Northwest Academy because my children's educational future at this point has not been affected by cuts in our school. Northwest Academy is a publicly funded school where I do not pay tuition for my children to attend and they rely on state funding, just like the larger public schools, to provide quality education to all three of my children. It has become obvious to me, through reading the paper and watching all the schools cut teachers, staff and activities that we at Northwest Academy have an outstanding board of education and administration that make sure our tax dollars are being used effectively and for the best of our children we enroll there. Not only did we not go through major cuts in the people providing quality education to my children, but there have been upgrades this past year in Smart Boards and technology for the kids. All three of my children have received individual education support through Northwest Academy and are all achieving at a much higher level in the smaller class sizes.

Northwest Academy also has an outstanding new school leader at the helm, Matt Saunders. Matt's understanding of the education environment and his ability to work with everyone regarding a child's education experience is top notch. He is one the most outstanding educators I have known in our children's 10 years in school. To have him leading and directing Northwest Academy is going to be something extraordinary.

Thanks to the Northwest Academy's administration and board of education for your vision, insight and for being so conscious of the tax dollars you receive and using them for the very best of my children's education.

JUNIOR LEAGUE BASEBALL

Dear Editor:

The Little League International is changing the dimensions of the junior league (13 and 14 year olds) baseball field to make it smaller than the high school field. That's why I believe the existing field by the sheriff's department would make a great field. It only needs a little time and money put into it to fix it up and give the junior league a perfect field.

Impounded vehicles don't look good on a ball field, especially one close to town. It would look so much better with all of those cars off of it and kids playing on it. For the people that live near it and see it outside everyday, they probably would like to see some kids on it.

As I said before, it's right in town, and it would be a lot easier to find other than way out in the country. Not just for our team and family members, but for the other teams and family members, too.

Charlevoix has quite a lot of people and "fudgies" that drive past the field. If they like baseball and we had a medium sized field they could use it. Also the people here that like baseball would probably like to use it too.

In conclusion, I believe that the existing field by the sheriff's department should become a real field again. Sure, I play softball and will probably never use it, but it would be nice to have a field for the juniors to use. Don't you think? Anyway, let's make that field nice to play on once again.

Skyler Herriman

GYM FOR ALL SPORTS

Editor:

I strongly dislike gyms that only support some sports, but not others. I have been growing up wanting to join a gym. So it hit me, how about having a gym with all sports.

It should have all kinds of sports like track, soccer, football, boxing, and more.

These days too many people are getting overweight. Almost every day you can flip through the TV channels and find some show on obese and overweight people. It is also very unhealthy for children, teens, and young adults not to get at least 60 minutes of exercise per day. So many people would feel better about themselves if we got this new sports complex.

Almost everyone loves sports, and if we had this sports complex in Charlevoix, it could have so many sporting events held in it. So many kids would have a place to play and hang out. Many schools don't support sports like boxing. I think a lot of kids would take part in boxing, and I am one of them.

We all know it's hard to get exercise in the winter especially living in Charlevoix. There aren't any sports complexes close to Charlevoix. Many parents, as well as other adults, do not want to drive far away to have some fun. Driving so far is bad for the earth and if we had one in Charlevoix we wouldn't pollute our town. When you pay, the money would stay in Charlevoix.

I know this idea would be a success, and over time it would pay for itself. So think about what I have said, and we can make it happen!

Sincerely,

Hunter Jensen

'PAWS for a Story' at the library

Throughout the month of July, the Charlevoix Public Library will host a program designed to help children practice their reading using pets as their audience.

"PAWS for a Story" is a program that brings trained and certified therapy dogs with their owners to the library to read with children. Children are able to practice reading aloud in front of a non-judgmental, happy audience, gaining confidence with each sentence.

Library staff said read aloud practice such as this one has shown an increase in both reading scores and a willingness to read. The PAWS for a Story program will take place on a drop-in basis, from 10:30-11:30 a.m., every Monday and Saturday in July. Call the youth information desk at (231) 237-7350 to sign up.

Parents are encouraged bring their child each week to watch their child's confidence blossom. When the children arrive for their reading session, they get to choose a book to share, and then curl up and read aloud to an adoring listener — the dog. The owner is there at all times but is usually silent. The R.E.A.D. (Reading Education Assistance Dogs) program began out west and programs are spreading throughout the country. PAWS is the local version with locally certified therapy dogs. "The children are excited to visit and read to their dog," youth services assistant, Sandi DiSante said.

Dog owners interested in learning more about the program and how to be a certified PAWS team, can contact the youth information desk at the library R.E.A.D. on the web at: www.thcrapyanimals.org. For more information about the PAWS for a Story program or other events check the library's website at www.charlevoixlibrary.org.

July 23 from 5-8 p.m. and 8-11 p.m. on Saturday, July 24 from 3-6 p.m., 6-9 p.m. and 9-11:30 p.m.

Anyone interested in volunteering should contact Kent Seymour at (231) 675-1127.

Readers to again choose Venetian Vision movie

Organizers of the 2010 Venetian Festival will again be giving readers of the Charlevoix Courier the opportunity to choose which movie will be shown as this year's Venetian Vision movie.

The movie will be projected on a screen at the Odmare Performance Pavilion in Charlevoix's East Park on Monday July 19. The event kicks off 8 p.m. with a performance by variety entertainer Tommy Tropic. The movie is expected to start around 9:15 p.m.

In observance of the festival's 80th anniversary, its unofficial theme this year is "the 80s."

With this in mind, organizers have provided a list of five movies from the 1980s from which readers may choose.

The list includes: "Back to the Future"

"Footloose"

"Ghostbusters"

"The Goonies"

All five movies are rated PG. Readers can vote by visiting the Charlevoix Courier's website at www.charlevoixcourier.com.

Voting will conclude at 8 a.m. on Tuesday, July 13. Results of the voting will be published in the next edition of the Courier.

Arts group fundraising campaign gets kick-start

The Charlevoix Circle of Arts recently kicked off a five-year fundraising campaign at its first-ever annual meeting.

The meeting, which took place, at the group's home at 109 Clinton St. in Charlevoix, was the first since the organization received its official non-profit status from the federal government.

At the meeting, organization president, Kathryn Lobenherz announced the launch of "2010 & Beyond" a five-year operational and improvement fundraising campaign developed for the Circle of Arts.

Organization officials said the operational budget is projected at $120,000 a year, creating a total of $600,000 to be raised during the next five years. Big ticket items targeted for the money include hiring an executive director, to help relieve the burden of the group's workload. Leaders of the group say by conservative estimates, volunteers offer with more than $78,000 worth of in-kind support yearly. Further details can be reviewed at CharlevoixCircle.org.

The fundraising campaign received a big jump start as more than $37,000 raised or pledged at the meeting alone.

Among the major donors helping kick off the fundraising effort were Karen and Bill Schulling who donated $20,000 to cover one year's rental expenses.

"Today, we have a wonderful opportunity to further develop and sustain the services of this community art center," Bob Grove, member and another donor at the meeting said.

Contributions to the fundraising campaign can be sent to Charlevoix Circle of Arts at P.O. Box 617, Charlevoix, MI 49720.

Historical society hosting Earl Young home tours

Thanks to the generosity of several Charlevoix home owners, the Charlevoix Historical Society is offering a rare opportunity to tour the interior of eight unique Earl Young homes from 10 a.m.-4 p.m. on Wednesday, July 28.

Earl Young was a resident of Charlevoix for more than 70 years. Without a formal education in architecture, Young designed and constructed a total of 30 buildings throughout his 50-year building career without plans or specifications, only jottings on scraps of paper he carried in his pocket.

Society organizers note that present Young would never had met the requirements for certification that architects and builders must meet today; and with today's building codes and zoning regulations, these homes would never have been built.

Not only have Young's "mushroom" houses had an aesthetic influence on architecture in the Charlevoix area, but they have also been a source of tourism in Charlevoix since the 1950s, organizers note.

Young found inspiration in nature and stone, often allowing boulders to dictate the design of a building. His architecture does not conform to a particular style. Instead, his buildings incorporate design elements from a number of different styles, such as arts and crafts, prairie, and even Swiss chalet. Each structure has its own distinct character, but they are unified by a number of key elements, including exterior stonework, massive stone fireplaces, and generally low-lying roofs.

Cedar shake roofs — some undulating, squat chimneys liberally frosted with cement that resemble partially melted candles give some of the structures a whimsical appearance.

Tickets are $35 per person and may be purchased at the Charlevoix Historical Society, 103 State Street, Charlevoix. For more information, call (231) 547-0373 or email chx-history@sbcglobal.net. More information is also available on the organization's website at www.chxhistory.com

Charlevoix Garden Club's annual walk slated for July 14

This garden, located near Round Lake is just some of many guests of the Charlevoix Garden Club's annual garden walk will have the opportunity to visit.

The Charlevoix Area Garden Club's long-standing tradition of offering the public visits to private gardens on one special day each year, will continue with this year's 12th annual garden walk, "Dancing with the Flowers."

Organizers said this year's theme is derived from the visualization of swaying flowers in a gentle breeze that mimics the most intricate dance moves. Against the backdrop of a variety of gardens, the club invites guests to enlist all their senses as they enjoy the "dance."

The gardens for this year's walk are clustered on the north side of the bridge to make the tour even easier. Four gardens on are on Thistle Downs, two are at the Charlevoix Country Club and two are on Lake Charlevoix (close to town). The gardens are very different and organizers encourage guests to ask questions of the hostesses and docents in each garden.

In conjunction with this year's garden walk, the club will present a Standard Flower Show at the Community Reformed Church at the corner of U.S. 31 (Petoskey Ave.) and Meech Street.

The show will offer a unique combination of horticulture and design.

The walk will take place from 10-4 p.m. on Wednesday, July 14 (rain or shine). Tickets are $10 in advance from various merchants or club members and $15 the day of the walk at any of the eight gardens or the Community Reformed Church. For more information, call co-chair Mary Chavez at (231) 547-8015 or co-chair Karen Benning at (231) 547-2702.

Charlevoix High School works to implement new trimester schedule

JENNIFER RICHARDSON
COURIER WRITER

For the kids, summer break has begun, but an upcoming major scheduling change already has Charlevoix High School officials putting in extra hours planning for the next school year.

Last March, the Charlevoix school board approved a change from the traditional two 18-week semesters per school year to a 12-week trimester format. That means this summer, teachers must reconfigure their course content to reflect the new schedule.

Previously, students took seven classes each semester plus a seminar period twice a week. The classes met on a modified block schedule, meaning that courses met for a longer time period (92 minutes), but did not meet every day. Students had the opportunity to earn seven credits per year under this system.

Under the new system, students will have five classes during each trimester. The courses will meet for approximately 70 minutes each day, and students will have the opportunity to earn seven and a half credits each year.

Over the course of four years of high school, students will have the opportunity to earn 30 credits on the trimester schedule instead of 28 credits on the semester schedule.

Charlevoix High School principal Suzanne Klinger said the decision was made partly because of the rigorous requirements of the Michigan Merit Curriculum, which requires students to earn four credits of math and English, and three credits of science and social studies. This year's seventh graders are the first group that will also be expected to complete two credits of foreign language in order to graduate from high school.

Klinger

One of the criticisms of the new curriculum is that it does not allow students enough time to take elective classes such as art, auto shop, woods, etc. Under the trimester schedule, a student could take Algebra I during the first and second trimesters to earn one math credit, and use the third trimester to take an elective class.

"Fortunately, we haven't had to cut any of our electives," Klinger said, describing Charlevoix's elective offerings as "alive and well." The new trimester schedule allows students time to take those elective classes. "They have access to a bit more diversity in their curriculum," Klinger said.

Another benefit of the trimester schedule is remediation for students who may have trouble meeting the rigor of the state requirements. For example, Klinger said that eighth graders who were identified as struggling in math will take a supplementary math class their first trimester, before taking algebra during the second and third trimesters of their freshman year. A similar preparatory class for English is also in the works.

"The other piece is credit recovery," Klinger said. If a student fails a trimester of a subject, it can be re-taken during the next trimester, instead of through an after-school, on-line, or summer school program.

For all schools, the issue of credit redemption for failed classes has become a big concern. Under the guidelines implemented through the "No Child Left Behind" federal legislation, students who do not finish high school on time are counted in a school's dropout rate, even if they do finish high school later. Giving students a way to graduate on time, instead of completing a fifth year of high school or coursework over the summer has become a priority.

For the Charlevoix administrative team, putting the new schedule into effect is a challenge. "It's a huge undertaking," Klinger said.

During the school year, the staff met with students to discuss the new schedule. Klinger reported that feedback from both students and parents has been very positive.

However, it is a big change, and reductions in staff have added to the challenge of implementing the new system.

"It's been a real challenge to figure out how we're going to staff what the students have requested," Klinger said.

Another challenge is for teachers to break their content into chunks that can be fit into a trimester. For example, instead of offering a traditional art class, a teacher may break the content into a very specific topic, that can be covered in 12 weeks. Methods of instruction are also likely to need tweaking, given the change in class meeting time.

"Our staff was just awesome," Klinger said, referring to these adjustments.

Charlevoix High School is one of many area schools to make the transition from semesters to trimesters. Already, Harbor Springs, Boyne City and Elk Rapids have implemented a trimester schedule. These schools' schedules and data were reviewed by the Charlevoix administrative team and teachers in their decision-making process, and other schools throughout the state were also consulted, Klinger said.

Ragamuffin Dinner Theatre kicks off July 13 in Petoskey

This summer Stafford's Perry Hotel and Ragamuffin Theatre & Company have teamed up to offer a fresh and whimsical dinner theatre experience on Tuesday evenings from July 13 through Aug. 10.

Ragamuffin Theatre director Kathleen Whittaker describes the show, "The Maid Diaries: Room 310" as a delightful collection of musical, comical, and romantic vignettes based on both historical fact and fanciful fiction.

"I came across some interesting details while researching the history of Stafford's Perry Hotel and Petoskey which I was then able to incorporate into our script," Whittaker said. "Northern lower Michigan's first radio station, WBBP which did remote broadcasts from the Perry Hotel, ran what they called 'Canary Studio' on Sunday afternoons right from the hotel lobby. One of our musical vignettes brings to life a humorous anecdote surrounding a remote broadcast gone haywire," Whittaker said. Audience members will even be included in a few interactive activities throughout the night as the music, dance, and drama unfold.

"We want people to enjoy themselves, engage with each other, and leave wanting more," Shauna Bradley, who recently graduated from Charlevoix High School, said.

The show will have a bit of something for everyone including favorite musical numbers from the 30's and 40's, and 60's, Whittaker added.

The ticket price of $39.95 includes an appetizer, salad, choice of three entrees and dessert. Tax and gratuity are not included. Doors open at 6:30 p.m. with the show beginning at 7 and continuing between courses throughout the night, which concludes at approximately 9 p.m. Tickets can be purchased at Stafford's Perry for all shows. Seating will be limited to an "intimate number." For more information, call Stafford's Perry Hotel at (231) 347-4000 or Ragamuffin Theatre at (231) 237-9686.

Gen X'ers Must Consider Needs of Three Generations

Benjamin Muladore
Financial Advisor

If you're a member of Generation X — the age group born between 1963 and 1981 — you may well be in the busiest time of your life. You're probably in the early to middle stages of your career, for one thing, and if you have children, they're likely still at home. Yet despite the hectic nature of your days, you still have to look after the financial concerns of your children, yourself and possibly even your parents. This three-generational effort may seem challenging, but with some planning and persistence, you can help your family make progress toward a variety of goals.

To begin with, let's consider the needs of your children. Obviously, you're already providing for their living expenses, so from an investment point of view, your biggest concern may be how you'll help them pay for college. Here's a suggestion: Put time on your side and start saving as soon as possible. You might want to consider opening a 529 college savings plan, which offers potential tax advantages. Saving for college is important — but so is saving for your own retirement. Consequently, you'll have to find the right balance of resources to devote to these two goals. To avoid shortchanging yourself, take full advantage of your 401(k) or similar employer-sponsored retirement plan. Contribute as much as you can afford right now, and whenever you get a raise, increase your contributions. At the very least, put in enough to earn your employer's matching contribution, if one is offered. Your 401(k) accumulates on a tax-deferred basis, and your contributions are generally made with pretax dollars, so the more you put in, the lower your taxable income.

You aren't confined to investing in a 401(k), either, because you can also put money into a traditional IRA, which accumulates tax deferred, or a Roth IRA, which accumulates tax-free, provided you're at least age 59½ when you start making withdrawals and you've held your account at least five years. Once you've started saving for college for your kids and investing for your own retirement, you've got one more generation to consider — the older one. For example, you'll need to make sure your parents have adequate financial protection for their health care expenses. If your parents have saved and invested throughout their lives, they may not need any financial help from you — but that doesn't mean you'll never be called upon to straighten out their affairs. That's why now is the perfect time to ask your parents some key questions: Where are your assets located? Do you have a will? How about a durable power of attorney? You might think these inquiries will make you sound "selfish," but the opposite is true: The more you know about your parents' financial situation and estate plans, the bigger help you'll be to them, and to other members of your family, if the day arrives when your parents need some assistance. It may not always be easy to act on behalf of three generations — but it's worth the effort.

MDOT installs new weather-sensing station along U.S. 31

STEVE ZUCKER/CHARLEVOIX COURIER
Crews from Mount Pleasant-based J. Ranck Electric work to install a new Michigan Department of Transportation weather-sensing station along U.S. 31 south of Burgess Road last week.

A new antenna and other equipment that might seem out of place where it was installed last week in a clearing along U.S. 31 south of Burgess Road, will soon be helping state officials monitor road and weather conditions.

The odd collection of equipment located across the road from the roadside park near Lexalite, is one of 12 weather-sensing stations that the Michigan Department of Transportation is installing this summer in various locations around northern Lower Michigan.

State officials said the new Road Weather Information System technology uses electronic sensors to provide road crews with important weather information along select roadways in northern lower Michigan.

Scott Thayer, the agency's interim north region engineer said, "RWIS will help us better manage our resources and keep us on the cutting edge of maintenance innovations. This technology is designed to help save money and improve efficiencies of our maintenance operations."

The sensors, installed along the roadside, provide data on air and subsurface temperatures, wind speed and direction, precipitation type and intensity, visibility, relative humidity, and barometric pressures.

The other locations the sensor will be installed include: U.S. 31 and M-115; U.S. 131 at M-55 (Exit 180); U.S. 10 and Stiles Road; U.S. 131 at U.S. 10 (Exit 153); M-72 and Williamsburg Road; I-75 at Marlette Road (Exit 270); northbound I-75 at the Grayling Rest Area; U.S. 127 at M-55 (Exit 194); I-75 at Cook Road (Exit 212); I-75 at Mackinaw Highway (Exit 337); and I-75 at C-58 (Exit 301).

World record falls

Charlevoix alumni, sister set tandem skydiving record

BRANDON HUBBARD
NEWS-REVIEW STAFF
WRITER

Luther Kurtz, 33, a 1995 Charlevoix graduate, and Angela Bishop, 26, leaped 105 times from Tuesday night, June 29, to Wednesday, June 30, at Harbor Springs Airport, becoming the world record holders for the most tandem skydives in a single day.

The siblings, who started at about 6:30 p.m. Tuesday, broke a previous world record of 103 jumps set in 2009 and finished their 104th jump just prior to 3 p.m. Wednesday afternoon. For good showmanship, the duo made a final, 105th jump an encore for the large audience that had gathered near the drop zone.

It was a long journey leaving both jumpers physically drained, especially Bishop.

Three jumps in, Angela got sick and said she was severely nauseous throughout the night.

With less than an hour before sunrise, both touched down on the grassy airport midway. Luther ran to the plane. Angela didn't move.

She tried to get up and run, but went down to a knee. The audience, in lawn chairs and wrapped in blankets to fight near freezing temperatures, gasped and waited to see if she could keep going.

After taking a few minutes to get her feet under her, she stood and jogged to the plane. The door closed and the plane accelerated down the runway.

Afterward, she said despite the physical pain, including an arm that went useless from exhaustion at about the 80th jump, she knew she would finish.

"I wasn't going to stop," she said. "It would have had to kill me."

And they did finish. With a few happy tears from Bishop and hugs from friends, it was all celebration Wednesday on the infield between the runways at Harbor Springs Airport.

"We knew we were going to beat it," Kurtz cheered, immediately following the 104th jump.

It was both a moment of joy and relief for the pair's parents in the audience.

"They were so determined and they know what they are doing and they did it so early!" said Kay Cartford, Angela and Luther's mother.

"I'm just happy, so happy they made it."

John Kurtz, Luther's father, only had one thing to say about the success, "I'm proud of them."

The event was an effort to raise funds for the Top of Michigan Trails Council, which maintains bike trails and recreational paths throughout Northern Michigan.

Besides raising more than $12,000 for the council, Top of Michigan executive director Jeff Winegard said he was pleased the event drew such community involvement.

"The fact that people from the community helped out and wanted to pitch in was really amazing," Winegard said. "Everybody that I talked to, from the crew, from the pilots who came into town, everybody was just thrilled with the outcome."

Northern Michigan Youth Theatre to present 'Music Man, Jr.'

Nearly 40 students from Petoskey, Boyne City and Charlevoix are preparing for the opening of "The Music Man, Jr." The show is a slightly shortened version of "The Music Man," one of the most popular American musicals ever produced. The show harkens back to 1912 Iowa when neighbors knew each other and took an interest in each others' lives — for better or worse.

Show organizers said although the cast is young (fourth grade through college), they are doing an amazing job of bringing that era to life in rehearsals.

Karen Mazzoline is directing the show with the help of assistant director, Stephanie Hull and roughly five other experienced adult volunteers.

Mazzoline chose "The Music Man, Jr." as this summer's production because she loves the show and wanted something a little simpler and more homespun than the shows the troupe produced in previous summers (High School Musical in 2008 and Footloose in 2009).

"The Music Man, Jr." closely mirrors the 1957 Broadway hit written by Meredith Willson. The original musical won five Tony Awards and even beat out "West Side Story" for Best Musical.

The story revolves around con man, Harold Hill, who poses as a boys' band organizer who sells musical instruments and uniforms to the townsfolk in River City, Iowa then attempts to skip town with the cash. Marian, the town librarian, sees through him, but when Hill helps her younger brother, she begins to fall in love with Hill. Harold, in turn, falls for her and risks being caught to win her.

Many of the tunes in the show have become American classics including, "Seventy-Six Trombones," "Gary Indiana," "Til There Was You," "Lida Rose," and "Pick-a-Little-Talk-a-Little."

General admission tickets are available in advance at the Petoskey, Harbor Springs and Boyne City chambers of commerce. Tickets are $5 for students and seniors and $8 for adults. "The Music Man, Jr." plays at 7 p.m. July 14, 15, 16 and 17 and 2 p.m. July 18 at the Petoskey Middle School Auditorium. For more information, Mazzoline at (231) 838-6320.

Former Rayder Boss honored by Arena Football League

Charlevoix High School graduate Rob Boss was named the Arena Football League's Offensive Player of the Week as he helped the Chicago Rush to a 55-42 win over Orlando on Saturday night.

Boss, a 2002 Charlevoix grad who went on to an outstanding career at Northern Michigan University, caught four passes for 60 yards and two touchdowns and rushed for nine yards and a TD on six carries.

Chicago is 9-3 and holds a two-game lead over Milwaukee in the AFL's Midwest Division with four games remaining.

Boss, who is listed at 6-foot-5 and 295 pounds, has moved from tight end to fullback and he plays occasionally on defense at end.

On the season, Boss has 14 catches for 157 yards and five touchdowns, while rushing for 111 yards and 10 TDs on 38 carries. His rushing attempts, yards and TDs are all team-highs in the pass-heavy league. Boss is sixth in the 15-team league in rushing TDs, seventh in rushing yards.

Boss, 26 and in his third year with the Rush and fourth in professional football (he spent his rookie year with Green Bay of the now-defunct Arena Football League), has established himself as Mr. Durability.

He has never missed a football game. Not in high school, not in

COURTESY PHOTO

Charlevoix graduate Rob Boss has been a football ironman, having never missed a game because of injury through four years of high school, four years of college, and four years of professional football.

college, and not on the professional level.

"I've played quite a few games in a row," Boss said. "Up there around close to 100. I've never broken a bone, never tore a ligament or anything like that. Been very, very lucky."

Indeed, Boss was a two-way player in high school, as most good high school players are, and he also played basketball, baseball and participated in track and field at Charlevoix.

At Northern Michigan, he played on both the offensive and defensive lines, often in the same game, and while that's quite common for a high school player, it's a rarity for a college player, at any level. And he has managed to remain healthy while taking the day-to-day pounding of professional football, a long-term accomplishment made all the more remarkable by the fact that the vast majority of the football games in which Boss has played since high school have been played on artificial turf.

"Living right I guess," Boss said. "It's always about making sure that you're body's in shape. ... Good genetics doesn't hurt. It's been a good ride, that's for sure."

With NFL training camps just around the corner, Boss, naturally, said he would jump at the chance if the call came.

"It's always an option," he said. "Sometimes it's just getting that look, having somebody see you. I try to do what I can and go out and play as well as I can and hope that impresses somebody."

The Arena League regular season ends by August and the Rush is very likely to make the playoffs. When the season eventually ends for Boss, he is likely to return to Northern Michigan, his alma mater, as an assistant coach. In 2007, he coached the linebackers at St. Norbert (Wis.) College.

A healthy mind and body, a successful team and a blossoming career that seems to only get better have Boss smiling these days. Plus, at 26, he is still playing the sport he loves, and getting paid for it.

"You're getting paid to play a game, something I love," he said. "We have a great group of guys down here. Makes it easy to come to work every day."

United Way seeks 'loaned executives'

Hoping to mobilize the power of the business community to benefit the community as a whole, Char-Em United Way is recruiting participants for its second class of "loaned executives."

Employees from local businesses, people in transition between jobs, and retirees, are encouraged to apply to the program. Loaned executives lend their expertise and energy to assist United Way staff in communicating the needs of the community to the giving public.

Participants receive thorough training that includes local resources, public speaking, leadership, sales, and communication. The loaned executives then meet with local businesses, civic and service clubs, and small groups of donors in Emmet and Charlevoix counties to promote the United Way campaign. They will also participate in the "Small Business Blitz" being planned for this fall.

"I know how valuable the experience can be for a young employee," says Scott MacKenzie, of eChamberConnect/Travelnorth.org. "As a loaned executive to the United Way in Greensboro N.C., I gained communication and leadership skills and learned a great deal about community needs and resources. It's an experience I would recommend for people seeking to build their skills and networks."

Last year's loaned executive program included employees and retirees from AT&T, Odawa Casino Resort, Harbor Industries, UPS, Huntington Bank, Dow Corning, and other local businesses.

United Way stresses that this program is not just for "executives," per se. The loaned executive program provides great experience for front line employees being groomed for more responsibility. Retirees hoping to keep their skills and interests sharp are also encouraged to volunteer in this role.

A half day training for loaned executives will be held in late July or early August.

It is expected that the commitment will take one to four hours per week from mid-August through October, but more limited availability will be considered.

For more information or an application form, contact Martha Lancaster at United Way at (231) 487-1006 or martha@charemunitedway.org.

Class reunions

The Charlevoix High School class of 2000 will have its 10-year class reunion from 5-8 p.m. on Saturday, July 24, under the pavilion at Ferry Beach. Class members should bring an appetizer to pass. A keg will be provided. After party to continue downtown at Whitney's Oyster Bar.

The Charlevoix High School class of 1975 will gather for its 35-year reunion on Friday, Oct. 1. For more information contact Chris Bergow at (215) 996-1011.

The Charlevoix High School class of 1965 will gather for a reunion picnic from 1-6 p.m. on Sunday, July 25, at the Depot Beach pavilion. Classmates are urged to bring memorabilia to share, a dish to pass, their own place settings and drinks. Chicken and chips will be available for $5. RSVP to either Gail (Allison) Baldrige at (231) 547-5653 or Sherrel (Pearsall) Bergmann at (231) 547-4457.

East Jordan High School's class of 1980 will celebrate its 30-year reunion on Aug. 6-7. Events will include a dinner party with dancing from 6 p.m. to midnight on Friday, Aug. 6, at Boyne Mountain's Stein Eriksen's restaurant; and a family picnic starting at noon on Saturday, Aug. 7, at East Jordan Tourist Park. Members of the classes of 1979 and 1981 are also invited to family picnic on Aug. 7.

Class members hope the reunion weekend will build on the camaraderie enjoyed by many last fall, when the East Jordan High School 1979 football team celebrated the 30-year anniversary of its undefeated season.

Classmates — and coaches and teachers — are encouraged to join the "East Jordan High School Class of 1980" Facebook group for event details, volunteer opportunities, photo sharing and discussion groups. Graduates may also get additional details and RSVP by sending an e-mail to EJHS1980@yahoo.com.

Venetian HISTORY

RACHEL BROUGHAM
NEWS-REVIEW STAFF
WRITER

It began as a simple candle-lit boat parade in 1930. Today, Charlevoix's Venetian Festival is the city's highlight of the busy summer season.

This year's festival kicks off on Friday, July 17, and runs through Friday, July 24.

While tens of thousands attend the festival each year, many don't know about its rich history.

"When the festival started 80 years ago, it was really small and was just a boat parade," said Joan Miller, who works for the Venetian Festival planning office. "But today, there are so many events and it really just brings the entire community together."

The festival offers everything from the traditional boat and street parade, to fireworks, sporting events, food, and live music.

"We actually have a tradition of two nights of fireworks," Miller said. "On Friday, we have the larger show that is down near Ferry Beach on Lake Charlevoix. Then on Saturday night we have a smaller, but still impressive, display downtown."

While the fireworks may be one of the highlights of the festival, they were put on hold after a deadly accident in 1997.

Nearly 50,000 people were watching when one of the fireworks exploded, killing one and injuring more than a dozen others.

"After the accident, organizers tried a laser light show which just didn't go over well," said Dean Davenport, long time Charlevoix resident and organizer of the Venetian games. "The community then rallied together and decided they really needed to keep the festival and the fireworks going because it was just a big homecoming and everyone wanted it to continue."

Davenport, who served as Charlevoix's recreation director for several years, and was a long-time coach and athletic director at Ferris State University, began really working on the festival in the late 1990s in an attempt to bring in more competitive events.

He also helped take the festival from just a weekend, to a week-long event.

"At the time, we had a few things going on like the basketball tournament and the road race," Davenport explained. "But as junior golf director, and being involved in tennis, I helped bring that to the mix, and then added the softball tournament, and so on. We've just added so many things over the years it's hard to even list them all."

New basketball coach hired

ANDY SNEDDON

Charlevoix High School didn't have to look far for its new boys' basketball coach.

And though Adam Wood may be relatively young, he has a Rayder pedigree and is a Keith Haske protégé, two factors that give him a solid grasp on what many may consider a daunting task: Filling the shoes of the man who built Charlevoix into a perennial basketball power and one of the state's best.

"They are big shoes to fill and coach Haske has been the greatest mentor I could have ever asked for," said Wood, 28, whose hiring was approved Monday by a unanimous vote of the Charlevoix School Board. (Board members Valerie Snyder and Bo Boss were absent.) "My hope is to come in and continue the legacy that (Haske) has built, to continue to develop these young men both on the court and off the court.

It's a very exciting time. It's a new step. I wouldn't say it's a new direction, (but) a new face, and I'm super excited to continue what we've built here."

When Wood says "what we've built," he means it

Vandalism forces 'Music Man Jr.' production to relocate

Recent vandalism at Petoskey High School has prompted officials with the Northern Michigan Youth Theatre to relocate their upcoming production of "Music Man Jr." to the Petoskey High School auditorium.

Ann Chatterson, the theater group's publicity chairwoman, said the troupe recently learned that thousands of dollars-worth of repairs needed to the middle school's air conditioning system in the wake of last month's vandalism will not be completed before the production begins.

Chatterson said the high school auditorium has 200 fewer seats than the middle school's, so she's encouraging people to buy their tickets early.

She noted that the last-minute change required some significant effort on the part of school district staff and others.

"This (change) was not easy since the high school is undergoing its own summer repairs and updates and other groups (such as the marching band) use the high school stage for their own rehearsals. Carl Brien, band director, was willing to adjust his rehearsals in order to accommodate this emergency move and an army of volunteers quickly stepped in to relocate costumes, scenery and props to the high school. The actions of these few vandals certainly have rippled into a lot of people's lives," Chatterson said.

The Northern Michigan Youth Theatre, which includes a cost of 40 students in grades four through college from all over Northern Michigan, will present "Music Man Jr." at 7 p.m. on today, Wednesday, July 14 through Saturday, July 17 and at 2 p.m. on Sunday, July 18 at the Petoskey High School auditorium.

Garden's bounty feeds more than just the body

Every year my kitchen garden provides food for thought as well as food for the body. Part of my small plot was certainly once the place where kitchen and household trash was thrown, as witnessed by the half-dollar sized pieces of broken glass dishes and bowls. These along with the bits of crockery painted with the glazes of roses, daisies and even the bright blue of oriental cups and bowls. I have yet to find any two pieces that fit together. Some very much rusted bits of iron have surfaced, including what looks like part of the rim of a small iron bowl or kettle. Botanists like me spend a lot of time looking at the ground for small plants or just emerging sprouts, so it seems natural that I would come upon the hits and pieces of civilization that have been discarded.

Last summer a tennis-ball sized chunk of the famous Norwood banded chert used by native Americans to make chipped stone tools cropped up, and it looked as though it had been purposefully chipped on several of its faces. A long-ago archaeologist friend from Iowa showed me the difference between stone chips made by a person, and the sort of chipping that might be from the slings and arrows of time itself.

Last summer's best find was four small spheres about the size of musket balls, that seemed to be marbles, and might be made of softer stone or fired clay.

This spring I looked more diligently after each rainfall or watering episode, and found a good handful of sharp-edged chert chips, many with the same banding pattern of the larger piece found the previous year. Finally, about two weeks ago, as the summer squash hills were closing off my view of the newly washed ground surface, there, exposed on the surface was a genuine projectile point, almost two and a half inches long.

I can now visualize someone several centuries ago, who is sitting by a fire on the site of my back yard garden, chipping the tools needed for living from a rock carried here from near Norwood. People were here long before there was a Charlevoix, or even a Pine River, leaving us almost eternal clues to the past.

It makes a person wonder what artifacts of our life will still be recognizable after several centuries.

A garden can provide food for the body, food for thought and fuel for the imagination. May a thousand gardens bloom.

There are too many pets at the humane society. So some of those pets could come to the pet shop.

The only pets it needs are cats, dogs, birds, fish, hamsters, guinea pigs and rabbits. That's enough to make lots of money. That's why we need a pet shop in Charlevoix.

That was all of my reasons why we should get a pet shop. I hope we get one soon. Lots of people would take care of them. That's why.

BASEBALL FIELD

Dear Editor:

I would like to change where the baseball field is because it takes five-10 minutes just to drive through town and wait through all that traffic during the summer to get to our baseball games and practices. So I think we should move the baseball field closer into town. And while they are moving the field, they should make it better in different ways too. They should not only move the baseball field but the softball and the tee-ball field as well. I will explain three reasons to you why we should move and change the field.

In my opinion we should turn the whole infield to dirt. If you have ever played baseball or softball you would know that when someone hits a grounder on the grass it usually ends up popping up. Many kids have gotten hurt.

At one game someone hit a grounder and at the last second it popped up and hit one of my friends in the face and he lost two of his teeth and got a bloody lip. But usually it just ends up hitting them in the shins or it hits them in their arm, if they don't catch it. It would also save some money because they won't have to pay for the sprinklers to water the grass. Then we don't have to worry about getting the dirt in their motors while they cross over to mow the grass.

The second reason is that we should move the baseball fields away from the airport. Whenever an airplane takes off the batter usually looks and gets nervous, the pitcher and the infielders and outfielders will lose their concentration during the game and they are most likely to mess up the play. As you can see the airplanes are very disturbing.

My final reason is that we should move it closer into town, like some where down at Lake Michigan beach. There, more people could watch the players and give them encouragement once they are done swimming and after the game the players could go cool off in the water. There probably would be more tourists who would could watch the kids play and they would maybe buy more snacks from the concession stand and we will get more money. Kids can also walk to their games and practices if their parents are still at work or they don't have time to take them.

In conclusion I think we should move and change the fields. It would make a lot of players and parents happy and will make getting to games and practices easier.

Sincerely,
Alex Kleiber

INDOOR WATER PARK

Dear Editor:

Isn't it a shame that no one can spend a lot of time in the water, in Northern Michigan? Wouldn't it be cool if you could spend as much time in the water as you wanted to, all through the year? If you had an indoor water park, it would be fun for kids and adults, every day of the year.

An indoor water park will bring business to local businesses and to the indoor water park all year round. People, who visit the indoor water park, will need to eat at local restaurants and shop at local stores. Therefore, stores that sell to tourists will be able to stay open in the winter. Also the money brought in from businesses will keep stores from leaving town.

An indoor water park can last all through the year. It would be fun in the indoor sun. In the winter, it would just be like summer — never ending fun! During winter it wouldn't have to close down because of the chilly Jack Frost air.

Building an indoor water park does not only bring money in, but it also brings in jobs. Creating new jobs would help because so many people are unemployed. People with new jobs have money they can spend in town. Because the indoor water park will increase the tourism in town, stores will have to hire more employees.

An indoor water park can benefit everyone. It won't just benefit the owner, but it will also benefit the town. The indoor water park will be entertaining and will provide jobs for the community.

Sincerely,
Ellie Ackerman

SCHOOL BUDGET SHOULD BE BETTER

Dear Editor:

I think that our school deserves better than what we get for a budget.

I think it would be well spent on more field trips and that means firsthand experience for future jobs. That's what school is for, right? It's more fun so people pay attention, too. Everyone wins in my way of seeing it. Kids have fun, teachers get to teach us new things, and the people giving us the tour keep getting paid by their boss.

Another reason is maintenance of supplies and the school. We could get new computers and fix things that would improve the quality of education.

Third, teachers need to be paid more because they work very hard and need more appreciation for it. Overall they deserve it and I say they get it.

That's what I have to say on the subject. More field trips, maintenance, and pay teachers more.

Sincerely,
Josh Hinkley

A SCIENCE CENTER WOULD BE FUN

Editor:

My family and I just moved here from Toledo, Ohio. One of the things I miss is a fun place to learn about science. It was our science center in downtown Toledo. I believe we should have one here too. It would provide jobs for some people. Most of our field trips were to the science center. Everyone would like it in my opinion. I loved to go there with my friends and

THANKS TO CASTLE FARMS

Editor:

The Bible instructs us to give honor to whom honor is due. So, in obedience to that directive and with joy in my heart, I would like to recognize an area establishment that has been a source of great blessing to our community and to our children. The owners of Castle Farms, Richard and Linda Mueller, have (for the second year in a row) donated the use of their facility for our community vacation Bible school program. We were blessed not only with the use of their facilities, but also friendly and helpful staff were ever present to serve. What a tremendous gift to our community.

Seven area congregations joined together for this area ministry, and many individuals worked tirelessly so that we could minister to the children of the Charlevoix area and share the wonderful gospel of Jesus Christ with them. The endeavor was truly a community-wide Christian ministry. Yet, it was a unique and special privilege to be able to host our program at this incredible location.

Thank you, Richard and Linda. You have been a channel of Christ's grace to so many. May you both be blessed with all spiritual blessings in Christ Jesus.

Gratefully,
Rev. Dan Gilmore,
 Charlevoix Ministerial Association chairman

P.S. The mission offering that was received through the week of Bible school totaled $365. The sponsoring churches partially matched this offering for a total $1,045.

This offering, in its entirety, has already been sent to help purchase school desks for a Christian school in Nicaragua. Praise the Lord!

VENETIAN FESTIVAL NEEDS YOUR SUPPORT

Editor:

The 80th Venetian Festival is here and if you are one of the many who enjoy it, we need your support. The cost of Venetian exceeds $250,000. The four largest expenses are fireworks, insurance, kid's day and music, most of which have no practical way to charge admission. Some may not realize that unlike the Cherry Festival and others, the Venetian Festival is organized and managed by an all-volunteer group of people.

Venetian is not run by the city or the chamber, even though both contribute in many ways as do the surrounding townships.

We are acutely aware of our tough economic times, however, if those who do enjoy and participate in Venetian could just give $25 to $100 for a week's worth of phenominal entertainment for the entire family, we would not have to beg others to contribute thousands of dollars. For those that are able, we need you to contribute a reasonable amount for your family circumstances. For those unable this year, you are always welcome to enjoy the events and, hopefully, you will find yourself in a position to contribute next year.

We have all seen articles in the paper explaining that communities three times the size of Charlevoix could not raise one tenth of our budget for their Fourth of July fireworks. Our insurance alone is more than what they could not raise. I think that speaks volumes about the kind of support this small town shows.

Please send your donation today to the Charlevoix Venetian Festival, P.O. Box 120, Charlevoix, MI 49720, so we are not forced to make significant cutbacks to our 80th Venetian Festival. Venetian has become a homecoming celebration for the entire community and we need your support to make sure the tradition continues.

TOWNSHIP RESIDENTS

Editor:

On Tuesday evening (July 6) I attended the Charlevoix City Council meeting regarding the Ike Boss termination matter.

Eight out of 10 "residents" that spoke at the meeting were not City of Charlevoix residents, but rather township residents, which is fine and dandy. After all, it was a public meeting. However, none of the aforementioned "residents" vote or pay taxes in the city of Charlevoix, but they were hell bent on wanting the city council to reverse the city manager's firing of Ike Boss. The "residents," were told repeatedly by Mayor Carlson that the city charter, which I am sure none of them have ever read, does not allow for the city council to be involved in personnel matters. If township residents want to be so involved in "city" matters, how about sharing in the huge expenses of recreation and other services that the city provides and all township residents enjoy?

Pool auction fundraiser to feature 'unusual venues'

STEVE ZUCKER COURIER EDITOR

Northern Michigan offers many nice places to get together with friends, but those attending this year's Charlevoix Area Pool annual auction will have an opportunity to bid on some very unique small-group party opportunities.

Organizers of the 21st annual Charlevoix Area Pool Auction, slated to start at 5 p.m. on Sunday, Aug. 8, at Castle Farms, have dubbed the event "Luau 2010" and encourage those attending to dress in their Hawaiian attire if they wish.

The event includes a silent auction that begins at 5 p.m. A sit-down dinner to be catered by the Grey Gables Inn will start at 7 p.m., and a live auction will start at 8 p.m.

Admission to the auction is $50 per person and reservations can be made by calling the pool office at (231) 547-0982. Organizers say the event often sells out.

Highlighting the roughly 15 items expected to be offered during this year's live auction will be nine opportunities to bid on small parties on each of Charlevoix's three lakes. Three locations will be offered on Lake Michigan, Lake Charlevoix and Round Lake. Among them are:

Overlooking Lake Michigan a wine tasting for six hosted by Esperance at the Earl Young-built Radandt House on Park Avenue. The house is among several Earl Young homes that will be featured at the Charlevoix Historical Society house tour on July 28.

Overlooking Round Lake, cocktails at Bill Sick's apartment above the shops in the 200 block of Bridge Street followed by dinner from A Matter of Taste and a sunset cruise on the Keweenaw Star.

A cocktail party with the Charlevoix Men's Chorus at the Belvedere Avenue home of Bob and Claudia Scherer. The evening includes a tour of the Sherer's home and boat house, which was once home to the storied yacht Sylvia IV.

Wine and cheese by Don's Market and dinner by the Grey Gables Inn for six people at the Michigan Avenue home of Dr. Rich VanDyne.

Other items that will be included in the auction include a cruise for two couples aboard the St. Mary's Cement boat Challenger, a tug boat ride, an airplane ride, a hot air balloon ride by Walloon Balloon, a ride in Mike Stowe's amphibious car and an Apple iPad, a new Apple iPhone 4.

In all, organizers expect to have about 200 items in the silent auction including a wide array of products and services.

Jean Van Dam of Van Dam

Wood Craft said the company has been a long-time supporter of the pool auction.

"The Charlevoix Area Community Pool fulfills a need that, with others, joins in making our community a leader in recreational activity. We are pleased to participate."

Pool board of directors member Bruce MacArthur said the auction is the single largest annual fundraiser for the pool, and it allows the pool to offer low-cost, lessons and swimming programs such as dollar nights.

MacArthur said based on the brisk pace of ticket sales to-date, he expects another sell-out.

The Charlevoix Area Community Pool, which opened in 1997, provides a wide array of aquatic-related programs such as swimming lessons, water therapy, swim teams, and open swim times. The pool typically sees about 30,000 swimmer visits per year.

Editor's note: Because of a production error, portions of a story appearing in the July 7 edition of the Charlevoix Courier about the upcoming annual Charlevoix Area Community Pool Auction were unintentionally omitted. Since that edition was published some additional details have become available. The complete amended story appears below.

Building interest in wooden boats

Local craftsman, organization hope to launch interest in wooden boat building

TINA SUNDELIUS SPECIAL TO THE COURIER

A project intended to engage volunteer help from local youth and educate onlookers about Charlevoix's maritime heritage has brought Northwest Academy graduate Grant Oliver back to Charlevoix.

Oliver, who recently completed a program at Great Lakes Boat Building School, will soon begin construction of a 15-foot sailing vessel east of Michigan beach.

Oliver was awarded a scholarship to the school by Sea Ports Great Lakes, a local organization dedicated to the preservation of Northern Michigan's maritime history, based on his unique interest in boat building.

At the school, Oliver enhanced his knowledge of basic wood working, spending the six weeks working only with hand tools.

By the end of his tenure at Great Lakes he had constructed skiffs, rowboats, a powerboat and sailboats.

"The school didn't rush onto the next project until you had mastered each skill," Oliver said.

"Wooden boat building is a dying thing and it's such an intricate part of Charlevoix's history."

Oliver is currently resurfacing and applying cosmetic updates to the "Wee Mac," a gaff rigged sloop owned by Sea Ports Great Lakes.

Richard Hodgson, a board member at Northwest Academy, has donated space in a warehouse on Bells Bay Road so Oliver could begin work on the "Wee Mac."

Oliver's goal is to get the Wee Mac in the water by the Venetian festival where it will be on display in Round Lake Harbor and will also be available for people to enjoy the experience of sailing in a unique wooden vessel.

Sea Ports Great Lakes has also secured Oliver's help on a project that they hope will create an educational attraction.

The organization is leasing property located south of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources and Environment fisheries building and near Michigan Beach where Oliver will publicly construct a 15-foot sailing vessel with the help of local volunteer youth.

"The project will be all handmade, no power tools involved," Oliver said.

The skeleton of the Atkin Launch sailing vessel was given to Oliver by John Bailey, a retired school administrator. "Because Oliver has become so dedicated to his craft and interest," Northwest Academy Director of Development Gary Stutzman said.

"It's so neat to see it all coming to a head with Grant being available to use the skills he's learned," Stutzman said.

"It's a great project, I hope it will draw the attention of the youth in the area and I hope it gets them interested in wooden boat building and Charlevoix history," Oliver said.

On the big stage

Charlevoix's Jetty Rae to share the name with big-name performers at Clarkston's DTE Energy Music Theater

TINA SUNDELIUS
SPECIAL TO THE COURIER

Charlevoix native and up and coming recording artist Jetty Rae said she's met plenty of dream makers and dream breakers in her young, but growing music career.

One dream will come true for Rae when she takes the stage during the Lilith Fair Concert at the DTE Energy Music Theatre along with Miranda Lambert, Sarah McLachlan, Cara Salimando, Kate Nash, Court Yard Hounds, Chantal Kreviazuk, Suzanne Vega, Lights and Vita Chambers on July 21.

"There are plenty of people that look at you with a dream breaker perspective," Rae said. "But thank God there are others who listen and love to hear you."

Rae is Charlevoix's Brittni Stewart, daughter of Kathleen and Tyvin Whittaker, founders of the Raganuffin Theatre and Company.

Brittni's stage name, Jetty Rae, was the name of her paternal grandmother who died in 2006 of cancer.

"She was a free spirit, a hitch-hiking woman," Rae said.

Rae's first album "Blackberries" was a tribute to her grandmother.

"I have a lot of young fans who e-mail me and ask me, how do I get started, how do I do what you're doing?" Rae said. "I laugh because I'm a nobody in this, nobody knows my name."

Rae's advice to her young fans: "Take pride in what you're doing, work hard when no one else is watching."

Rae joined Raganuffin at age 12 where she received vocal and dramatic training but "when I started singing and playing guitar I would get real anxious, getting into character didn't translate for me. I couldn't hide behind a costume or a set. It was all very raw for me," Rae said.

Rae attended classical lessons with Fran Tollas at the Crooked Tree Arts Council and was given her first guitar while in high school.

"The passion for singing was always there, there was a lot of self doubt and I was not sure how far I could go with it because every little girl wants to be a singer," said Rae.

Brian Cornett, Rae's cousin and a musician became her guitar teacher and mentor during her high school years.

"After high school I went to Hawaii and that's when I really started getting into playing the guitar and enjoying it," she said.

Rae began singing with a rap and hip hop group called "Soul Chronicle" while in Kona, Hawaii.

"We toured the Islands and China. I would sing and they would rap. I was able to overcome some stage fright during that time."

"When I came back from Hawaii, I recorded 'Blackberries,' I hired cellists, bassist, violinists. I wasn't sure what I was doing but I was still doing it.

"A lot of people think that there's not any room for them. (But) there's room for everybody especially creatively. There's no one that's going to have your perspective or style. You just need to find your niche."

"If you like writing and singing, go to the open mics, go to the coffee shops, I would view it as practice, I didn't get paid," Rae added. "Despise not the day of small beginnings, you have to start somewhere. Everyone you admire had to start somewhere. Patience, this may be small but it's never insignificant."

Rae is currently working on her second album. Her music can be accessed at jettyrae.com.

(But) there's room for every-

Pat Tinney is this year's Venetian artist

STEVE ZUCKER
COURIER EDITOR

After roughly three decades living and working here, many in Northern Michigan are familiar with Pat Tinney's paintings. Many more will be when the 80th Venetian Festival kicks off Saturday.

Tinney, an East Jordan resident and art teacher at East Jordan Schools for the past 27 years, was the artist behind this year's Venetian Festival art work.

For the next week and a half — and well beyond — people will see her design everywhere around Charlevoix.

And on Friday, July 23, the original work will be auctioned off following the coronation of Miss Charlevoix with the proceeds going to benefit the festival.

Tinney, who is married to local pediatrician Dr. Rod Tinney, said she sold her first painting when she was 12 years old. She said she was sitting on a beach on the East Coast (where she grew up) painting a lighthouse and a man came along and offered her $15 for the watercolor.

She said that first sale gave her the notion that art could be her calling.

Since that time, Tinney has gone on to become an accomplished artist, working mostly in watercolors. She currently has a body of her work on display at the Dennis Museum in Traverse City.

Tinney describes herself as a "plein air" painter, which roughly translates to an outside, or "on location" painter.

And that's exactly how she came up with this year's Venetian design — She set up her easel along Bridge Street in downtown Charlevoix, looked around, and painted the landmarks she saw.

Up next for Tinney is her annual painting visit to Beaver Island and the Portside Art Show in East Jordan on Aug. 7-8.

Charlevoix council: Our hands are tied Boss family holds off on mass resignations

STEVE ZUCKER
COURIER EDITOR

The Charlevoix City Council on Tuesday, July 6, told recently-fired city recreation director Ike Boss and the rest of the community that there is nothing it can do to reinstate Boss to his former position.

Mayor Norman "Boogie" Carlson Jr. told the standing-room-only crowd in the city council chambers Tuesday that provisions in the city charter prohibit the city council from forcing the city manager to hire or re-hire a department head, such as Boss.

On June 24, city manager Rob Straebel fired Boss from the position he had held for the past 35 years. Straebel initially declined to comment on the reasons behind Boss' firing. But documents in Boss' personnel file pointed towards the manner in which he handled a March sledding accident at Mount McSaubia and the way Boss was using and documenting his work time.

Boss, who had asked to be placed on the meeting's agenda, said nothing at the meeting except to indicate that his nephew and former subordinate Mount McSaubia Recreation Manager Bo Boss would be speaking on his behalf.

Bo started off with an apology, saying, "the family would like to apologize that this has escalated to the point that it has."

"Ike comes here tonight without any legal representation; to try to resolve this matter and retain some of his dignity," Bo said.

He said he believes the written reprimand and one-day suspension Ike received over the sledding accident and Straebel's ongoing requirements for him to document his work time in the weeks that followed were all "harassment" aimed at getting rid of Ike.

"The Boss family has been accused of many things, but being stupid is not one of them. We have a paper trail going on this and we're going to put it to good use," Bo said.

Bo went on to refute the claims Straebel made regarding the Saturday, March 6 sledding accident. He said he was on duty on the day of the accident and that the incident was never dispatched through any city staff. He said he only learned of the accident when he heard ambulance sirens heading to the area. He said that although he and another employee did respond to the sledding hill, no one from Mount McSaubia ever had any contact with the patient. He said since staff had no contact with the patient, no report was initially completed. He said this is the normal procedure in such circumstances.

Bo said Ike was notified about the accident about an hour after it happened. He said two days later (on Monday) Ike asked that a report be completed. He said the report was completed after business hours on Monday, that Mount McSaubia was closed on Tuesday and that the report was sitting on a desk at Mount McSaubia when Straebel delivered the written reprimand and suspension notice to Ike on Wednesday, March 10.

Bo added that in the wake of the accident, a letter from the city's insurance provider indicated that there was nothing that could have been done by staff to prevent the accident, and that praised the city for its safe operation of the ski area.

"I don't understand where this dereliction of duty accusation came about," Bo said.

Bo said he thinks the issue is rooted in objections he and Ike voiced during a budgeting session in February to the proposed elimination of all city lifeguard positions.

He said Straebel's "harassment" of Ike started the very next day.

"Daily, two or three times a day, Rob would come down and reprimand or belittle (Ike)," Bo said.

A short time later, Straebel provided what he described as generalized reasons why Ike was terminated. Straebel said his goal was to balance governmental transparency with protecting Ike's privacy.

Straebel said he made the decision to fire Boss after much deliberation, knowing full well that it would be an unpopular decision.

He said that he determined that there were substantive issues with Ike's job performance and that in his opinion, "Mr. Boss' job performance was not to the standard set out by the city council."

In listing some of the factors that led him to fire Ike, Straebel pointed to the way he handled the sledding accident, submitting "sub-standard grant applications," failure to maintain agreed upon office hours, improper use of time, failure to respond to e-mails, and an unwillingness to work with other department heads on the budget.

A number of people spoke in Ike's defense lauding him for the good facilities and recreation programs that the city enjoys today; for the many hours he worked both in his job and as an advocate for the city, and saying it's unfair for the city to fire someone with 35 years of service over what some described as minor issues.

When all the comments were completed, Carlson explained the limitations of the city's charter.

"What you are asking us to do is an impossible feat for the council," Carlson said. "The only avenue that Ike would have would be to take up his issue with the city manager," he said.

Later, when someone in the audience suggested that the council could fire the city manager, Carlson responded, "I would say that you'd have a hard time getting the council to fire the city manager."

Carlson then asked Bo Boss if he would like to tender resignations on behalf of himself and other members of his family, has he had said he would be prepared to do at the meeting in a letter written to the Charlevoix Courier shortly after Ike was fired.

Bo's response was that the family would like to confer with an attorney about their options and "take it from there."

"The only way it seems we can take care of this is to run some different people for office," Bo said.

On Monday, July 12, Straebel said he has had no communication from the Boss family since the July 6 meeting.

Speaking to the Courier early Tuesday, Ike Boss said he is still considering all of his options, as are the other members of this family.

A message left late Monday seeking an update from Bo Boss was not returned prior to the Courier's Tuesday press time.

literally. The 2000 Charlevoix graduate was a sophomore when Haske came to the school, and he was a key member of Haske's first two really good teams, 1998-99 and 1999-2000, helping lay the foundation for what unfolded as a sensational run of more than a decade of Rayder basketball. Those two squads went a combined 40-12 with back-to-back district and regional championships. The 1998-99 team advanced to the state semifinals, the 1999-2000 team to the quarterfinals.

Wood

Wood, who earned his degree in education in 2006 from Grand Valley State University, has been the Rayder freshman coach/varsity assistant under Haske for the past three seasons.

"He was one of the first people to call," Wood said of Haske, who left Charlevoix a month ago for Traverse City St.

Francis. "We usually talk every few days. He will continue to be a mentor for me no matter where he is. He was one of the people who encouraged me and made me want to do what I'm doing today."

of several teachers in the system who took a leave at the end of the 2009-10 school year because of budget cuts. He is in his 10th summer working as a counselor at Camp McSaubia. Born and raised in Charlevoix,

"I'll do everything in my power to build a team that you are proud of both on and off the court"

Adam Wood

the son of Marilyn and Traver Wood said he's fully aware of the pressure and expectations that come with being the head man, particularly one who is replacing a legend.

"I feel prepared, being molded by coach Haske, that I can continue the shape of the program and the way he built it up," he said, adding that the pressure "comes with the territory."

"There is high pressure, but at the same time I'm thrilled to be in my hometown. I always wanted to come back and coach. That was my hope eventually."

Haske put together an unmatched record at Charlevoix, compiling a 240-77 mark with the boys' program including 10 district championships, six regional titles, four state semifinal appearances, and two state runner-up finishes.

And while Haske is gone, the prototypical Rayder — the kind Haske used as so many building blocks on so many of those teams — remains. One of them is the new man in charge.

"Since I was about 9 years old," Wood said, "I'd always looked forward to being a Rayder basketball player, ever since I picked up a basketball."

"There are so many reasons for the success we've had since coach Haske's been here ... When you know you have the opportunity to play, you put in the time on your own. We're blessed with a lot of kids who enjoy being in the gym."

"I am looking forward to continuing that style of play."

District superintendent Chet Janik said the Wood was one of six people who applied for the head boys' varsity basketball coaching position. He was recommended for the post by a committee made up, district athletic director Brian Certa, Scott Kelly, Dick Swenor, Dean Davenport and Tom Kirinovic, who recently retired as athletic director for Ferris State University.

"I'll do everything in my power to build a team that you are proud of both on and off the court," Wood told the school board Monday.

sporting events during the festival is the Ryan Shay Memorial Mile.

The race is dedicated to marathon runner, Ryan Shay, a graduate of Central Lake High School. Shay died while competing in the 2007 Olympic Marathon trials in New York City.

"The name is just so well known in this area, and so many come out to watch the race, it's really quite a sight," Davenport said.

The race is by invitation only, and prize money is awarded to the winners. This year, three Kenyan runners are scheduled to compete.

"We've actually had to turn some very successful collegiate runners away which is always hard to do," Davenport said. "We've had phone calls from coaches asking why their successful runners aren't able to compete, but we only have so much room."

The festival is run by volunteers. This year, Miller estimates that are more than 400.

"We've had some of the same volunteers help year after year," Miller said. "It really shows that this is a community event and how important it is to the city."

Davenport joked that he has been a festival volunteer since a very young age.

"My father was the chamber director when I was little, and he had gone out and sold all this advertising for the festival brochure," Davenport explained. "We were in his office as the fireworks were going off, and here was the stack of brochures. He forgot to pass them out. So my sister and I ran and handed them to everyone we could. So I guess you could say I've been a festival volunteer for a long, long time."

Both Davenport and Miller said it's that spirit held by hundreds of festival volunteers, that has really kept the festival going all these years.

"The volunteers really take pride in all they do and they do it well," Miller explained. "It's really what makes this such a great event and brings in thousands of people to our town every year."

Parker earns engineering accolades

STEVE ZUCKER
COURIER EDITOR

The Society of Automotive Engineers Detroit Section recently awarded 2006 Charlevoix High School graduate Stephen Parker with its 2009 Outstanding Young Member Award.

Parker, 21, is the co-president of the Oakland University chapter of the society and is majoring in mechanical engineering. He is the son of Cynthia M. Czerkic-Parker of Petoskey and Scott W. Parker of Charlevoix.

Established in 1976, the award recognizes younger members who have done an outstanding job in advancing the section's contributions to the automotive arts and sciences. The SAE Detroit Section consists of students from some of the region's top schools, including the University of Michigan, Lawrence Technological University and Wayne State University. With an estimated 12,000 members, it is the largest SAE section in the world.

According to a university press release on the award, Parker said the award was based mostly on the growth and change that the Oakland University chapter has seen over the past year. He noted that the chapter grew from nine to 27 members in that time.

Parker was nominated for the award by Brian Sangeorzan, associate professor of mechanical engineering and faculty advisor for Oakland's association chapter.

"Part of running the SAE chapter here at OU is team management," Sangeorzan said. "That's not always easy when people are working full time and going to class. Stephen is really good at bringing people together and keeping them motivated and focused."

Parker also oversaw the construction of the car the chapter entered and raced in the recent Formula SAE collegiate competition at Michigan International Speedway in May. He was also the team member who raced the car during the event. Out of the 120 schools that entered Oakland placed 36th.

The car has or will be making several appearances at events throughout the summer including the Woodward Dream Cruise, the Meadowbrook Concours d'Elegance and Rockin' Rods in Rochester.

Parker also recently accepted a six month internship with Volkswagen of Auburn Hills.

City restores Venetian funding

STEVE ZUCKER
COURIER EDITOR

The Charlevoix City Council has restored $3,000 in funding to the Charlevoix Venetian Festival that it had cut during budget discussions earlier this year.

The council, by a 4-2 vote (with council members Greg Stevens and Dennis Kusina voting no) agreed to restore its contribution to the festival to the $15,000 amount it has paid in the past instead of the reduced $12,000 amount it approved at the time the budget was passed in the spring.

The change came on the heels of a request from Charlevoix Venetian Festival, Inc. board president Dan Barron.

In late June, Barron came to the Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority board asking for the extra money. That board said it would make the contribution if the city council declined.

The downtown development authority took that path based on the recommendation of city treasurer Rick Brandi who said that, if the additional money were to be offered, it could be better absorbed by the city's general fund promotions budget than the authority's budget.

Brandi noted that the downtown development authority's budget will be "tight" for the next couple of years as bond payments will be due on work that took place in Bridge and East parks.

The council also voted to halve the $6,500, it expects to bill the festival organization for trash removal by city crews. That measure passed by a 5-1 margin with Stevens voting no.

In other business, the council chose not to take action on a proposal by city manager Rob Straebel to hire two additional season employees to help with brush pickup around the city.

Straebel said the additional help would cost the city about $3,300. He said he brought the proposal after fielding some complaints from city residents about how long brush piles have been remaining on some city curbsides.

Property left behind will be collected by security staff and stowed in a secured area nearby where items can be claimed the next day.

Venetian seating policy revised

STEVE ZUCKER
COURIER EDITOR

Organizers of the Venetian Festival have instituted a new seating policy for the Rhythms of Venetian concerts during this year's festival.

The new policy will require concert-goers to remove all chairs, blankets and other property from the seating areas at the Odmark Pavilion venue at the end of each night's performances.

Property left behind will be collected by security staff and stowed in a secured area nearby where items can be claimed the next day.

The policy also prohibits people from placing chairs, blankets or "other means of reserving space" prior to noon on Tuesday-Friday and prior to 8 a.m. on Saturday.

The policy also creates a "blanket zone" in the level, grass area immediately to the north of the stage. In this area only blankets and chairs no higher than eight inches from the ground will be allowed.

The policy also requires that people sitting in the terraced seating areas, use the space in a way that spectators may sit "at least two rows deep."

In explaining the new policy to the Charlevoix City Council at its July 6 meeting, festival board president Dan Barron said the policy was developed in response to problems that have cropped up in recent years where people have been staking out their seating area on Tuesday and leaving their items there for the rest of the week.

He said the new policy will not only make for a more fair and orderly opportunity for spectators to obtain seating locations for the concerts, but it will also make daily clean-up of the grounds easier.

The entire policy will be posted at various locations around the pavilion and at www.charlevoixcourier.com

Venetian board: Help us keep festival strong

STEVE ZUCKER
COURIER EDITOR

As organizers of the 80th annual Charlevoix Venetian Festival are busy finalizing the last-minute details for this year's event, they are already looking to the future of the community's biggest summer event.

And their main message to the community is, "We need your help."

As members of the festival's board of directors and co-chairs of the sponsorship committee, Dan Barron and John Winn are no strangers to asking people and businesses for significant "help" (money) for the festival.

But as the start of this year's festival draws near, they are putting out a call for another sort of help: Smaller donations and volunteers.

The men said that, although they are well aware of the economic times, they are asking people who come to enjoy the festival — much of which is free of charge — to consider making a donation that fits into their budget to help offset the festival's roughly $250,000 cost.

"If just some of the thousands who attend the festival each year would donate $50, that would add up pretty fast," Winn said.

The organization also needs more volunteers, Barron said. He noted that the same core group of people have been overseeing the festival since it began 12 years ago. He said the organization could really use an infusion of fresh blood to help with the daunting task of organizing and running each year's event.

For more information on contributing to, or volunteering with the Charlevoix Venetian Festival, contact the organization's office at (231) 547-3872 or via email cvf@barronengstrom.com

Beautiful Beach Bash

Boaters lounge on their boats near Ferry Beach Saturday as they soak up the sun and sounds of the second annual Venetian Festival Beach Bash. Unlike last year, Mother Nature smiled on this year's festival kick-off event. The 80th Venetian Festival continues through Saturday with a whole host of activities culminating with the lighted boat parade and fireworks. See page 15 for more photos from Saturday's events.

Police: Play it safe during Venetian

CHRISTINA ROHN
NEWS-REVIEW STAFF
WRITER

Charlevoix's Venetian Festival is a highly anticipated event, which draws nearly double the population of Charlevoix each summer.

Gerard Doan, chief of the Charlevoix City Police Department, said normally, Charlevoix's population is around 30,000 during the summer months. However, he says, when the festival hits, the population can spike to around 60,000.

With a crowd of this size, in a town that is home to around 3,000 people in the off-season, Doan says things can get pretty tight, hectic and, at times, dangerous.

In an effort to handle the crowds and stifle possible crime, Doan said he brings out his entire department — nine officers — as well as enlists the help of the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department. "Usually we get up to two or four deputies," he said. "Typically, you can see 10 officers on foot down in East Park for the fireworks ... the mere presence of us deters a lot of problems we might have."

Doan said the most common issue that arises each year during the festival is drunk and disorderly conduct.

"This has been a deterrent over the years, but I think it's something you'd find at any big festival throughout the state," he said. "Just be careful on how many alcoholic beverages you partake in — we want to see everyone come here safely and get home safely."

Another primary concern for officers is traffic control and pedestrian safety.

Doan said about three years ago one of his officers was struck by a vehicle, and several years before that, a pedestrian was hit. Both sustained minor injuries.

Drivers, Doan says, need to be prepared to wait if they're trying to get through town during the festival.

"There are going to be delays — you're not going to be able to get through town quickly," he said. "Also, during the nights of the fireworks, be aware that officers are out at intersections to help people get in and out safely."

As far as pedestrians are concerned, Doan said they also need to be alert when attempting to cross the road.

"Always keep an eye out for vehicles," he said. "I would recommend them to stay on the sidewalks, or cross at the crosswalks."

When it comes to families, Doan said the most important thing is for everyone to stay together, especially if they have small children.

"Keep an eye on your kids; a few always somehow get away from their parents," he said. "Fortunately, we've always found all of them."

Doan says another small problem his officers have is when people bring their furry friends to the celebration.

"There is an ordinance of no dogs in the park," he said. "I recommend people not bring their dogs out — all efforts would be greatly appreciated."

For the most part, Doan said he and his officers are there to assist the public in any situation.

"We're big ambassadors for the city," he said. "If people have questions about where to go, or where to eat, we refer them to wherever they need to be."

"On our behalf, we look forward to another safe and successful year — we hope people enjoy themselves."

Behold the splendor of summer in Charlevoix

Sprawled in bed my eyes look upwards towards the copper and mahogany colored ceiling fan. Still bleary-eyed from sleep I see the blades whirling overhead as I listen to the gentle hum of its motor. Curtains the color of fresh linen gently sway as if saying, "Hello it's another new day." It's a scene reminiscent of a Humphrey Bogart film and I soak it all in knowing all too well that in a few months the windows will be secured and the scene will change in a heartbeat to a clip from Dr. Zhivago.

As the curtains move forward, I see leaves the color of earth rustling in the wind. Something I can view without getting out of bed or in need of glasses in order to enjoy. Knowing that I have freshly roasted coffee beans waiting for me to grind is what prompts me to get out of bed on this warm and glorious summer day. That and the farmers market where daisies mixed with delphiniums and tasting morsels of chocolate zucchini bread and bagel bites tempts me further.

It's not just Hemingway who loved this neck of the woods. Summer-time is so beautiful in Northern Michigan you get up early just so you don't miss any of it. I swear the bottom of the lake has been painted white overnight creating various hues of blue making me wonder if a palm tree isn't planted somewhere nearby. It's a warmer summer than I can remember. Rows of sweet corn are plentiful with bragging rights that each stalk was more than knee high by the fourth of July. Long and sweet tasting green beans, leafy lettuce, fragrant dill and cilantro abound in my small but powerful little garden.

A LOOK AT LIFE

This summer is flying by as we are already in the midst of the Venetian Festival marking the halfway point of summer and warm weather like a barometer that comes with an alarm clock.

Whew! It's been a busy couple of past weeks. My husband and I thoroughly enjoyed listening to an update on the latest information from the Great Lakes Wind Council. This task force is busy examining issues and making policy recommendations related to offshore wind energy development in Michigan. In my own naïveté, I hadn't realized all the information that needed to be gathered in order to determine where a wind turbine would best meet the needs for all of us. Like my real estate agent said, "Location, location, location." I am thankful for dynamic and dedicated individuals and the board and staff of the Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council for keeping us educated and caring so deeply about energy resource and protecting our water.

This year's garden walk was another spectacular event, well-organized and well-attended. The flowers didn't wilt in the humidity though many of us welcomed the air conditioned transportation provided by the event planners. On another front, the Char-Em United Way is kicking off some fun projects and I am excited to be a part of their little film advertising the good they are doing in our community.

Jazz at the Library continues to provide music to tap our toes to and hum words I can't remember. But it all feels good and we can watch it in the comfort of a beautiful garden compliments of the Charlevoix Public Library. East Park has already been host to artists sharing their wares and local talented musicians who relish in entertaining us with sounds old and new. Whether it's music or art, it's a joy, and the sights and sound are free as well as the heartwarming sounds of children squealing in delight as they try to stomp on the largest water spout in the interactive fountain. Who can resist a man-made geyser complete with music, multi-colored lights and the added sounds of children for all who are within earshot? Yes, my friends, this is summer in Charlevoix. It's definitely worth getting up and out and about. I for one am looking forward to another day.

LETTERS to the editor

CITY, TOWNSHIP WORK TOGETHER FOR GOOD OF ALL

Editor:

This letter is in response to the letter from Shirley Gibson published July 14, 2010 in the Charlevoix Courier. In her letter she strongly implies that residents of Charlevoix Township do not contribute at all to the City of Charlevoix for anything. I feel that she should be informed that the township has, for many years, been a financial as well as an in-kind contributor to the Venetian Festival. The township contributed $7,000 last year for the operation of the ski hill. Also, the township recreational facilities are used by city residents year round and during the Venetian Festival at no charge to the city or the festival committee. The clean-up after the festival's use of the facilities is done by the township employees at no charge to the committee. The cost of the EMS is also partially paid for Charlevoix Township as well as the other surrounding townships. Perhaps she is not aware that Charlevoix Township has constructed and given to the City more than $1,369,000-worth of sewer lines. Also, township residents pay a premium of 50 percent more than what city residents pay for water, sewer, and use of city recreational facilities. However, city residents who use the recreational facilities of the township pay absolutely nothing.

I think that Ms. Gibson should be aware of the working relationships and cooperation between Charlevoix Township and the City of Charlevoix which is beneficial to all the residents of our area. It appears that she seems to have a provincial attitude of township versus city. I urge her to take a much broader view of our area. We are all in this together.

LEAVE FOUNTAIN ON LATER

Editor:

People should use the East Park fountain at night. If we could use the fountain in the evening, kids and their families would be able to see the pretty lights, listen to the fun music, and the fountain would also draw tourists seeing it in the night. People are more likely to be downtown in the night. People will also be downtown for special events and concerts. People might go to the fountain in the evening because they might not be done until late at night. Kids don't get home till late so they can't go play in the fountain, or see how beautiful the lights are.

Children and youth need a safe place where they can hang out and have fun. There aren't a lot of places to hang out and East Park is a good place for families to do just that. The fountain is fun for all ages.

The fountain turned out so nice, and it's a shame that it's not open late hours for people to enjoy it. It should be enjoyed as much as possible. People worked really hard to make such a nice place for kids to enjoy. I know I'm going to the fountain at night.

CHARLEVOIX NEEDS A DOG PARK

Editor:

Charlevoix has many dogs living here, so we should have a dog park.

Many tourists come to Charlevoix and usually bring their dogs. Tourists might stay in town longer if there was somewhere their dogs could play. Tourists would be glad to know that the citizens of Charlevoix care about their dogs and the happiness of others.

Lots of people live in apartments or condos and they don't have a yard to exercise their dogs in. If we had a dog park people that lived in places like these would be able to walk their dogs at the dog park. Also at some apartments you're not allowed to take your dog for a walk on the grass that grows around the apartments. This is mainly because other people might complain to the apartment manager about having a dog being walked around the apartments and making too much noise.

Dogs need their exercise to stay healthy and fit. A dog needs up to two or more hours of exercise a day. If a dog doesn't get enough exercise it will grow lazy and unhealthy.

Some dog owners can't control their dogs because they have too much energy. A dog will become disobedient without getting enough "play time."

Thank you for taking your time to read my letter about why Charlevoix needs a dog park.

Golf is good for Charlevoix

The following guest commentary was written by Charlevoix resident and Charlevoix Junior Golf program director Dean Davenport

'Tis the season to be jolly! Because it is golf season. Look around you. We are blessed with five wonderful courses, all within 8-9 miles of where we live here in Charlevoix the Beautiful.

We are a golfing community.

The Belvedere Course has the richest history and tradition, having hosted the State Amateur Tournament more times than any other Michigan course. Antrim Dells to the south has continued to attract and impress golfers with its beauty and "family friendliness." And now new management from the A-ga-ming Sundance and The Torch Courses guarantees the "Dells" will be offering exciting events this summer. Dunmaglas to the Northeast is working hard to please both the traveling polished golfer as well as local swingers with course improvements and events.

Our unique city course has never been better manicured and managed. It is a jewel and the envy of many municipalities. The final course and most recent, the Charlevoix Golf and Country Club will astonish you with its beauty and fabulous condition. And now a new management/ownership team from the club has "stepped up" to provide the area with a wonderful classic tournament, the 2010 Michigan PGA Senior Championship. Loren Musilek and Dave Mocini have done their homework and persuaded tournament officials that Charlevoix and the country club meet the requirements to provide tournament participants and fans with a "top notch" tournament. The event is scheduled for Aug. 1-3. It will be the pro-am tee off on Aug. 1.

Aug. 2-3 the Senior Championship will be held. Automatically it means golfers, families, fans, etc. will flock to our town where local businesses will benefit from the influx of people. We are all needed to help guarantee the event will be a success.

Event officials have designated the Charlevoix County Junior Golf Association to be the benefactor of the event. This popular program has had past fundraisers that have allowed for unique offerings to participants that have drawn attention from the National Junior Golf Association, which has ranked Charlevoix's program among the very top such programs in America. Averaging 150-160 juniors registered each year, cash for college book stipends have been awarded to seniors that have been in the program and been great role models to younger golfers. Six to eight scholarships are given to juniors with a special golf passion that enables them to attend the prestigious Ferris State University's week long golf camp, and two dozen juniors are selected to receive free season passes to the municipal course because of their golf potential.

Tournament planners want to continue this wonderful program and seeing the continued success of Charlevoix High School's championship golf team, realize many have benefited from the early introduction to the lifetime game of golf. For the size of our community, the passion for golf might be unmatched. Golf offers the opportunity to develop wonderful traits/attributes for youngsters that can be used for a lifetime.

Our town's heritage has been that of a golfing community. Now we all have the opportunity to step up and participate in a wonderful event. Volunteers to work at a variety of stations will be needed. This tournament sets Charlevoix apart from most towns. Take part and enjoy it. It is golf season and it's a time to be jolly for many of us. For more information contact Loren Musilek at (231) 547-6768.

Basketry event on tap

The Charlevoix County History Preservation Society will present "History of Native American Basketry — Focus: Transitional Basketry in Michigan," at 7 p.m. Monday, July 26, in the Lower Level Community room of the Boyne District Library in downtown Boyne City.

Speaker Karen Lewis, well-known exhibit curator and preservationist, has collected Native American baskets for many years. She will share some of her collection with us while giving a brief history of basketry, including construction methods and design. The focus will be on the transitional period in Michigan, when Native-Americans went from making baskets for their own survival needs to creating them for the survival of others. Guest are invited to bring their own baskets and ask questions of Lewis. The organization's annual meeting will take place immediately following Lewis' presentation. The program is free and open to the public. Call (231) 582-5326 for more information.

Veterans group breaks ground on memorial

BEAVER ISLAND — AMVETS Post 46 on Beaver Island has received the final permits and recently broke ground on the construction of a veterans memorial park to be located on the site of the old Beaver Island power plant on Main Street.

The park will include three flagpoles. One pole will fly the American flag. One pole will fly the Michigan flag, and the third pole will fly flags from each of the services on a rotating basis. One monument will list the names of those from Beaver Island who gave their lives in the service of their country. A second monument will pay tribute to all veterans who have served their country and a third monument will honor the Emmet Burke AMVETS Post 46.

In front of the monuments there will be three areas containing bricks with veterans names and dates and service affiliation. These are available to any veteran or families and friends who wishes to honor their veteran. The bricks are 4 x 8 inches and an 8 x 8 inches and are $100 and $200 respectively.

Order forms for bricks and questions and answers about the park are available on the website beaverislandnews.com or by e-mailing the post at amvetspost46@yahoo.com.

Post commander Bob Tidmore said the members of AMVET Post 46 are grateful to the St. James Township Board and Wolverine Power for their help and support in the project.

Donation offer could buoy lifeguard program

STEVE ZUCKER
COURIER EDITOR

Visitors to Charlevoix's Depot and Ferry beaches could still see lifeguards watching over swimmers yet this summer if a donor comes through with his offer to help fund the city's lifeguard program.

Speaking during a public comment portion of the Charlevoix City Council's July 6 meeting, Charlevoix Township resident Bill Shuiling lauded the city council for its work during difficult economic times and offered to donate up to $100,000 to the city to help fund its beach lifeguard program.

Earlier in the year, the city council cut lifeguard service at Ferry and Depot beach as part of a city-wide budget-cutting effort. Lifeguard service was not cut from Michigan Beach.

On Friday, July 16, Charlevoix City Manager Rob Straebel said city staff has been in contact with representative's from Shuiling's charitable trust fund to arrange for the transfer of the money to pay for the lifeguards, but said no money had yet come to the city for the program.

Straebel said as soon as the contribution funds come through, city staff will set to work looking for certified lifeguards to staff the two un-guarded beaches for the remainder of the summer.

Straebel said city staff have estimated that it costs about $15,000 per beach to provide lifeguard coverage seven days a week 11 a.m.-5:30 p.m. from roughly Memorial Day to Labor Day.

Shuiling told the city council that his donation was intended help pay for the lifeguards until the city can afford to do it on its own again.

At the same time Shuiling offered the money for the lifeguards, he also offered $150,000 to the Keep Charlevoix Beautiful organization. Shuiling said he offered the money so that the organization could hire someone in the event that Dale Boss wanted to retire from the Operation Petunia duties he has done on a volunteer basis since founding the organization in 1982.

Keep Charlevoix Beautiful board co-president Joe Vogelheim said the organization appreciates Shuiling's offer, and noted that the group is always in need of additional funding, but he said at this time Dale Boss is continuing in his role with the organization and has not given an indication he intends to retire.

Three injured in two weekend ORV crashes

Three young people were injured in two separate off-road vehicle crashes over the weekend.

Charlevoix County Sheriff Don Schneider identified the injured as Kaitlyn Dumond, 16, and Jessica Laur, 15, both of Grand Rapids and Courtney Hawkins, 21, of East Jordan. All three were treated for their injuries at Charlevoix Area Hospital and released.

Authorities said the first crash happened at about 6:30 p.m. on Saturday, July 17, on private property on Marion Center Road. Police said Kaitlyn was driving a friend's side-by-side off-road vehicle when she lost control of the vehicle while going around a corner. Both girls were thrown from the vehicle, which then rolled three times.

Deputies said the second crash happened on Sunday, July 18 at about 1:30 a.m. on private property on Pearsall Road.

Police said Hawkins was driving a friend's go-cart, and when she was coming to a stop, hit a stump. Hawkins was not wearing a seatbelt and was thrown forward on the vehicle, striking her head on the go-cart's roll bar, police said.

Schneider said he is concerned about the number of ORV accidents occurring in Charlevoix County involving young citizens who are injured as a result. He noted that his office has offered ATV training courses in the past and will again offer ATV training this fall.

School board election filing deadline Aug. 10

The annual election for the Charlevoix Public Schools' Board of Education will be on Tuesday, Nov. 2. There are 2 four-year term vacancies and one two-year term vacancy.

The deadline for interested candidates to submit a nominating petition or a $100 non-refundable fee in lieu of a petition is Tuesday, Aug. 10 at 4 p.m. to the Charlevoix County Clerk's office.

To receive a nomination petition contact the Charlevoix County Clerk's office located at 203 Antrim St., Charlevoix or telephone (231) 547-7200.

For more information about the duties associated with the Board of Education, contact the Charlevoix Public Schools Superintendent Chet Janik at 547-8101.

The current board members whose terms are expiring include Larry Levensgood, Jeff Stevens and John McLean.

Janik said this year marks the first year the board will be conducting its election at the same time as the general election in November. He said the board made the move to the November date to save the cost of a special school election in May.

City council revises fountain hours

STEVE ZUCKER
COURIER EDITOR

Children and others who enjoy playing in the interactive fountain at Charlevoix's East Park will have another 90 minutes each to splash for the rest of the summer.

At its regular semi-monthly meeting Monday, the Charlevoix City Council amended the fountain's hours of operation on a unanimous vote. Effective Tuesday, the fountain's hours of operation will be from 10 a.m.-9 p.m. in "interactive mode" and from 9-11 p.m. in "display mode."

The council was revisiting an issue that it has discussed every year since the fountain's first season in 2008, this time at the behest of third ward council member and mayor pro-tem Jill Picha. Picha told the council that she receives many complaints from city resident who are upset that the fountain is not on longer in the evenings.

Last year the city changed the fountain's operating schedule to 10 a.m.-7:30 p.m. in interactive mode, 7:30-9 p.m., off completely, and 9 p.m.-11 p.m. in "display mode." The city came up with the schedule as a compromise in response to complaints from boaters at the marina about the noise from children playing in the fountain.

City manager Rob Straebel and harbormaster Hal Evans recommended against the change.

Speaking to the council Monday, Evans said many boaters have said that the 90 minutes of quiet time is important to them.

"As far as they are concerned, it's necessary to have that down time," Evans said. "We've had a number of seasonal boaters ask to move because of the noise."

One concern that came up during the meeting was the difference in the fountain's two operation modes. In "interactive mode" the fountain sprays water randomly at lower levels. In "display mode," it sprays water higher and the jets are choreographed to music.

The city's practice has been to rope off the fountain during display mode operation based upon recommendations from its insurance carrier that people should not be in the fountain when it is in display mode.

The consensus among the council was that the rope does little to deter anyone from going into the fountain and that it serves mainly as liability protection for the city.

STEVE ZUCKER/CHARLEVOIX COURIER

Children play in the East Park Interactive fountain Monday a short time after the city council approved a measure eliminating a 90-minute evening down time from the fountain's daily operational schedule.

Still, the question remained: Who will put up the barrier, (a process that Evans said takes about 15 minutes), if it is to go up an hour after the marina office closes?

"We'll figure something out," Straebel told the council.

In other business, the council also unanimously approved a revision to the job description for the city recreation director's position.

The position has been vacant since June 24 when Straebel fired Ike Boss from the job. Boss had held the position for more than 35 years.

Straebel said the primary changes in the job description are that it requires the director to take a more active role in the operation and management of the Mount McSaubia Recreation area during the winter months and have a greater focus on administration and community relations during the summer months.

The city will advertise to fill the position beginning this week. Straebel said he intends to create an interview committee made up of himself, a city council member, the city's human resources assistant, a department head, community member involved in recreation and a representative of the chamber of commerce, however, the final decision on who to hire will rest with Straebel.

The position will remain a part-time position with no benefits with an expected annual salary of around $30,000.

With more than 150 entries, club officials said it was one of the biggest shows to date with cars of a wide array of colors, makes and models on display. The event also included a performance by an Elvis tribute artist and live and silent auctions to benefit area charities. Cool temperatures and rain might have put a damper on last year's inaugural Venetian Festival Beach Bash, but Mother Nature was much more cooperative Saturday as festival organizers marked their second year of kicking the festival off a day earlier under sunny skies and warm temperatures. Saturday's events included a volleyball and horseshoes tournament, and music on the Ferry Beach pier by Charlie's Root Fusion and De-Hurricane. Two people have pleaded guilty and a third has recently been charged in connection to an armed robbery that took place just outside Charlevoix in May.

Brandon Michael Story, 22, and Brooke Claire Baker, 18, both recently pleaded guilty to charges of armed robbery and unarmed robbery respectively in connection to the May 17 incident.

In their respective pleas, both admitted to their participation in a plot to rob a 22-year-old Charlevoix man outside an apartment on Mercer Road.

Earlier this month Baker was sentenced to serve one year in jail with credit for 33 days served, 10 months to be served immediately and the balance held in abeyance for her conviction. Story is expected to be sentenced on July 30.

Police were called to Mercer Road around 3:30 a.m. when the victim called after that time when the man called 9-1-1 reporting that he had just been robbed a gunpoint.

Police said the victim reported that he had been walking along Mercer Road with a female acquaintance when a man wearing a mask approached them with a gun and took his wallet, cell phone and shoes.

Police said the victim reported that the robber had let the female acquaintance go.

According to the affidavit, the victim told police that during the robbery, after letting Baker go, Story sat on his back, put the gun to his head and pulled the trigger.

When the gun didn't discharge, but instead only "clicked," Story allegedly said, "that one was a blank, the next one is a kill shot," according to the affidavit.

Police said their break in the case came about 12 hours later when an informant came forward saying he had been with Story and Baker when they hatched the robbery plan early Monday.

Although the affidavit

doesn't explain how Story and Baker knew the victim, police said the informant reported that their plan was for Baker to lure the victim out from the apartment where he is staying.

ing on Mercer Road and then Story would then rob him at gunpoint for drugs they believed he was carrying.

The Charlevoix County Prosecutor's office also recently charged a third alleged conspirator, Stephanie Michelle Fels, 18, of Charlevoix with conspiracy to commit armed robbery.

In the affidavit filed in Fels' case, police said that Baker implicated Fels in the plan to steal drugs from the victim.

Fels is slated to face a preliminary examination in her case on July 27. She remains free from custody after posting 10 percent of a $5,000 bond.

The Charlevoix Golf and Country Club will be home of the 2010 Michigan PGA Senior Championship. The three-day event will kick-off Sunday, Aug. 1, with a program event pairing PGA senior players with event sponsors and other amateurs for a round of 18 holes at the award-winning Jerry Matthews designed championship course. Proceeds from this outing will benefit the Charlevoix Junior Golf Program. The championship tournament will follow with 50-60 players anticipated to compete on Monday, Aug. 2, and Tuesday, Aug. 3. Spectators are welcome and there is no charge. The Charlevoix Golf and Country Club is located three miles north of Charlevoix off U.S. 31. To inquire about 2010 Michigan PGA Senior Championship, call event hosts, Loren Musilek (231) 547-6768 or Dave Mocini (231) 547-9796

Ryan Shay Mile draws elite runners

AMY MARTIN
SPECIAL TO THE COURIER

Hometown heroes are common in small towns, and Saturday, July 24, the Northern Michigan area will honor two of its own. The late Ryan Shay and the late Jeff Drenth will both be remembered as runners from near and far take to the streets of Charlevoix in races that will honor these two local greats.

Three years ago Matt Peterson, Doug Drenth and Douglas Bergmann, longtime friends and former Central Michigan University cross country teammates, took over the Venetian races. While the Jeff Drenth 5k and 10k races were celebrating their 30th years, the group thought that there was room for one more race.

These college friends had great memories of going down to the Cherry Festival in Traverse City in their younger years and running the 15K state cross country titles, and seven state track and field titles, including six in the 1600- and 3200-meter runs.

He went on to run cross country and track at the University of Notre Dame where he was a nine-time All-American. Shay was the first Notre Dame runner to win an individual NCAA title. He also graduated at the top of his class with a major in economics in 2001.

Upon his graduation Shay didn't stop running. In fact he became a professional runner, winning races of varying distances including marathons, half marathons, 20k and 15k.

In 2003 he took the USATF half marathon championship and finished in 23rd place at the 2004 Men's Olympic Marathon Trials. Sadly, Shay never reached the Olympics. He collapsed and died while running in the Olympic Marathon Trials state cross country titles, and seven state track and field titles, including six in the 1600- and 3200-meter runs.

Shay, a 1997 Central Lake High School graduate, never lost a high school Cross Country meet, won four Class D

It's through Saturday's race, that Shay's legacy of fast feet and conquering big dreams lives on.

And live on it certainly does, Peterson estimates that this year's invitation-only race will attract more than 15,000 spectators who will cheer on the 18 male and 12 female milers. Peterson said that from St. Mary's Church on Bridge Street until the finish line, the route will be packed with people.

"Starting on the hill, people will be packed five deep," he said.

Last year 500 fans were provided with bells so that when the runners came charging down the hill the atmosphere became electric and even more exciting.

"The neatest thing for me," Peterson said, "is when people who aren't runners say it's the coolest thing they've ever seen. The high level of running is just astounding."

The racers competing hail mainly from the East Coast and Midwest with one racer from Colorado. The vast majority of the recruiting for the race is done through a running Web site called "letsrun.com."

Peterson posts a thread on the race forums advertising an elite mile run with a cash prize. This year Peterson even received phone calls from runners with agents. Peterson laughed at the amount of people he has been able to reach through the use of the Internet.

"Most of the racers I don't even talk to until the day of the race, I finally can put a face with a name," he said.

This year the 18 male competitors are made of up post-collegiate runners, most of whom are professionals. A number of these men, like Shay himself was, are on the path to the next level of competition. These racers have coaches, sponsors and participate in several races yearly.

While organizers usually accept only 10-12 racers, they expanded the field this year because of the high level of applicants.

"So many men submitted four-minute flat mile times, we had to turn about a dozen or so runners away," Peterson said. The final field boasts times from just less than four minutes, to a few seconds over four.

While the women's division is not nearly as crowded, the competition is still fierce with times between 4 and 5 minutes. Of the 12 women competing, 10 are post-collegiate racers, the majority of whom also make their living as runners. Two have just graduated from high school, including Bridgett Bennett from Sacred Heart in Mt. Pleasant.

Although the Ryan Shay Mile run is an invite only event, the first of the races is open to the public.

The 32nd annual Jeff Drenth 5k and 10k races will also take place on Saturday just before the mile run. The race honors Drenth, a 1979 Charlevoix High School graduate. Drenth, like Shay, was a running sensation, boasting many high school All-State honors, along with All-America and Mid-American Conference accolades.

Drenth went on to compete with Athletics West, a running club sponsored by Nike in the running haven of Eugene, Ore. He also was a member of the world cross country team, and competed in the 1984 Olympic trials. He died in 1986.

In addition to honoring Drenth and Shay, both events benefit the Charlevoix High School cross country teams and provide funding for the Charlevoix Community Scholarship. The fun begins on Saturday morning with the Drenth runs, at 9 a.m. followed by the Shay Mile at 10:30 a.m. Registration for the Drenth runs takes place at Michigan Beach.

Junior Golf honors participants, seeks help with funding

The popular summer Charlevoix Junior Golf program is winding down and has several honors to announce. There are 138 registered for the program with 20 juniors in each of the 8-, 9-, 10- and 11-year age groups.

"A record number of juniors earned scholarships to the Ferris State University week-long golf camp, a reflection of the high caliber of our applicants for the award and the high level of golf skill they have obtained," Dean Davenport, program director said.

Those recipients include: KeNen Borths, Noah Cerna, Tanner Drost, Ryan Joy, Nathan Moon, Sam Stewart, Spencer Stewart, Drew Seymour, Nick Snabes, and Montana Thompson.

The main fundraiser to finance the scholarships is Belvedere golf professional, Marty Joy's 100 holes in a day playing with hickory clubs. Pledges are taken for each hole he played. This year, Joy's 100 holes is scheduled for Aug. 23. There is under way another fundraising effort by Robert Klein and friends to renew the season golf passes for selected juniors to use at the municipal course. The program identifies 16-20 advanced and deserving juniors for "Steve's Kids" which was established to recognize the long years of service from teaching professional Steve Braun. For additional information for both these efforts contact Dean Davenport at (231) 547-6433.

Rob Boss trades cleats for clipboard

ANDY SNEDDON
NEWS-REVIEW SPORTS
EDITOR

Rob Boss' football playing days would appear to be over.

Boss, a 2002 Charlevoix High School graduate, is the new offensive line coach at Northern Michigan University.

Last time we checked — just two weeks ago — Boss had been named the Arena Football League's Offensive Player of the Week. The Rush, at the time, was on its way to clinching a playoff spot as its regular season wound down.

A 68-60 loss at Tampa Bay on July 2 turned out to be Boss' final professional football game. He left Chicago shortly thereafter for an interview in Marquette with NMU head coach Bernie Anderson. Anderson offered Boss the job on the spot, and he accepted.

Boss knew when he applied for the job at NMU that he may have to leave the Rush late in the season, but it was something he had to do to secure his long-term future.

There are only a few weeks remaining in the Arena League season and, at 10-4, the Rush is headed to the playoffs. The coaching move is the start of what could be a long career on the sidelines for Boss, an NMU grad.

He said Thursday that unless an offer from, say, an NFL team comes along, his playing days are finished.

"You can definitely coach for a lot longer than you can play," said Boss, 26, who coached NMU's defensive line last season while the Arena League suspended operations. At that time, Boss was also finishing his final semester en route to earning a Bachelor of Science in chemistry from NMU.

Boss said there is much work to be done between now and Aug. 10, the day players report at NMU.

"We have a lot of work to get done so I left (Chicago) immediately," Boss said. "It's a good opportunity to get my first full-time job at a Division II school, especially at my alma mater, that's everybody's dream. Everybody wants to be able to go back."

Boss said leaving the Rush so late in the season, and with a playoff berth looming, wasn't an easy decision, but it's the right one for him.

"This was a decision I made for my future," he said. "I accomplished a lot during my playing career and I enjoyed it. Coaching is equally as gratifying for me, teaching these young players the game that I enjoyed so much and that gave me a lot."

Among Boss' duties, as it is for all college coaches, is recruiting. He said he isn't sure what his geographical territory will be, but it may include the Northern Lower Peninsula. For now, he is busy with administrative duties, working on late-season recruiting, meeting with the coaching staff and, in particular, the Wildcats' new offensive coordinator, Chris Ostrowsky.

That's today, tomorrow, and the next day for Boss. Down the road? Who knows. Coaching is a fickle business and those in it generally live a nomadic lifestyle as they climb the ladder.

"As far as being a head coach, I think that's everybody's dream," Boss said. "You want to be able to call your own shots, I would like to be successful here and maybe move up to the Division I level and see where it goes."

"My goal is just to be successful wherever I'm at."

Klooster tournament returns to Venetian week

A familiar spot on the calendar, and plenty of familiar teams in the field.

The 7th Annual Bob Klooster Memorial Men's Fast Pitch Softball Tournament begins Friday, July 23, at the Carpenter Avenue Fields in Charlevoix, and the event returns to its original spot on the calendar to coincide with the Venetian Festival.

The tournament, named for the late Bob Klooster, a Michigan Amateur Softball Association Hall of Famer, was played over Memorial Day Weekend in the recent past.

Tournament organizer Scott Kelly, the Michigan Amateur Softball Association District 21 commissioner, said the move back to July is a good fit, ensuring a better weather forecast and an opportunity for players and their families to enjoy the festival.

The seven-team field includes four teams with area ties: Charlevoix-based BASES, B.C. Pizza and Bay Street Orthopaedics of Petoskey, and East Jordan Iron Works.

All four play in the Petoskey Men's League at Bayfront Park's Ed White Field.

Auburn ATS, Tanner Farm of Springport and GLC of Ludington round out the field.

The round-robin tournament begins at 6:30 p.m. Friday, July 23, with B.C. Pizza taking on Bay Street Orthopaedics. At 8 p.m., Auburn ATS plays BASES.

Games resume at 9 a.m. Saturday, July 24, with GLC and the Iron Works playing on one field, and Tanner Farms and B.C. playing on the other.

Round-robin tournament play will continue with two games simultaneously on both fields with the final games on Saturday scheduled to begin at 5 p.m. "so that families can be sure to get downtown for the boat parade and fireworks," Kelly said.

Play resumes Sunday, July 25, with one game at 8 a.m., another at 9:30 a.m. The top two teams after round-robin play will meet for the championship at 11:30 a.m. Sunday.

Klooster was the first Charlevoix inductee into the MASA Hall of Fame in 1996, and was later joined by the late Leroy Buchanan in 2006 and Meg (Fowler) Kitson in 2009.

Klooster's career spanned 33 years from 1949-82. A pitcher-first baseman, Klooster played for the Charlevoix Knight Owls, the Ellsworth Chamber of Commerce, Bare Construction, L.J. Ormsbee Motors of Cheboygan, Bremmeyer Bain and Boss Construction.

A veteran of the Korean War, Klooster participated in five state tournaments, and pitched L.J. Ormsbee Motors to the 1963 Class C state championship, going 48-4.

That's a wrap

Venetian numbers steady despite damp days

STEVE ZUCKER
COURIER EDITOR

With the sounds of Saturday's fireworks grand finale still ringing in their ears, organizers of the 80th annual Venetian Festival, are taking a long, well-deserved deep breath this week as they, along with the rest of the community re-group after a busy, but fun-filled week of festivities.

Festival board of directors chairman Dan Barron said Monday all indications are that this year's festival drew about as many people as last year despite a soggy Thursday evening and intermittent showers on Saturday morning.

"The weather can be a huge factor in how successful some of our events are," Barron said.

To illustrate the point, he noted that on Thursday — which was arm-and-leg day with Arnold Amusements, the festival's take on amusement rides was down $5,000 from last year. That's thanks to a steady rain that fell from the late afternoon well into the evening.

Conversely, he said, on Friday, sales were up $10,000 on the rides, thanks to warm temperatures and sunny skies.

He noted that Thursday's rain did little to dissuade music fans. He estimated between 500-1,000 people sat through the rain to hear country music artist Big Kenny (of country duo Big and Rich fame) play at the Odmark Pavilion in East Park.

"If the weather would have held, I'm sure we would have exceeded last year (in attendance and revenue)," Barron said.

Barron said he's heard many positive comments on many facets of the festival, but none more so than the two nights' worth of fireworks displays.

He said a video recording was made of Friday night's display, complete with soundtrack and the video will eventually be loaded to the festival's website.

"On Friday night people commented to me that they didn't think it was ever going to end," Barron said.

He said Saturday's low-altitude, high intensity display on Round Lake was the largest of its kind for the festival to-date.

"That's always the crowning jewel to the festival each year. I have people who visit Charlevoix from all of the country and the world tell me they've never seen anything like it."

Barron said he was particularly proud of Saturday's display because of the challenging circumstances presented by a steady wind out of the north. He said the wind prompted organizers to make some last minute changes to the location of the fireworks barge and caused officials require boats that had participated in the boat parade to lay-up near the bridge during the show.

"It took a little longer to get set up, but we were able to safely put on an amazing show," Barron said.

Rambler to Rayder

Charlevoix native, Boyne City graduate

Travis Garrett hired as new CMS principal

STEVE ZUCKER
COURIER EDITOR

For Travis Garrett, finding his way around the area where his new job is taking him won't be difficult. Remembering which team to cheer for on certain Friday nights might be another story.

At a special meeting Monday, the Charlevoix Public Schools Board of Education approved hiring Garrett, 30, to take over as Charlevoix Middle School principal.

Garrett takes over for Keith Haske who retired in June after 13 years in the position. Upon his retirement, Haske took a position as administrator and head varsity boys basketball coach at Traverse City St. Francis.

Garrett was chosen from a field of 42 applicants for the position. A search committee comprised of two school board members, two teachers, a parent and district superintendent Chet Janik narrowed the field down to six whom were interviewed about two weeks ago. Last week three were called back for second interviews with Garrett being selected as the committee's recommended candidate.

Garrett grew up with a Charlevoix address, but attended and graduated from Boyne City High School in 1998.

After graduation he earned a bachelor's degree in elementary education from Central Michigan University. He then took a job teaching third grade in East Jordan until he was laid off because of budget cuts.

Seeking to broaden his horizons and teaching experience, Garrett's job search led him to take a position teaching K-8 physical education at school in inner-city Chicago.

"That was a very eye-opening experience," Garrett said.

"It was very challenging, but I think I adapted very well. I think it prepared me for anything else I might face in the future."

Garrett went on to earn a master's degree in educational leadership. Around the same time Garrett and his wife (and high-school sweetheart) Jackie (Cyr) were expecting their first child and they didn't want to raise her in a big city.

Garrett's job search took him to the position he is leaving to come to Charlevoix, assistant principal at Mountain View Middle School in Goffstown, N.H. Among his responsibilities in his current position are teacher evaluations, leadership and professional development and discipline for the school's roughly 1,000 students.

Garrett he's not concerned about his job security in his new position.

In recent years, Charlevoix

Public Schools, like most school districts around the state, have been struggling with a continually shrinking budget. In recent months the school board has said it will be analyzing the district's operation in the coming year to look for areas where it can be streamlined. Among the changes the board will be investigating is the possibility of changing from a three-building to a two-building district.

Garrett said his feeling is that such a change is unlikely and that even if the district changed to a two-building format, he expects there would still be a need for his administrative role in some form or another.

Garrett said moving back to his and Jackie's home area was the driving force behind his applying for the position.

"We are beside ourselves with excitement about getting back to home and family."

Travis Garrett will soon take over as Charlevoix Middle School principal.

Garrett said. "Charlevoix is such a wonderful community and the school is a size where I feel I can really make a difference for kids."

Garrett said he expects to be in Northern Michigan and working at Charlevoix Middle School by mid-August. He said his first priorities will be getting ready for the upcoming school year and establishing a rapport with the staff and the community.

Chief Paul Ivan and U.S. Coast Guard Station Commander Chief Boatswains Mate Charles Burleigh for their efforts in helping coordinate the fireworks.

"I think one of the most gratifying aspects of the festival is that we have so many volunteers. We have committee chair-people who are now seasoned veterans in event organizing. They've taken over huge aspects of the festival. That's why we can pull it off," he said.

However, as much as Barron and the rest of the Venetian Festival organization may want to take a breather, the work for the festival still goes on.

"We've already got about 75 percent of next year's festival mapped out," he said.

Barron said that he and other organizers take copious notes as Venetian week unfolds and meet a few weeks after the festival to talk over where improvements can be made.

The organization is looking for more people to step forward to help in their task.

"The behind the scenes planning is far more extensive than most people realize," Barron said. "We're looking to establish a couple of new committees and we are hoping to have some people step up to help out."

Anyone interested in getting involved with the Venetian Festival organization can call the festival's office at (231) 547-3872.

Teasel can make fun of your gardening

If there are such things as botany genes, there is a chance that I inherited a few from my grandfather. He was not an educated man, and he had a lot of rough edges according to witnesses (he died four years before I was born). But he also seems to have had an uncontrollable urge to grow out-of-the-ordinary plants. For much of his life he was a farmer in extreme western Minnesota: what Garrison Keillor refers to as "out on the edge of the prairie." Unlike most of his neighbors, he grew quite a few crops that did not bring him much of a return, except for the satisfaction that he could grow them. He planted and harvested peanuts, well out of their usual agricultural range, and he raised tobacco. I still have some of it. Anyone interested in some REALLY aged tobacco is welcome to try it. I did once at age 12, and it put me off smoking for almost ten years.

Each year, I try to find some plant that I have not grown before: something my grandpa-might have enjoyed. This year's plant of choice is teasel. According to Ed Voss and the Flora of Michigan, there are two kinds of teasel that grow as weeds in Michigan. Like most of our weeds, they were imported by accident from Europe and have lived in Michigan since the mid-1800s. The teasel I planted is a slightly different kind, usually called fuller's teasel because it was used traditionally in Europe for "fulling" woven cloth. That is, it was brushed over the wool cloth to raise the nap and "full" it up a little. I once owned a sport coat of Harris tweed, which had little ends of teasel bristles stuck in the outer surface of the fabric, apparently hand woven and hand-fulled.

I cannot find among my dozens of seed catalogs, the one which listed teasel seeds two years ago, but seeds are available from one of the bale of catalogs that begin arriving in late winter. Last year the two plants that survived the seedling stage produced an abundance of large spiny leaves, but no flower stalks. A little research revealed that fuller's teasel (Dipsacus sativa) was a biennial plant, which blooms in its second year.

The teasel plants this year dominate a corner of the garden and are at least two feet taller than I am. I counted this morning, and the plants now bear more than 100 of the spiny flower heads that make them so useful to weavers of wool. Visitors to the garden are most likely to ask, "What in the world is that gigantic plant?" I get to tell the teasel story over and over again.

It is a plant well worth the space it occupies, and I suspect that my grandfather would have enjoyed it as much as I do.

The mature teasel flower heads make fine additions to winter's dried plant arrangements. Anyone wishing a few might contact me. It looks as though there will be more than enough. Each flower head also bears dozens of seeds, and anyone wishing to grow their own teasel and willing to wait for two years can have seeds. I only hope it doesn't escape and invade the rest of Charlevoix.

LETTERS to the editor

WHY TRIM TREES DURING VENETIAN FESTIVAL?

Editor:

I was surprised to watch the City of Charlevoix crews trimming trees in the downtown area during the week of Venetian. Certainly there are many other weeks during the summer that would be much less congested? Perhaps someone wasn't planning very well.

DON'T USE CELL PHONES BEHIND THE WHEEL

Editor:

Cell phones are helpful and useful tools, but not behind the wheel. I think that there should be a law banning the use of cell phones while driving. It will prevent many car accidents while using cell phones. The state just passed a law banning texting while driving, but I think it should include all cell phone use while in the driver's seat.

Cell phone use while driving can cause many unnecessary accidents. A Harvard University study says that 2,600 accidents occurred in the U.S. in 2009. Two of those accidents occurred in Northern Michigan. Many of these accidents could have been prevented.

If a driver is engaged in something, like a text or phone call, then they are not paying attention to the road and many bad things can and will happen. If a driver is dialing a phone number they could hit a pedestrian at a crosswalk, or cross the center line and run into oncoming traffic. If you look down to use your cell phone, you can run a red light and get a ticket or cause an unnecessary accident.

If you have recently purchased a new car, chances are that it probably is equipped with a computer/cell phone. Your are 70 percent more likely to get in an accident if you use it. If you need to use the phone/computer while you're driving you should have a passenger use it. If you don't have a passenger riding with you or in the front seat pull over to the side of the road to use your computer/cell phone.

Cell phones are dangerous when used while driving, helpful when they are not. Don't use your cell phone while you drive. It will make you and everyone around you safer.

IMPROVE SNOWMOBILE TRAIL

Editor:

The snowmobile trail to the Flight Deck is not a good trail. It's unsafe, bumpy and narrow.

The trail is too bumpy and narrow. You bounce all around on the trail. On top of that, some of the parts of the trail can barely fit two snowmobiles on it. So if two snowmobiles come around a blind spot a crash could happen.

The second reason why I think it should be changed is because it is unsafe. The trail has some blind spots plus shaped turns and you've got a tick time bomb.

My last and final reason is it might bring more snowmobiles to Charlevoix. If it wasn't so bumpy and narrow, the trail would be a good trail to ride on. If it wasn't so narrow the groomer could fit on it, too.

Thomas Sarasin

Moms & Tots awarded grant

Community foundation grant will provide car seats, cribs

The Charlevoix County Community Foundation recently awarded a grant of $5,000 to the Moms & Tots Center in Ellsworth for the purchase of car seats and cribs for Charlevoix County clients who are unable to afford them.

Established in August of 2001, The Moms & Tots Center is a Christian non-denominational social service agency assisting with the needs of pregnant young women and young mothers from southern Charlevoix and northern Antrim Counties. The center is a ministry of Good Samaritan Family Services located in Ellsworth.

The center provides three distinct services.

The first is to meet the immediate needs of the young woman who thinks she is pregnant or who is pregnant. The center provide her with a free pregnancy test, peer counseling, referrals, information, and encouragement.

Second, for the woman who wants to parent her baby (virtually all clients), the center provides a baby closet. The closet includes maternity clothes, diapers, baby food, formula, baby clothes, and all types of equipment. This service includes continued peer counseling, information, and encouragement.

The clients earn cribs and car seats by watching educational videos. A client can earn a crib by watching six hours of educational videos about child care, parenting, discipline, etc., a car seat requires three hours.

A third service that is available for the women who want it, is the mentoring program. It consists of pairing a young mother with a mature woman to be her friend, a listening ear, a source of information and positive feedback. Long-term relationships are encouraged to help clients become good mothers and solid citizens. The center currently has about 400 active clients.

The Moms & Tots Center is located in Ellsworth at 9100 Pleasant Hill Road. The hours are 10 a.m.-4 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays, and 1-4 p.m. Wednesdays. Young women are invited to visit the center any time it is open. All services are offered free of charge. The center's phone number is (231) 588-2200 or toll free is (866) 488-2200.

The Moms & Tots Center's ability to help is limited only by its financial resources and is dependent on the generosity of members of the community. Anyone interested in helping with a tax-deductible gift, make his or her check out to Moms & Tots Center, and send to: Moms & Tots Center, P.O. Box 206, Ellsworth, Mich. 49729.

Tom Swanson makes Venetian stop-over on coast-to-coast cycling journey

TINA SUNDELIUS
SPECIAL TO THE COURIER

Like many people who have moved away from the area, 1955 Charlevoix High School graduate Tom Swanson has a habit of making an annual homecoming for Venetian Festival.

And while others may travel farther for their annual pilgrimage, few likely choose the same mode of transportation. Swanson traveled 2,650 miles on bicycle to get home for this year's Venetian Festival. Although it's not the first time he's arrived by bicycle, it is the first time the his Venetian homecoming has been a side-trip on a coast-to-coast hike ride.

Swanson has been living in Tucson, Ariz. since 1982 but he has made it home for the festival every year, one way or another.

In 2006, the semi-retired sales manager of an electronics store purchased a touring bike and made Venetian his final destination, riding 2,400 miles from Tucson to Charlevoix simply because it sounded like an adventure.

This time, he thought he'd make the trip a little more interesting. Swanson left Newport Beach, Calif. on June 15 after dipping his wheels in the Pacific Ocean and headed for the East Coast.

"I dipped my wheels in the Pacific and I plan to dip them in the Atlantic," Swanson said.

He knew his trip would include a detour to his hometown for his 73rd birthday and the Venetian Festival.

"I see people at Venetian I haven't seen in years, Charlevoix means family and friends," Swanson said.

Swanson said he traveled an average of 90 miles per day with a high of 140 miles in one day. He arrived in Charlevoix on July 13.

He said traveling through Utah gave him some of his most surprising and difficult experiences.

"The Virgin River Gorge was the neatest thing. You keep seeing this mountain in front of you and you think, 'Oh God, I have to climb another mountain,' but the road goes through the mountain downhill. (It's the) weirdest thing I've ever seen," Swanson said.

Swanson said when he completes his coast to coast trip he'll be able to cross one more item from his "bucket list."

"The hardest day was Provo Canyon, Utah, there's something about the configuration of the mountain that it funnels all the wind through the canyon so you're going up against a 35 mph headwind," Swanson said.

He will resume his trip the first week in August. Swanson hasn't yet decided on his exact East Coast ending point but is considering someplace in New Hampshire.

"I've learned three things: I hate uphill. I hate downhill almost as much, because I know it's going to lead to another uphill, and there sure are a lot of nice people in this country," Swanson said.

Swanson said when he completes his coast to coast trip he'll be able to cross one more item from his "bucket list."

At 90, Fran Pletz shares information with visitors to Charlevoix's downtown area

ALICE PERRAULT
NEWS-REVIEW STAFF

CHARLEVOIX - When things get busy, Fran Pletz sets out to help.

Pletz is a member of Charlevoix's Downtown Development Authority community host program. Since joining, the 90 year old spends time each week walking the streets sharing knowledge and facts with visitors.

"When I first heard about it, I thought it sounded interesting. I've lived in Charlevoix a long time, and I thought I could help people learn a little about the area," Pletz said.

On average, Pletz spends six hours a week answering questions and handing out pamphlets. Although her questions vary, she usually finds herself directing tourists to restaurants or restrooms.

"It is nice to give some of yourself to your community. I thought it was such a neat idea and I wanted to be a part of it. It's more work than I thought it would be, but I don't mind. I have the time to give," she said.

Before she lived in Charlevoix, Pletz worked in Lansing and Washington as the executive director of the Michigan Library Association.

"I was a registered lobbyist. I told those politicians that the people really needed their libraries. I believe that libraries are the unsung heroes of the world," she said.

Before working as a lobbyist, Pletz moved from her home in Chicago to attend Michigan State University. There she was trained in speech and communication.

Pletz and her late husband Harold retired in 1982, originally settling in East Jordan. There, Pletz helped found the Jordan River Arts Council, and served as the original president.

Deciding they would like to move, Pletz and her husband bought land in Charlevoix and began building a home. Pletz moved alone to the home in 2003, as Harold was no longer with her. The home was not finished before he passed away.

"Even though Harold was gone, I just knew he was with me in this house. It was everything he wanted," Pletz said.

The two had four grown children; Steven, James "Jim", Fred "Fritz" and Alice. Pletz said she spends time with them as often as she can.

"I really enjoy my life. One thing I have learned is once you get older you have to keep your sense of humor and add some good to this world," Pletz said.

The community host program is only active during festivals, but Pletz said she will be there offering her services as long as she can.

"Sharing your knowledge and experiences with others is part of the beauty of living," she added.

WATCH nets education grant

Water and Air Team Charlevoix (WATCH) recently received a grant from the Charlevoix County Community Foundation for the purpose of initiating an environmental education program on ENERGY for middle school students in Charlevoix County.

"We are excited to have the opportunity of bringing the first of five modules designed by the Michigan Environmental Education Curriculum Support to the Charlevoix County middle schools," WATCH Executive Administrator Michelle Rick-Biddick said.

"This program, developed by Central Michigan University Science/Math/Technology Center and the Michigan Department Natural Resources and Environment, is designed to assist teachers in integrating environmental science into the classroom. The curriculum is aligned to Michigan curriculum standards and benchmarks, and has been teacher-tested in Michigan classrooms," explained Rick-Biddick.

The grant will allow WATCH to offer training for teachers, arrange for ongoing teacher education credits and provide materials and support. It will give teachers the motivation and appropriate tools necessary for directing students future.

"Our hope is that these programs will help with today's employment market and the demand for more green technology and jobs,"

— Michelle Rick-Biddick, WATCH Executive Administrator

Other trainings will be offered in the next few years, with appropriate funding, Rick-Biddick said.

"We need to match the grant dollars in order to offer these programs. We recently had a very successful fundraising campaign but more dollars will be needed," she said.

The organization would like to be able to offer the other modules — water quality, air quality, ecosystems/biodiversity, and land use — within the next four years.

WATCH is a non-profit, 501(c)(3) organization. Anyone wishing to donate towards these programs may send their donations to: WATCH, INC., P.O. Box 615 Charlevoix, MI 49720.

Author to speak in East Jordan

Author Bryan Gruley will speak on Aug. 4.

The Jordan Valley District Library and the Jordan River Arts Council will host an evening with author Bryan Gruley with special guest host Doug Stanton at 7 p.m. on Wednesday, Aug. 4, at the East Jordan Community Auditorium.

"They found Gracie McBride hanging in the shoe tree at the edge of town..." so begins Gruley's sequel to Starvation Lake. The Hanging Tree, the second in a series of novels set in the fictional Northern Michigan town of Starvation Lake is published by Touchstone and was available wherever books are sold Aug. 3.

Gruley's first novel, Starvation Lake, was nominated for an Edgar Award for Best First Novel and several other awards. It won the Strand Magazine Critics Award for Best First Novel. Gruley brings three lifelong passions to these books: newspapers, hockey, and small towns. He learned to play hockey on backyard rinks in his native Detroit, and still plays in Chicago. Since 1971, he has been going to his family cottage on Big Twin Lake, not far from the real Starvation Lake. His first newspaper job was with the Antrim County News in Bellaire. Today, he's the Chicago bureau chief of the Wall Street Journal. He wrote one of the page one stories on Sept. 11, 2001, that won the Wall Street Journal a 2002 Pulitzer Prize.

Special guest host for the evening will be Doug Stanton, author of the New York Times bestseller In Harm's Way: The sinking of the USS Indianapolis and the extraordinary Story of a Band of U.S. Soldiers who Rode to Victory in Afghanistan. Horse Soldiers spent more than three months on the New York Times best-seller list as well as other lists. It was chosen as a "Best Book of 2009" by Publisher's Weekly, Christian Science Monitor, Barnes & Noble and Amazon. Horse Soldiers is in development with Jerry Bruckheimer to be made into a major motion picture.

Stanton lives in Traverse City and is a former contributing editor at Esquire, Sports Illustrated and Outside. He is now a contributing editor at Men's Journal, and has written extensively on travel, adventure, entertainment and politics, during which time he nearly drowned off Cape Horn waters, got mugged by jungle revolutionaries, played basketball with George Clooney, and took an acting lesson from a gracious Harrison Ford. He is a member of the advisory board of the Interlochen Center for the Arts Motion Picture Arts Program. He has taught writing at the college level and worked as a commercial sports fisherman and caretaker of Robert Frost's house in Vermont. Stanton graduated from the Interlochen Arts Academy in Michigan and Hampshire College in Massachusetts. He is also founder of the National Writers Series, a year-round book festival bringing great conversations to life with America's greatest writers. For more information see NationalWritersSeries.org.

The event is free to the public. After the book discussion, questions will be taken by the authors. McLean and Eakin Booksellers will be at the event selling copies of both author's books with book signing available in the lobby area. Donations at the event will be given to the National Writer Series whose scholarship program seeks to inspire young authors wishing to study writing in college. Call library at (231) 536-7131 for more information or e-mail dir@jvdl.info.

A collection of praises, awards and accomplishments of Charlevoix area people.

Navy Seaman Apprentice Devin T. Toton, son of Brenda M. Toton of Charlevoix and Casimir M. Toton, of Mackinaw City, recently completed U.S. Navy basic training at Recruit Training Command, Great Lakes, Ill.

During the eight-week program, Toton completed a variety of training which included classroom study and practical instruction on naval customs, first aid, firefighting, water safety and survival, and shipboard and aircraft safety. An emphasis was also placed on physical fitness.

The capstone event of boot camp is "Battle Stations." This exercise gives recruits the skills and confidence they need to succeed in the fleet. "Battle Stations" is designed to galvanize the basic warrior attributes of sacrifice, dedication, teamwork and endurance in each recruit through the practical application of basic Navy skills and the core values of honor, courage and commitment. Its distinctly "Navy" flavor was designed to take into account what it means to be a sailor.

Central Michigan University recently named the following students to its honors list for the spring semester of 2010. To be named to the list, students must earn a grade point average of at least 3.5 on a 4.0 scale.

From East Jordan: freshman Hailey Crick, and senior Sierra Roberts

From Beaver Island: sophomore Andrea Moore

From Boyne Falls: seniors Tiffany Matelski and Trevor Matelski

From Walloon Lake: junior Stacy Bonnee

Central Michigan University recently awarded bachelor's degrees to the following people:

Two injured in traffic crash

Two downstate residents were injured in a two-vehicle traffic crash south of Charlevoix Saturday.

Charlevoix County Sheriff Don Schneider identified the injured as Sandra Spaulding, 52, and Woodrow Spaulding, 59, of Ferndale. Both were taken to Charlevoix Area Hospital by a private vehicle where they were treated for their injuries and released.

Schneider said the crash happened at about 4:30 p.m. on M-66 near Castle Farms.

Police said the Spauldings were traveling from Charlevoix to Enst Jordan with their 33 year old cousin, Anthony Allen of Virginia when they struck the back of a yellow passenger car occupied by Ariel Ramsey, 19, of Charlevoix and Andrew Ennis, 21. Police said Ramsey and Ennis were turning into Castle Farms off M-66 when they were struck from behind by Spaulding who said she was distracted by the events going on at Castle Farms.

State issues annual fish advisory

The Michigan Department of Community Health has issued the 2010 Michigan Fish Advisory with updated information. The advisory, released annually, is about helping people choose and eat safe fish from Michigan rivers, inland lakes, and the surrounding Great Lakes. The advisory has length and species-specific advice for individual Michigan waters based on test results conducted on fish fillet.

Young children, and especially the unborn fetus, are more at risk if exposed to too much of the chemicals that build up in fish. Women of childbearing age and young children who regularly eat sport-caught fish from Michigan waters are strongly encouraged to follow this advisory.

The advisory gives information about high levels of chemicals found in fish fillet such as dioxins, polychlorinated biphenyls (PCBs) and mercury. It also provides advice about eating safe fish for adult men and women beyond childbearing age.

In addition to the fish and water body specific advice, the guide provides protective advice for the fish consumer who only occasionally eats sport-caught fish, such as:

— Removing the fat removes many of the unwanted chemicals from the fish.

— Mercury is in the meat of both store-bought and sport-caught fish. It cannot be cut or cooked away.

— Eat different types of fish from a variety of sources to reduce your chance of getting too many meals of fish that are not safe to eat.

Buckeye, Wolverine win Shay

Four runners in elite event break four-minute mark

STEVE FOLEY
NEWS-REVIEW SPORTS
WRITER

The third annual Ryan Shay Mile was expected to be one very elite mile run down Charlevoix Bridge Street.

It was that, and a little bit more.

In front of a huge gathering as part of Charlevoix's annual Venetian Festival, several of the country's and Kenya's top runners didn't disappoint as arguably the nation's most unique road mile race saw some blisteringly fast times.

Jeff See, a six-time All-American at Ohio State University, won the male portion of the race as he finished in a race record 3 minutes, 55.9 seconds, while former University of Michigan standout Nicole Edwards won the female race in 4:34.9.

See was the first among the top five male runners to finish under four minutes, as Liam Boylan-Pett of Columbia University was second, 3:56.4; and Rob Novak, a Seton Hall graduate, was third in 3:56.5. Kenya's Richard Kandie was fourth in 3:57.9; while Felix Kiboiyo, an Auburn graduate, was fifth in 3:59.7. Boylan-Pett is a former Michigan prep standout from Bath High School.

See, a frequent visitor to Lake Charlevoix and the WeatherVane since he was a teenager, said the race had a unique feel to it.

"It was different," said See, a Middletown, Ohio, native who graduated from Ohio State this spring. "I've never run a road mile before. The guys out in front went out pretty hard, but I knew if I saved some, I'd have some space left to catch them on the downhill."

"It worked to my favor."

See hung with the lead group on the downhill portion of the course close to 800 meters to the finish, then surged ahead of Boylan-Pett and Novak at the tape.

"The downhill was different," added See, a four-time Big Ten champion in cross country. "I've never run that fast downhill before and it was tough to keep your balance. You were kind of just falling down the hill."

"I was glad we still had another 300 meters or so to the finish," added See. "It kind of gave myself a chance to regroup. It was a tight finish and a long grind, but I just kept telling myself to stay smooth, stay smooth and keep my form."

Edwards, a former All-American at the University of Michigan who now runs for Saucony, not only had to worry about her competitors near the finish of Saturday's race, but the pace car as well. Close to 300 meters to the finish, Edwards nearly ran into the cart which veered to the left into the path of the lead runner.

"I saw the cart turning into me and I was clearly on the wrong side of it," the Winnipeg, Manitoba, native said. "It was a close call, but it turned out to be no big deal."

Edwards, who this weekend will attempt to qualify for the Commonwealth Games in the 1,500 meters, said the atmosphere surrounding the race, and the Venetian Festival, was fantastic.

"It was a lot of fun," she said. "Charlevoix is just beautiful. Yesterday (Friday) was just the most relaxing, beautiful vacation day ever."

Edwards said she attempted to stay relaxed throughout the race, but the excitement generated by the large crowd pushed her through the finish.

"It went out slower than I expected," Edwards said. "I loved the downhill at the end and I just was sprinting with everything I had. People along the sides were cheering very loudly, but I had no idea if they were cheering because someone was right behind me or what was going on. I really didn't feel anything at the end there."

Edwards, who hadn't raced competitively since May, said the win serves as a huge tune-up for her chances to qualify for one of three positions on Canada's team in the Commonwealth Games.

"I really want to qualify for the Games," she said. "I've had a bump in the road along the way, but if I finish in the top three I'll be on the team."

Nikeya Green of Wake Forest and a U.S. National qualifier in the 800, was second in 4:37.3; while Delilah Direscenzo, a Columbia University graduate who now competes in the women's 3,000 meter steeplechase, was third in 4:37.6.

Charlevoix's Alexandra Wilson is seeking Peace partners

TINA SUNDELIUS
SPECIAL TO THE COURIER

Charlevoix native Alexandra Wilson is hoping despite its small size, the Charlevoix community can have a big impact on people thousands of miles away.

Wilson, 26, is a Peace Corps worker currently assigned to Santa Rita De Oria, a village located in what is known as the buffer zone on the border of the Santa Barbara National Park in western Honduras.

Her assignment is to raise the environmental consciousness of the 550-person community.

Wilson recently came home for a 10-day respite and in that time she hopes to create a bond between her home town and Santa Rita De Oria.

Wilson joined the Peace Corps in 2009 after earning her master's degree from the University of Michigan.

She is a member of a 25-person team that lives in or around the protected areas of Honduras.

"Protected area management is what I was invited there to do," Wilson said. "The government asked for us because they do not have the capacity to maintain the protected areas like we do here."

She said her main goal is to educate the people about the value of the protected areas and teach them how they can maintain them.

"The formula of coming in and doing it for them doesn't work," Wilson said. "I'm working with the people to teach them how to do it themselves, you know give a man a fish...."

Wilson explains that "the families actively participate; they help with the work, come to the planning meetings, attend health and sanitation meetings on how to wash hands and maintain a clean home, and have helped me write a small grant."

Wilson was placed with a host family in Santa Rita De Oria and given three objectives: Solid waste and trash management, family gardens and latrine building.

She has organized two successful trash collections but is still working with the community for an environmentally positive way to get rid of trash.

She is teaching the residents to use compost instead of chemical fertilizers and experimenting with a variety of home grown foods to familiarize her with the conditions, climate and pests indigenous to the area.

"Some people are just subsistence farmers, they grow beans, corn and rice to live

City official suspended following arrest

STEVE ZUCKER
COURIER EDITOR

A late night incident in a downtown alley during Venetian Festival has landed the city's street superintendent and his girlfriend in trouble with the law.

Patrick Michael Elliott, 39, and Tammi Dell LaFave, 35, both of Charlevoix, pleaded no contest in 90th District Court on Friday, July 30 to a charge of disturbing the peace. Both were sentenced to pay $200 in fines and costs.

According to a Charlevoix Police Department report, the charges stem from an incident that took place shortly after the Venetian Festival fireworks concluded on Saturday, July 24.

According to the report, at about 11:50 p.m. officer Pete Schrieff was directing post-fireworks traffic at the intersection of Bridge and Clinton streets when a passer-by said to him, "I wanted to let you know, a couple are having sex in Hoop Skirt (Alley) right now." In the report, Schrieff said a short time later he and officer Jim Schlappi walked to nearby Hoop Skirt Alley where they saw Elliott and LaFave near a concrete tree planter where they appeared to be engaged in a sex act.

In his report, Schrieff noted that at the time of the incident, there was a great deal of pedestrian activity in the area because of the Venetian Festival activities and that the alley was well-illuminated both from lights on nearby buildings and from the carnival rides that were operating in the nearby parking lot.

Breath tests administered to the couple at the Charlevoix County Jail at the time of their arrest showed Elliott's blood alcohol content to be 0.238 and LaFave's at 0.23, according to the police report.

Both Elliott and LaFave were originally charged with disorderly/obscene conduct, but the charge was amended to disturbing the peace at the time of their pleas. Charlevoix County Chief Assistant Prosecutor Shaynee Fanara said this is a common practice by the prosecutor's office in cases such as this one. She said both charges are 90-day misdemeanors, but the fines are slightly less on the disturbing the peace charge.

In addition to the sanctions imposed by the court, Charlevoix City Manager Rob Straebel also suspended Elliott for one week without pay.

"After reviewing the police report and discussing the issue with Mr. Elliott, I determined a suspension of one-week without pay would be appropriate and reasonable," Charlevoix City Manager Rob Straebel said.

The suspension started on July 27 and Elliott returned to work on Tuesday, Aug. 3.

"Pat is extremely apologetic and sincerely contrite about his actions and has reassured me this will never happen again. Because of this, no further disciplinary action will be taken on this issue," Straebel said. "Although the City certainly does not condone his actions, we remain supportive of Pat and his work for the city."

City seeks disc golf course input

City of Charlevoix officials are seeking input from the community on a proposal to establish a new disc golf course at the Mount McSaubia Recreation Area.

In a recent release on the proposal, city planning director Mike Spencer noted that disc golf has been played at Mount McSaubia for many years — first on a formal course and later on informal, user-created courses marked by duct tape around tree trunks.

At its May 20 meeting, the Charlevoix City Council discussed an accident in which a hiker had been hit near the eye with a golf disc. At that meeting, the city council decided that something should be done to address disc golf at Mount McSaubia.

At that time, city staff noted that prohibiting disc golf outright would be problematic because such a ban would be difficult to enforce and would go against the city's commitment to increase community recreation opportunities.

With this in mind, the council directed city staff to explore options on how to utilize the McSaubia space in a way that would allow disc golf to be compatible with the area's other uses (hiking trails, day camp, etc.). In the interim, the city staff have temporarily placed signs around McSaubia indicating that disc golf is not an appropriate use on the hiking trails.

Spencer noted that in late-June, city staff along with several members of the disc golf community surveyed the McSaubia area, taking photographs and sketching possible hole locations. From this research, the city created a map of a possible disc golf course. Staff used the old formal and more recent informal courses as a guide, taking advantage of the fact that many of these holes, by virtue of their longtime use, have already been tried and tested.

Spencer said one of the big considerations has been whether to create a nine- or 18-hole course. He said staff opinion is that because the area has so many other uses, a disc golf course would have to be limited to nine holes in order to decrease conflicts with those uses. He noted that the topography and dense forests create issues with hole placement and movement of players from one hole to another and the fact that the city wanted to minimize the likelihood that the course would negatively impact natural vegetation, sensitive hillsides, and wildlife habitats. With these limitations in mind, city staff designed the currently proposed nine-hole course.

Spencer noted that staff also researched the possibility of extending an 18 hole course into the North Point Preserve property immediately north of Mount McSaubia. This property is technically owned by Charlevoix Township and was purchased in part through a Michigan Department of Natural Resources and Environment Trust Fund grant.

"The plan for North Point was to manage it as a natural area," Spencer said. "Many people in the community contributed toward the local share of the funding for the successful trust fund grant. A major proponent and contributor of this project was the Little Traverse Land Conservancy, whose position is that disc golf is an incompatible use with the goals established for the preserve."

Because of this position city staff have not pursued any discussions with the township about using any portion of the North Point Preserve for disc golf.

The proposed disc golf course map can be viewed at www.cityofcharlevoix.org. Written comments related to the development of the course can be submitted to the City of Charlevoix Office of Planning and Zoning, Attn: Mike Spencer, 210 State St., Charlevoix, MI 49720. Comments may also be e-mailed to mspencer@cityofcharlevoix.org. The deadline for comment submissions is 5 p.m. Sept. 3.

Committee sets Boyne City-U.S. 31 trail forum

The Boyne City to U.S. 31 non-motorized trail steering committee will be hosting a community forum 7-9:30 p.m. on Monday, Aug. 16, at the Charlevoix Public Library. Organizers said goal of the meeting is to seek common ground for moving forward on the trail issue.

Discussion about a possible trail linking Boyne City and U.S. 31 for use by pedestrians and bicyclists started in the 2003. Controversy erupted last fall when some residents, especially those living adjacent to the proposed route along the Boyne City-Charlevoix Road, raised concerns about the impact a trail might have on the use and value of their property.

liability, costs and other issues.

Over the past six months, a task force appointed by the Charlevoix County Parks Committee developed five approaches for addressing the trail issue. Those alternatives and background information are outlined in the new Non-Motorized Trail Issue Book, available at www.charlevoixcounty.org and at the Boyne City and Charlevoix Public Libraries.

During the forum, participants will learn about the five approaches and discuss the pros and cons of each approach in small groups. The event is open to all, especially residents along the Boyne City/Charlevoix Road.

For more information, contact the Charlevoix County Planning Department, (231) 547-7234 or MSU Extension, (231) 582-6232.

OPINIONS yours & ours

Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press, or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances.

It takes all kinds ... and that's a good thing

Our summer is still with us and that means more festivals, art shows and people watching. I was standing in the shade of a 10-foot square booth recently refurbished with sparkling white paint and linoleum floors. Did I mention selling kielbasas and hot dogs were the reason I was standing two feet taller and taking in the sights? I enjoy meeting people from all walks and generations and in the summer months our town becomes a melting pot of ethnic varieties and more views on any one topic than I can add up using both my hands and feet. With full view of the street and expansive park I found myself easily amused by people watching while the rhythm of music connected with my ears. I couldn't help but say the time worn expression, with a bit of a sarcastic tinge "It takes all kinds of people to make a world."

I witnessed adults and children, some who have manners and some who have none. For the most part hungry individuals waited patiently for their food and would follow with a thank you. Then I became disappointed when I would hear someone give a resounding "boo" if they were unhappy about someone who appeared in our parade. Now that's just plain rude. Speaking of manners and etiquette, I am far from behaving like Emily Post but when did we stop standing out of respect for our WW II Veterans? I was reminded of this by a good friend that we really need to educate everyone that when a World War II Veteran walks by in a parade its proper to stand and show respect. Sometimes we get too comfy for our own good. The more people you meet the more you realize that we are all wired differently. As Martha Stewart would say, "It's a good thing." And I'll add to it "that we are all different." You surely wouldn't want me to put a new battery in your car or give you directions. Both would take on the scenario of an I Love Lucy rerun. On the other hand if you wanted a home cooked gourmet meal I'm your girl. My husband on the other hand can turn water, but he builds a heck of a deck.

A LOOK AT LIFE

Gayle Gennett

Knowing that we all think and learn differently brings me to the fact that some summer schools are still in progress and other schools are readying for a new school year. We already know that English and math are important but we also need to remember how some of us think in pictures, not in words. How some have the ability to build something without written directions but need only a drawing to peruse. I'm amazed at the natural ability of individuals to know what an animal or child needs without guidance from Dr. Spock (the pediatrician, not the character on Star Trek) or notes from the dog whisperer. Let's not forget, we need to encourage the nerd-like kid who may be socially inept but is driven to do research and may solve the fuel crisis.

The importance of hands-on classes such as building trades, music, art and physical education is endless because without them we are being prejudicial to the child whose mind sees in pictures and not in written word. Never should we water down science and its ability to explore and learn in so many ways. The performing arts set the stage for not only public speaking but for future journalists and novelists. A foreign language expands the minds of a student who may find it difficult to spell English correctly but they may save your butt someday when you need an interpreter. Now more than ever, with standardization of this and that, we need mentors who will come into the classroom and share their experiences and provide the spark for one child to discover what they may want to do in life. So, when I see or hear someone who I think, "Hmmm, where are they coming from?" Instead of criticizing, I'll stop myself and say in a much kinder voice, "It takes all kinds of people to make a world."

AFTERNOON IN NORWOOD ORGANIZER SAYS THANKS

Editor,
"An Afternoon in Norwood," held July 17, brought a crowd of more than 250 to our village for a celebration of old-fashioned fun with music provided by Ernie Mindel and friends. VENETIAN FIREWORKS BEST YET

Editor:
Congratulations to all involved in the 2010 edition of the Venetian Festival. The fireworks on both nights were amazing, but the Saturday night show was, without doubt the best fireworks display we have seen anywhere, and that includes the 1976 fireworks related to celebrations of the bi-centennial of our country. Great going, Charlevoix!

THANKS TO THOSE WHO HELPED DURING MEDICAL EMERGENCY

Editor:
I want to say thank you to the city ambulance crews, and Bob Roloff, Dr. Boss and the Charlevoix Area Hospital emergency room staff, employees and concerned friends at Depot Beach during the (Venetian Festival) fireworks. We experienced a medical emergency Friday evening before the fireworks involving my 8 year-old granddaughter, Ella. She was so worried and upset, and everyone there was so comforting. Ambulances and hospitals can be scary. Thanks to Bob Roloff, and Dr. Boss at the ER. They were very comforting to her mom and dad. Charlevoix you can be so proud. I raised my family in this wonderful town, and it is so gratifying to bring the grandkids here every year to enjoy the wonderful Venetian Festival. Ella enjoyed the parade and all the goodies the next day, and is doing fine. I am so thankful.

Thank you again to the won-

More than ever, 2011 Venetian Festival needs your help

The following guest commentary was written by long-time Charlevoix resident Lou Hollow

Congratulations! Word on the street is that this year's Venetian celebration was the very best. I hope you were able to participate in all or at least some of the festivities. I walked the streets downtown and towards Michigan Beach and Ferry Avenue on almost all the days of Venetian. The crowds were all in a very festive mood and some of the excitement in the air was because of the eagerness on the part of the participants as well as those who shared their skills with us. We all needed a physical and an emotional release and it was there.

So, what did I think made it "special?" Well, the bands — they were as excited as those who were sitting, standing and walking and enjoying the music for every taste. The rides — well, as some of you know, I am too old to participate there, but the youngsters loved all of that. How about the food? Yep, I visited the Lions Club chicken fry and snuck a sample from some of the others with food for everyone's taste. The restaurants and the many shops were in their glory and the crowds loved it all. The beach activities at Michigan Beach and Ferry Beach were well organized and so grand.

The warmest? Well, for me it was all the families who gathered and enjoyed being together one more time. It is a good cause to celebrate. Unfortunately I was not in the parade, as in many years past. But, you know we all love a happy parade, and it was happy. I was told by many that the boat parade was superb.

The climax? For me the fireworks were exceptional. Many of the parents who lived near the fireworks display and had lots of company, all agreed it was the very best they had ever watched. These are people who have been here longer than I have (38 years). Although I did not get downtown for Saturday's fireworks everyone said it was the grandest ever.

So, what am I getting to? You and I know that behind the scenes and in the light of their prominence, the festival took a lot of planning — way in advance. It takes a lot of organizing, and certainly a lot of effort.

Leadership and participants led the way. Our "thank you" to the many special people who planned towards this day.

Now we need you even more as we move to 2011 Venetian. It takes a lot of dollars and cents to plan and prepare for 2011 and the time is now. Dan Barron and his cohorts need you now. How can you help? Well, dear friends, dollars and volunteerism. I was recently informed that $100 from participating families would insure Venetian homecoming celebrations for years and generations to come. Don't have $100 (or have more to share)? Send what you can. Do it now. Want to remain anonymous? That's OK also. Please send your check to Charlevoix Venetian Festival, P.O. Box 120, Charlevoix, MI 49720 or call (231) 547-3872. Let's all nod head and say "OK!"

Thank you.

BRAVO! ON VENETIAN FESTIVAL

Editor:

I grew up in Charlevoix, but moved away in 1983. Many of my friends report home every year for the "festival." We look forward to seeing family and friends. Most of us have attended since we were kids. So here we were at Venetian 2010, most of us turning 50 and looking forward to another great celebration.

I just wanted to thank all the folks in Charlevoix for making this the best trip ever to our home. From the kind and caring folks who worked all week down in the "valley" to care for all the "fudgies" (I am one now), to the all the councils, committees, and boards that organized this fine event. You all should be very proud of this year's accomplishments.

It was wonderful to see so many venues available, especially the live music everywhere. Michigan Beach, in years past, was a side note, but this year it was a true center piece. I heard nothing but great things from folks meandering about town.

Again, Bravo, Charlevoix. Bravo!

I can't wait until next year. Thank you for your hospitality.

Ann Feres: Feb. 27, 1960 - July 28, 2010

Ann Feres, 50, of Charlevoix, was called to Heaven on Wednesday, July 28, 2010, to join family and friends who passed before her. Ann was born Feb. 27, 1960, in Detroit. She grew up in Redford and South Lyon. In 1983, she married her soul mate, Dave Feres. They moved to Charlevoix in 1998, and built their dream home.

Ann worked as a registered nurse for more than 23 years. Her most recent employer was the Friendship Center of Petoskey where she provided senior foot care. She deeply missed her clients after illness forced her to retire early.

Ann loved animals. She trained and showed golden retrievers for most of her life. More recently she enjoyed training and playing with her Welsh pembroke corgi, Windsor. She loved riding and caring for her horse, Trooper. She was active and energetic. One of her most memorable vacations was an East Coast biking trip she took with her husband, Dave. She also enjoyed spending quiet time with Dave and watching sunsets over Lake Michigan.

Ann is survived by her husband of 26 years, Dave; parents, Tom and Lois Carano of South Lyon; grandmother, Martha Rukstelo; brothers, Tom and Mike Carano; sister, Carrie O'Halloran of Chicago; nephews, Garrett and Joe; nieces, Heather, Kinsey, and Alena. She will be greatly missed by all.

Margie was one of the first residents of Leisure World, in Seal Beach, Calif., moving there after retiring from teaching in Palm Springs and Newport Beach, Calif.

Her husband, Gerry, died in May of 1956 and it was in a Leisure World neighborhood that she met her second husband, Ralph Cleman. They married in 1969 and enjoyed many happy years together. Both enjoyed golf and traveling until Ralph's death in 1989.

Margie was a member of the Ladies Golf, Ebell Club, and Geneva Presbyterian Church in Laguna Hills, Calif.

Her survivors include daughter-in-law Marion Richardson, nieces and nephews Sally and Mike Bales, Connie and Carl Wulfman, Helga and David Wulfman and caregiver Ruth Davis.

Margie loved life and enjoyed a gin martini with her friend Alice. We will miss her dearly.

You could win a party in this Early Young home

The Charlevoix Historical Society's Earl Young home tour might be over for this year, but an opportunity still exists to get inside one of the homes. Pictured above, the Radant House on Park Avenue is among nine premiere locations that guests to the upcoming Charlevoix Community Pool auction may bid to have a small party. The Radant House event includes wine tasting for six by Esperance. Reservations for the auction, which are $50 per person, are still available. The auction, which includes a silent auction and sit-down dinner catered by the Grey Gables, is the community pool's biggest fundraiser for the year. The event is slated to begin at 5 p.m. on Sunday, Aug. 8 at Castle Farms. Call 547-0982 for reservations or more information.

TOD Agreement Can Reduce Hassles for Heirs

Benjamin Muladore
Financial Advisor

Among the reasons you work hard all your life may be so you can leave something to your children, grandchildren or other family members. So, naturally, you'd like to make it as easy as possible for your heirs to take possession of those assets you want them to have. And that's why you may want to consider establishing a Transfer on Death (TOD) agreement on certain accounts. Once you've established a TOD agreement or your account, ownership of the assets held in that account pass directly to the designated beneficiaries, bypassing probate. Why is this important? Because probate has three major drawbacks:

- It's time-consuming. If your estate has to go through the probate process, it could easily take a year or more for your assets to be distributed to your heirs.
- It's expensive. Attorney and court fees could devour up to 5% of your estate's value — which means fewer assets going to your loved ones.

the probate proceeding. As you can see, you've got some good reasons to avoid probate — and a TOD agreement can help. Of course, a TOD agreement can't meet all your estate-planning needs. While it may be particularly useful in helping you bequeath specific financial assets, such as stocks, bonds and other assets held in your brokerage accounts, it can't help you deal with estate taxes or address other complex estate-planning issues. And that's why you also may want to consider creating other estate-planning tools, such as a revocable living trust. Similar to a TOD agreement, • It's public. The probate process is open to everyone. This means anyone can obtain a copy of your will, the names and contact information for your heirs, the inventory of assets and other documents filed as part of the probate proceeding. To determine if a TOD agreement is appropriate for your needs, contact your tax advisor or legal professional. It's taken you many years to accumulate your assets, so take some time to help ensure they end up where you want them to go.

"A medical group, usually with religious affiliation, will get together and volunteer their time and skills to go up into little villages, people come from far away and will wait for hours for a consultation. Everyday they discover something that takes more help than they can provide," Wilson said.

"A brain tumor, gall stones and a month-old baby severely malnourished are a few of the cases Wilson recalls.

In a rare instance, because the malnourished infant was a member of the community that Wilson was working with, the examining doctor gave Wilson the money to purchase the infant's formula.

She has been visiting the family and is educating the mother on how to prepare the formula and feed the baby.

"Mothers don't understand why their children don't learn and respond. It's a malnutrition issue."

Her final objective and the one most easily completed, the latrine building project, is weighing most heavily on Wilson while she's here in Charlevoix.

Only about 10 percent of the people in the community are without latrines, but this poses a health risk to everyone, Wilson said.

Agua negras (black water), another name for raw sewage, runs freely in Santa Rita De Oria.

Honduras is presently under a state of national emergency because of a mosquito-borne illness called Dengue fever, and the black water provides a breeding ground for mosquitoes.

Wilson's hope is to raise enough money to build 15 latrines at $150 each.

Before returning, Wilson will be presenting her work in Honduras to various local organizations in hopes of meeting her fundraising goal.

To help build a latrine go to peacecorps.gov, then click on donate and search for Wilson.

"Hopefully I can achieve the funds through creating a little bond between the two communities," Wilson said.

Petoskey boy injured in boating mishap

A Petoskey boy was injured in a personal water craft accident on Lake Charlevoix last week.

Charlevoix County Sheriff Don Schneider identified the injured boy as Joseph Babereck Jr., 12. Joseph was treated for his injury at Charlevoix Area Hospital and later released.

Authorities said the incident happened at about 4 p.m. on Wednesday, July 28 near Oyster Bay in Hayes Township.

Deputies said Joseph was riding a personal watercraft when it struck a wave, throwing him and the driver off and into the water. Joseph injured his arm when he hit the water, deputies said.

The accident remains under investigation. The Charlevoix Sheriff's office was assisted by the U.S. Coast Guard and Charlevoix EMS.

Father, two sons set out to cycle to Gulf of Mexico

STEVE ZUCKER
COURIER EDITOR

Now that the August primary election is over, Charlevoix County Board of Commissioner's member Bob Drebenstedt is stepping off the campaign trail and onto the bicycle trail.

Drebenstedt, 65, along with his sons Troy, 26, and Regan, 23, were planning to set out today, Wednesday, on a roughly month-long bicycle trek from Sault Ste. Marie to the Gulf of Mexico.

The group actually rode the first leg of the journey from Sault Ste. Marie to Antrim County about two weeks ago. On Wednesday they plan to pick up from there and head south with a final destination somewhere in the Florida Panhandle.

Drebenstedt said they have arranged a long-distance relay of friends and family who will shuttle most of their gear from one day's stopping point to the next. He said expect to average about 100 miles per day and plan to stay with friends, or camp along the way.

Drebenstedt said he and his sons are making the long trek to raise awareness of the plight of disabled veterans. Drebenstedt himself is a disabled veteran as is Troy who received a Purple Heart for injuries he received while serving in Afghanistan. Regan is currently in Army ROTC, will be entering active duty after he graduates from college.

The trio will be checking in periodically along their journey with Revolution Bike Shop owner Chet Morris who will post updates on their progress on the shop's website, www.revbike.net.

Tip of Mitt hosting summit on habitats, pollution clean-up

While there are several efforts under way aimed at protecting and restoring the Great Lakes, there is still a long way to go.

Currently, a $475 million Great Lakes Restoration Initiative is working at restoring habitats, cleaning up toxic pollution and confronting invasive species in the lakes.

The Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council is hosting two summits to discuss these efforts.

This year's Lake Michigan Summit will feature presentations and discussion by Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council, Little Traverse Bay Bands of Odawa Indians, Emmet County Lakeshore Association and the Lake Charlevoix Association.

The organizations will discuss their role in the Great Lakes Restoration Initiative, a multi-year effort to accelerate progress in restoring the Great Lakes and eradicating phragmites, an aggressive weed taking over Northern Michigan's shoreline.

The summit will also discuss efforts to protect the lakes from Asian carp.

The first summit took place on Monday, Aug. 2, at the Harbor Springs City Hall.

The second will be from 9 a.m.-noon on Monday, Aug. 9, at the Charlevoix Public Library, community room A.

For more information about the Lake Michigan Summit, visit www.watershedcouncil.org/ or contact Jennifer McKay at (231) 347-1181.

Northern Michigan Regional Hospital offers driver safety refresher course

Northern Michigan Regional Hospital is offering a two-session course for motorists who want a refresher in driver safety.

The sessions will take place from 9 a.m.-1 p.m. on Aug. 17 and 19, at the Northern Michigan Regional Hospital Community Health Education Center, 360 Connable Ave., across the parking lot from the Hospital's main entrance. The cost is $14 or $12 for AARP members.

The program is designed for drivers 50 years of age and older, although any age can attend. It discusses normal age-related physical changes that impact driving, such as eyesight, hearing, and reaction time, in an effort to make seniors safer drivers for more years to come. Traffic situations most challenging for seniors will be discussed. (Some insurance companies offer premium discounts to program graduates.)

Both Charlevoix and Emmet counties each have about 4,000 licensed drivers between the ages of 65 and 85. According to AARP, the organization holds approximately 34,000 classes and more than 700,000 people complete the AARP Driver Safety Program nationwide each year. Four out of five graduates of the class report they adjusted their driving behavior as a result of taking the course.

For registration and more information, call Northern Michigan Regional Hospital at (800) 248-6777 or visit www.northernhealth.org.

CROP Walk slated for Sept. 25

Area residents are gearing up to join in the Charlevoix County CROP Walk, which kicks off at 9 a.m. on Saturday, Sept. 25. The six-mile walk will begin at three Charlevoix County locations, including Elm Pointe in East Jordan, Whiting Park in Boyne City and Charlevoix Middle School in Charlevoix. Each location will conclude the walk at the Congregational Church in Ironton where lunch will be provided for all walkers.

Organized locally, the Charlevoix County CROP Walk has set a goal of recruiting 100 walkers to raise $20,000. The money will be used to combat hunger here in the Northern Michigan community as well as around the world. Organizers said 25 percent of all money raised in Charlevoix County will come back locally to The Good Samaritan of Ellsworth, Care and Share of East Jordan, the Charlevoix Food Pantry, Seventh Day Adventist and Trinity Pentecostal Church of God of Boyne City.

Last year, more than 100 walkers and volunteers raised more than $20,000 and $5,000 of that amount was divided between local food pantries. The remaining funds helped to combat hunger and poor sanitation around the world, including the United States.

For more information about CROP Walk contact Marge Teske at (231) 536-3128, John Young at (231) 547-2042 or Mary Richwine at (231) 582-6035.

Planning commission meeting canceled

The Charlevoix City Planning Commission has canceled its meeting scheduled for 7 p.m. on Monday, Aug. 9, because of a lack of agenda items.

The next scheduled meeting of the planning commission will take place at 7 p.m. on Monday, Sept. 13, when the commission will conduct a public hearing to take comments on the city's 2010 draft master plan. A complete agenda will be posted prior to the September meeting.

Inmates enjoy weeding duty despite its high profile location

When it comes to clothing, there are likely few fashions that make a more notorious statement than the bright orange garb that many jails require their inmates to wear.

Certainly it's not a design in which many people would want to be seen in public.

Yet there is a group of inmates at the who are serving time for various crimes at the Charlevoix County Jail this summer who are more than happy to be seen by thousands of people a day wearing the infamous suits as they work along the side of one on the area's busiest highways.

The men are participating in a new program this summer in which inmates at the jail are handling the daunting task of weeding Charlevoix's famous streetside petunia beds — all five miles of them.

Earlier this year representatives from the Keep Charlevoix

Beautiful organization approached Charlevoix County Sheriff Don Schneider about having the inmates do the weeding work when budget cuts prompted the City of Charlevoix to reduce its contribution to the annual Operation

Beaver Island resident Richard Gillespie, won a close race for the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners Sixth District seat in the Tuesday, Aug. 3 primary election, upsetting incumbent Shirley Roloff, 570 to 446 votes.

"I am delighted to win the primary for the Sixth District of Charlevoix County," Gillespie said. "Not just for myself but for the citizens of the county. I would also like to thank all the people that worked so hard to help me win this election."

been trying to get back in the office.

"It's taken him a lot of years to get back here, but he's finally done it," Roloff said after reading the final results of the election in the Charlevoix County Clerk's office on election night. "I lost it."

Roloff, who has been focusing much of her recent attention on a recycling program for the county, says she hopes it will keep moving forward in her absence, but she isn't giving up on her agenda yet.

"I still have five months to get some things done before I step down," she said.

Gillespie, who will take the 6th District seat on Jan. 1, is ready to get back in the office and says he wants to educate the public about county activities and spending.

"Amongst many objectives I have, one of the biggest is to be sure the citizens are educated in what county commissioners actually do," Gillespie said. "A lot of money is spent on the public's behalf and very few people are aware of what is being done. With the amount of money we spend the public should be kept much better informed on what we do and especially what we are spending."

CHARLEVOIX COURIER 3

Pat Cleland is ready to take over the reins as the new principal for St. Mary School in Charlevoix.

A new calling
St. Mary School welcomes a new principal

TINA SUNDELUS
SPECIAL TO THE COURIER

The new principal at St. Mary School, Pat Cleland, has three very simple guidelines he lives by: Do what's right, do your best, and treat others the way you want to be treated — and that's how 43-year-old Cleland said intends to maintain his character, commitment, and compassion while serving at St. Mary.

St. Mary's Jerry Hunko, who served as the school's interim principal for three months completing the school year after Keisha Veryser left in March, met Cleland 15 years ago while stationed as an associate pastor in Traverse City.

Cleland was also one of 19 respondents to an ad run by the Hunko at the beginning of the summer.

"When you talk about the Christian faith and you talk and he always enjoys what he does. What impressed me 15 years ago still impresses me today, his love for children, he loves them and they love him."

Cleland said, "I am really excited about the grade levels; Pre-K through sixth will take a lot less of my dean of students role and a lot more hugs."

Hunko noted that the school has gone through a lot of changes throughout the years and experienced a lot of growth recently.

Six years ago when Father Hunko first took the position at St. Mary's Parish the school was struggling.

The school is at a crossroad according to Hunko.

"We need to kick it up a notch. We want to take the school to the next level and I think Pat can do that," Hunko said.

"A lot of small schools have closed, what (Hunko) has done is taken a school that was on life support and given it a breath of life and has now gotten it to the point where our numbers (test scores) are going up and what we are hoping for is that we can take what the father has done and add to it," Cleland said.

Cleland said he humbled at the prospect of taking over the 105-year-old parish.

"That's the humbling part of what I'm walking into, you're talking about 105 years — someone had a dream over 100 years ago and it has come true," he said. "When you are handed something and you pass it back you want it to be better than when you got it," Cleland said.

Petunia by $20,000.

In previous years just weeding the flower beds cost the organization about $16,000 to $18,000. Using the inmates, Keep Charlevoix Beautiful only pays for the wages for the sheriff's office staff to oversee the work crew.

Organization co-chair Joe Vogelheim expect the inmate weeding program will easily halve the cost of keeping the flowerbeds weed-free.

The crew has already been through the beds on both sides of the road twice, and Vogelheim said he couldn't be more pleased with how the program is working.

And, despite the fact that when working on the detail, they spend eight hours hunched over in sometimes hot weather, the inmates seemed to unanimously agree.

Several on the crew acknowledged that it's difficult for them when friends or family members drive by and see them working, but they also said they'd much rather be out there pulling the weeds than stuck back in their jail cells.

"It's a little bit of freedom, and that means a lot," one inmate said.

And while they do get some sideways looks from passers-by, the inmates said most people are supportive of what they are doing. Some will honk their car horns or wave as they drive by, they said.

"It makes you feel like you are giving something back to the community," another inmate said.

Vogelheim spoke highly of the work the inmates have been doing and said he often takes the crew coffee for their mid-morning break or some cold drink on a hot afternoon.

"Some have even said to me they'd like to keep volunteering for the work even after they are done serving their jail sentences," Vogelheim said.

Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof, or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press, or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances.

The Internet is a haven for the 'Electronic Mob'

Most of us are familiar with that staple of the old fashioned Western movie where the honest sheriff stares down the lynch mob out to have a hanging. The mob is usually incited by one or a few loudmouth citizens, and then marches to the jail to demand that the sheriff turn over to their not-so-tender mercies the poor prisoner. I recently re-read a remarkable chapter on lynching and mobs in Mark Twain's, "The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn."

Quoting from Huckleberry's account, "By and by somebody said that Sherburn (the murderer) ought to be lynched. In about a minute everybody was saying it." Twain goes on to have Mr. Sherburn confront the crowd and tell us some of what Twain thought about mobs.

Sherburn says that the real lynch mob comes in the night and is masked so as to remain anonymous. He also says that most men are cowards and would not confront someone by themselves, but only with a mob behind them. "The pitiful thing out is a mob," he says.

What has this to do with anything in the 21st century? Two recent news reports confirm for me that the mob is still active, but that now the means can be electronic. A few seconds of a speech by Shirley Sherrod, a black employee of the Department of Agriculture in Georgia, were sent around the country and the world. That few seconds seemed to suggest that she had discriminated against a white farmer. The whole speech made clear that she had in fact helped that farmer and that he was still, 22 years later, a great fan of hers. The original excerpt was made available to the Internet by a Republican looking for a cause to damage the current presidential administration. The Internet apparently does not allow much time for consideration or thoughtfulness, only time for rapid reaction.

The Department of Agriculture, without any serious investigation beyond what was shown in the Internet clip, fired Sherrod. They did apologize and offer to rehire her a few days later, but her reputation is clearly a victim of the Internet mob.

Bullying by students in schools provides another example of the mob mentality that may be encouraged by the Internet. It is quick, it is anonymous, and it is sufficiently damaging to have resulted in several suicides by those students so attacked.

The Wikileaks story also suggests something of the damage that can be done by irresponsible mobs of Internet users, shouting out what they have concluded everyone should know.

The United States Supreme Court has over the years put a few (very few) limits on the freedom of speech. Most notably they suggested that such freedom does not allow one to shout "Fire!" in a crowded theater. The Internet is clearly a crowded place. It has some of the characteristics of a mob, ready to be incited by a few well-placed quotes or even misquotes. It has much of the anonymity of a mob, and it certainly has the capacity to do great personal harm. On the Internet, who is the sheriff in the door, or who is the lone individual who can stare down and silence the mob? I believe we need some social guidance in the electronic era. The Internet not only allows such mob behavior, sadly it may even reward it.

RELAY FOR LIFE

At 7 p.m. on Saturday, Aug. 14 I will be cheering for every cancer survivor as they complete the Victory Lap at this year's Relay For Life of Charlevoix County. One of these survivors is especially dear to me. He is my father-in-law, Ron, who is battling this cruel disease. He is fighting with all his might, without ever complaining throughout his three years of chemotherapy and radiation treatments. He is my hero.

There are many heroes at Relay For Life. Those battling cancer, their caregivers, those who give their time to this event, as well as everyone who donates to the American Cancer Society.

I would like to invite everyone to attend all or part of this year's Relay For Life of Charlevoix County which takes place on starting at 10 a.m. on Aug. 14-15 at Boyne City's Rotary Park. This community event celebrates cancer survivors, remembers loved ones lost and fights back against a disease that takes too much from too many. This is an exciting event where our goal is a world with less cancer and more birthdays. Teams of community members walk a track overnight to raise funds and increase awareness for the American Cancer Society and the fight against cancer.

We would like to extend a special invitation to all cancer survivors, including those who are currently battling the disease. Cancer survivors are our guests of honor at Relay. For survivor registration or general information contact Diane Jorgensen, Community Representative (866) 364-6284 or diane.jorgensen@cancer.org www.relayforlife.org/charlevoixcountymi.

In addition to raising money and celebrating life, every American Cancer Society Relay For Life also has a wealth of information available about cancer prevention, early detection and free support services found in our community.

Northwest Academy on the cusp of new state-approved computer-based learning program

TINA SUNDELUS
SPECIAL TO THE COURIER

True to their nickname, "The Navigators" officials at Charlevoix's Northwest Academy are at the forefront of a two-year-old on-line learning experiment that could be a glimpse into the classroom of the future.

As the start of another school year looms less than a month away, parents for the first time may be hearing advertisements for K-12 online schools such as Connections Academy that are tuition free, accredited and totally virtual.

Although many are taking note of Connections Academy, which currently has an enrollment limited to 400 students in the state this year, last year the same type of program was opened up to schools across the state.

Some schools, such as Traverse City Public and Northwest Academy, attempted a virtual classroom while others chose to wait and see where the trend would go.

There were only 20 programs — known in education circles as "seat time waivers" — written and granted in the State of Michigan last year. These schools were given the opportunity to implement the program in any manner they felt would be successful and many different approaches and philosophies were attempted.

Northwest Academy was among the schools who successfully implemented the program. "Northwest Academy has really done well, their mentoring program has played out well for the students and provided a great deal of support," Marcia Miles, of Edtech Specialists, consultants to the state for seat time waiver, said.

Miles added, "There are successful programs throughout the state but Northwest Academy seems to really be looking at academic excellence and that personal relationship has been real key for them."

Stutzman

Northwest Academy director Gary Stutzman said many people added to the success of Northwest's program including former sheriff George Lasater who was a big help as a mentor the first year of the program until he became busy with another job.

"Getting the right people into the home of the student or as a weekly contact for the student helps motivate them to keep up with their school work in their own time and schedules," Terri Green, Northwest program mentor said.

John Bailey, retired administrator and school consultant said, "Northwest Academy has always had the philosophy that they would do whatever it had to do to fit the program to the kid rather than what traditionally has been to fit the kid to the program."

Stutzman said Northwest focused on kids who have not been successful or just chose not to come to a school building.

Most of the students enrolled in Northwest's seat time waiver program in the 2008-09 school year were at-risk students and Northwest learned that the students became overwhelmed with the prospect of completing six courses daily. In response, Northwest officials contacted the state and gained permission to allow the students to work on one course at a time.

With the state's approval, Northwest's course completion rate jumped from 42 percent to 63 percent between the first and second semesters of the first year and the first semester of the 2009-10 school year ended with an 80 percent course completion rate.

"I think that was the biggest thing we did when we allowed kids to work on one course at a time. These are kids that did not work out in the traditional school setting," Bailey said.

Last year, students in the program attempted 220 classes and completed 198, with eight waiver program students graduating.

Another discovery Northwest has made so far is a preference for software-based instead of on-line education.

"The software programs made it necessary for the mentor to visit the students. The mentor had to go to (the student's) house creating relationships with parents getting parents more involved," Bailey said.

"More than anything else we've ever done in education, these programs individualize learning," Miles said. "We can't all be experts in everything so if we can offer a large variety of subjects and options for kids, they can go where they fit."

"The seat-time waiver program has not taken any students out of our public schools," Green said. "All of the previous students were either homeschooled or out of school for various reasons. The prospects for the program include helping those students who otherwise would have fallen-through-the-cracks and quit school."

"There needs to be a spectrum of choices that goes from the virtual to the traditional," Miles said. "We are not saying throw anything out but we are saying offer these options, we don't want anything cookie cutter."

For the 2010-2011 school year, Northwest will be allowed up to 50 students enrolled in the seat-time waiver program. Openings are still available in the program. Anyone interested in the program should call Gary Stutzman at (231) 547-9000.

Organizers: Pool auction a success

Organizers of the 21st annual Charlevoix Pool Auction that took place at Castle Farms Sunday, said they were pleased with the attendance and money raised during this year's event.

Charlevoix Area Community Pool Director Al Gooch said the final tallies were still under way late Monday, but that he expects the pool organization will net somewhere around $40,000 from this year's luau-themed event.

He said that's likely to be up slightly from last year. He said that attendance was about the same as last year as well — a good thing considering the economic conditions of the past several years.

Pool board of directors member Bruce MacArthur said the highest-priced item of the night was the cruise for four aboard the St. Mary's Cement Ship The Challenger, which sold for $2,250. He said another hot item was an iPad which sold for $900.

MacArthur said he and other board members were especially pleased with the amount of outright donations that were made during the event through "mission" drive. During the drive, pool officials note certain items from the pool's operational budget, that potential donors can fund, such as a month of heating during the winter.

That effort alone brought in about $5,000, MacArthur said.

He pointed to other highlights of the evening including a lively game of "heads and tails" in which players try to guess the outcome of coin tosses, and a rendition of the Hawaiian anthem that brought everyone in attendance to their feet.

The auction is typically the pool's biggest fundraiser each year.

Hansens celebrate golden anniversary

Anne and Steve Hansen, of Charlevoix, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary at a reception in the fellowship hall of the First Congregational UCC Church in Charlevoix, July 10, 2010.

Anne Jones and Steve Hansen were married on June 18, 1960, in Anne's home church, The First American Baptist Church of Ann Arbor. The couple had met in Cleveland, where Steve was a medical student at Western Reserve and Anne had started nursing school after graduating from Oberlin College.

After their marriage, Steve and Anne spent one year in Chicago, and three years in Topeka, Kan. pursuing Steve's graduate medical education. In Topeka, the couple's two children, Hugh and Amy, were born. Anne taught math at Cicero (Ill.) High School for one year and subsequently has been a math and science tutor, Girl Scout leader and swimming teacher.

Steve's two years in the U.S. Air Force, 1964-66, brought the family to the First USAF Hospital at Selfridge AFB outside Detroit. Following discharge from the Air Force the family moved to Milwaukee, Wis., where Steve practiced for 25 years, and the children were raised. Hugh, now in Phoenix, has two children, Elisabeth, and Jeffrey. Amy (Candey), in

At the time of their retirement, in 1993, Steve and Anne moved to Charlevoix where Anne had been coming to Charlevoix for summer vacations all her life. Her mother, Helen Campbell, was actually born in Charlevoix.

Anne has been active in teaching water safety to children at the Charlevoix Area Community Pool, the Charlevoix Garden Club, especially the program at the Bergman Center, and has been on the board of the Charlevoix Public Library. Steve has been active with the boards of the Lake Charlevoix Association, and the community pool.

The Hansens have no immediate plans to have a second winter home.

Thank You!

Teddy Roosevelt once advised us to do what we can with what we have where we are. My bid to serve as 5th District County Commissioner has been an attempt to work for the common good of Charlevoix County with all that I have.

Many thanks to the constituents of Marion, Eveline, and Wilson Townships who voted Tuesday, moving me closer to another term as the Charlevoix County 5th District Commissioner. It has been my privilege to work for you during the past four years, and I am humbled that you have chosen to have me serve another two.

Thank you for your vote of confidence.

Watercraft endurance riders plan lunch stop-over

A crew of 16 personal watercraft riders will be making their way into Charlevoix Thursday as part of the 13th annual Grand Tour 350-mile personal watercraft endurance ride.

The event, run by the Grand Tour organization, is an annual fundraiser that features personal watercraft enthusiasts covering 350 miles of Michigan coastline over three days during the "Leader Dog-days of summer." The net proceeds from the event will once again benefit Leader Dogs for the Blind, a Rochester-based non-profit organization that provides mobility and independence to the visually impaired through the use of dog guides.

This unique endurance ride offers personal watercraft enthusiasts an opportunity to navigate the open waters of the Great Lakes as they travel along Michigan's scenic shoreline. The "Iron Man"-inspired water excursion begins in Mackinaw City on the morning of Thursday, Aug. 6, and concludes in Holland the afternoon of Saturday, Aug. 8. Overnight stops along the designated route include Traverse City and Ludington.

The crew expects to be stopping in Charlevoix around 11 a.m. Thursday, first to fuel up their watercraft at Ward Brothers, then to fuel themselves up at Ferry Beach where local Subway restaurant owner Terry Amick has provided the group with meals for the past 12 years.

"We always look forward the giant subs after riding in on Lake Michigan from Mackinaw City earlier in the morning," event coordinator Jonathan Dennis said. "It gives us the needed energy to head back out on the lake and ride on to Traverse City completing the first of three days on the water."

Last year the riders raised more than $35,000, bringing the group's 12-year total funds raised to $194,000.

Dinner will benefit cancer survivor

The Ironton Congregational Church, UCC, will host a benefit spaghetti dinner for Heidi Trantow from 5-7 p.m. on Friday, Aug. 13.

The church is located at 03582 Washington Ave., one block from M-66.

Organizers suggest a donation of $5 per person for the dinner.

Trantow, 36, is a two-time cancer survivor. At age 23, she was diagnosed with osteosarcoma in the right femur and received chemotherapy and surgery to remove the tumor.

She received a donor bone and the surgeons rebuilt her leg when they took the cancer out.

After a year of intense physical therapy and hard work, Trantow learned to walk again.

Although she needed many follow-up surgeries over the next several years, she eventually was able to take up nursing and for eight years she was cancer-free.

Then, she found a lump in each breast which led to a diagnosis of a rare form of non-Hodgkin's lymphoma.

She received intravenous and spinal chemotherapy. Then she had a stem-cell transplant from a cord-blood donation and had multiple complications.

On March 3, 2009, she had a right above-the-knee leg amputation.

Trantow

After a long recovery and struggle with her first two prostheses, she is now fitted with another prosthesis.

Trantow hopes this will be the end of her long journey.

After 14 years, Trantow says she is ready to move into the next phase of her life and return to her nursing career.

For more information on Trantow go to <http://www.heidisnextsteps.org>. For more information on the dinner call (231) 582-7042.

Davis accepts leadership for the Army's ground combat systems

WARREN — Scott J. Davis of Charlevoix recently accepted the responsibilities as program executive officer for the U.S. Army's Program Executive Office Ground Combat Systems.

Officiating over the change of leadership ceremony from Brigadier Gen. R. David Ogg to Davis was the Malcolm Ross O'Neill, Assistant Secretary of the Army and Army acquisition executive.

The program executive officer is responsible for about $35 billion per year O'Neill said. He is "responsible for stewarding the resources of your tax money; the resources of the manpower; the material of the U.S. Army. It is a responsibility that is only able to be executed with the support of some very outstanding personnel."

Davis was selected for the senior executive service program in November of 2005.

He previously served as the deputy program executive officer, in the integration division, and was responsible for the organization and management of acquisition programs designed to support Brigade Combat Team modernization. Davis led development, production, fielding, and sustainment activities for systems such as the Ground Combat Vehicle, unmanned ground vehicles, unmanned air systems, and unattended munitions.

An Army Reserve officer, Davis is currently assigned to the Assistant Secretary of the Army (AL&T) and has held a variety of positions from platoon leader through battalion executive officer.

Davis holds a bachelor of science degree in mechanical engineering from Michigan Technological University and a master of science degree in industrial engineering from Wayne State University.

Davis is son of Jean Curtis Davis and the late Rick Davis of Charlevoix. He and his wife have two sons.

White Cane Days to benefit the visually impaired

Members of the Charlevoix Lions Club will be collecting donations to help blind and visually impaired people during the annual White Cane Safety Days fund drive Friday, Aug. 13, and Saturday, Aug. 14.

Initiated 80 years ago in Peoria, Ill., the red-banded white cane today is recognized worldwide for identifying and protecting those with little or no sight while crossing streets or otherwise moving about. Giving people with white canes the right-of-way is the law in Michigan, and in every other state.

The White Cane Safety Days event is the second biggest annual fundraiser for Charlevoix Lions, who typically collect more than $3,000 during the fund drive. The money is used to support The Michigan Eye Bank & Transplant Center; The Michigan Leader Dog Training Center and its Puppy Search and Development Program. Lions also support a number of Welcome Homes For The Blind. Locally, the club helps support the low-vision reading center at the Charlevoix Public Li-

Relay for Life wants to flush cancer through purple toilet fundraiser

The Relay for Life of Charlevoix County has found a new way to raise some money and some eyebrows with its new, bright purple toilet fundraising campaign.

Organizers said the program is also intended to raise awareness of the upcoming Relay for Life event which will take place from 10 a.m. Saturday, Aug. 14, to 10 a.m. Sunday, Aug. 15, at Rotary Park in Boyne City.

Through the toilet fundraiser, area residents can have the bright purple commode placed in a friend or family member's yard.

If the toilet ends up in your yard, it will be removed for a $10 donation. For $20 it will be delivered to an address if you're choosing and for $30 you'll ensure that the toilet won't come back.

Mark and Penny Postma of East Jordan, who are in charge of picking up and dropping off the toilet, said most people have received it in the playful nature it was intended.

With few days to go before the Relay for Life, Mark Postma encourages the community to get involved.

During the relay teams of community members walk a track overnight to raise funds and increase awareness for the American Cancer Society and the fight against cancer.

Saturday's schedule includes a light back ceremony at 11 a.m.; a survivor victory lap at 7 p.m.; luminaria candle ceremony at dusk; silent auction from noon-4 p.m.; live country/bluegrass music by Northern Nites from 3-4 p.m. and live rock music by TNT from 5:30-7 p.m., as well as family activities throughout the event.

For survivor registration or general information contact Diane Jorgensen, community representative (866) 364-6284 or diane.jorgensen@cancer.org www.relayforlife.org/charlevoixcountymi. To "pass the potty" contact Mark Postma at (231) 735-3869.

Arts council seeks artists for Rare Threads exhibit

EAST JORDAN — Fiber art exhibits have become a favorite of the Jordan River Arts Council which will host its sixth "Rare Threads" show in October.

Organizers said the exhibits have drawn large crowd, enthusiastic reviews and have featured every type of fiber art.

The 2010 fiber show, "Rare Threads-Eclectic Meanderings," opens on Oct. 3 and runs through Nov. 12. The show has three components: visits by fiber artists to local schools to teach a fiber art, the exhibit, and a series of fiber workshops.

This spring local artists hosted needle felting workshops for 470 fourth and fifth graders in 13 area schools. Their work has been on exhibit in numerous libraries this summer and will be displayed in the lower level gallery during our show.

More than 600 people visited the 2009 show to view the work of more than 60 fiber artists who were juried into the show. This year, the show aims to provide a meander through time, place, style and texture. Organizers are currently seeking fiber artists for this show. Interested artists have until Aug. 16 to submit fiber works for committee review. There is no entry fee. Entry forms are available the organization's Web site, www.jordanriverarts.com.

On each weekend of the show, the Jordan River Arts Council is offering fiber workshops designed to inspire and teach fiber arts. The presenters of these workshops will relate their journeys in various fiber arts and teach specific fiber techniques.

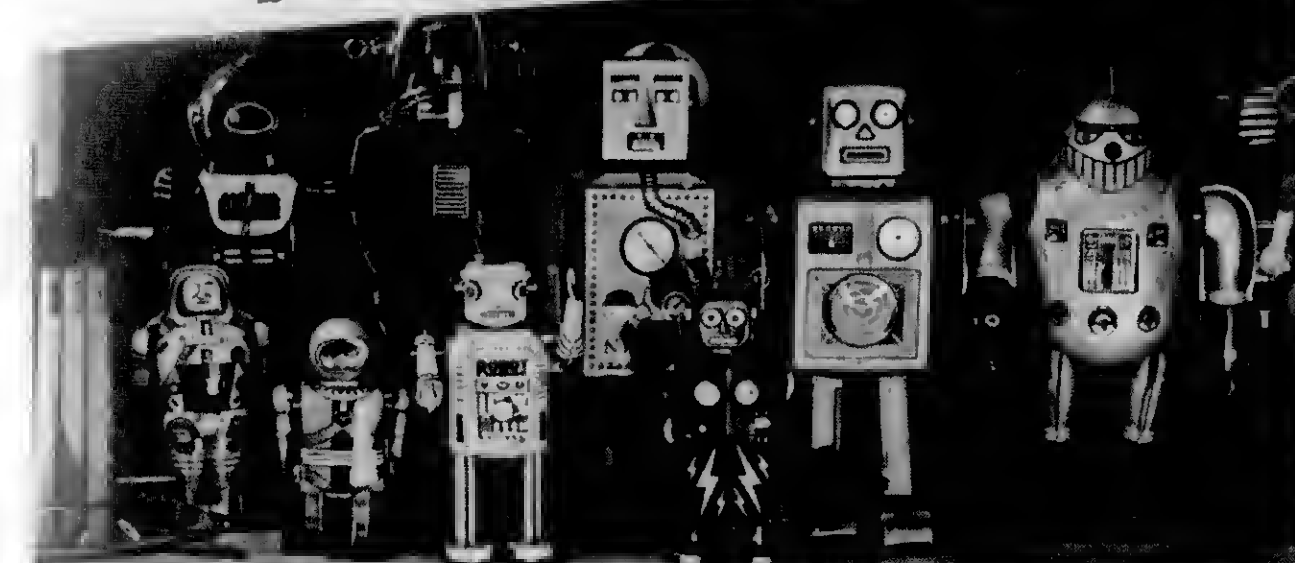

Yvonne Walker-Keshick, an Odawa/Ojibwa quill worker who has work in the Smithsonian museum is back by popular demand to teach the basics of quill work, and describe the layers of her own learning. Lenore Crawford will offer an original design for her participants, and use fusion techniques to create a quilted wall hanging in an impressionistic style. Other workshop presenters are: Julie Hurd, Elizabeth Abeel, Vickie Kelly, Vivian Wanless, Erika Faust, Gretel Geist. Details about each of the workshops, presenters, and a registration form are available on the Web site.

The Jordan River Arts Council is located at 301 Main Street, East Jordan. The phone number (231) 536-3385, www.jordanriverarts.com.

Pasco wins Senior PGA in playoff

ANDY SNEDDON
NEWS-REVIEW SPORTS
EDITOR

Charles Pasco proved himself a good student.

And one of the state's best senior golfers.

Pasco, a former truck driver from Texas who took up golf at age 30, birdied the 18th hole twice in a span of 20 minutes — the first time to get into a playoff, the second time to win it — Tuesday in capturing the Michigan PGA Senior Championship at Charlevoix Golf & Country Club.

The victory earned the self-taught Pasco, the pro at Plum Hollow Country Club in suburban Detroit's Southfield and a resident of Beverly Hills, a check for $2,000 and a spot in the National PGA Club Pro Senior Championship in Southern California in October.

"First time I've won an event like this," said Pasco, whose previous biggest Michigan Section victories had come while partnered with other pros in better-ball format events. "It's going to be very rewarding for me. I set a goal for myself when I turned 50 to take care of my health and give myself an opportunity at the (Michigan) Senior Open."

He had a chance in that event three weeks ago at Bedford Valley in Battle Creek when he posted an opening-round 69 to trail the leader by one shot. He shot an even-par 72 in the second and final round to finish tied for fourth.

He hit paydirt on Tuesday at Charlevoix, winning one of the state's biggest senior titles.

"My whole goal was to give myself a chance to win this," said the gregarious Pasco, who turned 50 (the age of eligibility for senior events) on March 3. "With my length off the tee and my control, I just felt like I had a good opportunity."

"This is the culmination of how my friends have encouraged me and supported me while learning golf, and the friendships that I've made in golf."

Pasco, playing in the final group, came to 18 at 4-under, two shots behind leader Ted Kondratko of Farmington Hills. One group ahead, Bill Mory of Meridian Sun Golf Club in Haslett parred the 18th to finish 5-under.

Pasco curled in an 18-foot birdie putt on the par-5 18th to get to 5-under. Kondratko, meanwhile, took a gutwrenching three-putt bogey, rolling his potential tournament-winning 3-foot par putt just past the right edge of the cup.

"I'd heard from a couple rules officials that Bill Mory was at 5-under and I knew I needed that putt on 18 to get to 5-under and at least get to the playoff and give myself a chance," Pasco said.

Pasco, Kondratko and Mory went back to the 18th tee for a sudden-death playoff. All three put their approach shots right of the green, Pasco and Mory just a few yards apart in a bunker. Kondratko's chipshot from the rough landed more than 30 feet from the hole. Mory was next to play, and his sand wedge landed well short, leaving a 20-foot putt.

Then it was Pasco's turn, and he drew on what he had just seen Mory do, taking a more shallow angle through the sand in order to get more roll out of the ball. Pasco smoothed his sand shot to inside 7 feet of the hole, and on a familiar line, very close to the one he had faced on his must-make birdie putt during regulation.

It was also on the very same line that Mory had and, because Mory was farther from the hole, he putted first, giving Pasco a good look at the way his ball would behave.

Both Mory and Kondratko missed their birdie attempts and tapped in for par. Pasco curled in his for the birdie and the win.

"It was very educational, (Mory's) putt," Pasco said. "It helped a lot."

Pasco shot a 5-under 67 for a one-shot lead in Monday's opening round, played partially in the rain — but with no wind. He made one birdie — the all-important one that got him into the playoff on 18 — and one bogey in Tuesday's final round for an even-par 72. Tuesday's round was played in a steady westerly breeze, the exact element that Charlevoix owner/general manager Dave Mocini had predicted would make scoring more difficult. Of the top 12 finishers, only four posted a better score on Tuesday than he did on Monday.

"There was a lot of in-between (club-selection) shots because of the wind so I was taking a little more club and going long," said Pasco, who hit all but two fairways and three greens in regulation. "I gave myself a lot of looks and a lot of opportunities so I just felt like if I just hung in there and not make mistakes, everything would work out."

It did. Just as his decision to take up golf at 30 has. He turned pro two years later and made himself into one of the state's top players, good enough to earn trips to the National Club Pro Championship in 2007 and '09. He missed the cut both times by one shot.

The North Coast Imagegear 13 and under baseball team finished fifth out of eight teams in the Frankenmuth Baseball Showcase this past weekend. The North Coast team features eight players from Charlevoix.

In pool play, North Coast lost to the Michigan (Thumb Area) Plow Boys, 7-2; defeated Michigan (Clinton Township) Stingrays, 5-4; and lost to the Bloomfield Sting, 3-0. In the fifth place game, North Coast defeated the Elba (Lapeer) Bulldogs, 12-2.

Tied after four innings, the Plow Boys scored five in the fifth to pull away for the win. Nate Moon, Shane Sutherland, Austin Putman and KeNen Borths (double) had hits for North Coast. Will Telgenhof and Moon both stole three bases in the game.

Sutherland gave up only two hits, one walk and one unearned run in three innings on the mound. He struck out five Plow Boys.

North Coast rode a five-run fourth inning to victory against the Stingrays. Putman and Jacob Monroe had RBI doubles. Kenny Gray and Moon had two hits apiece. Andrew Michaud and Adam Michaud both had RBI singles while Sutherland also singled.

Telgenhof picked up the win in relief, striking out three in three innings. Gray started and struck out six in his three innings of work.

Moon and Monroe managed the only hits against the Stingrays. Sutherland and Moon each pitched three innings and struck out four.

North Coast scored early and often en route to the mercy rule win over the Bulldogs. Gray tripled, Moon homered, Sutherland doubled and Wesley Moulden singled to score three runs in the first inning.

Seven straight batters — Moon, Sutherland, Moulden (RBI single), Monroe, Putman (RBI single), Borths and Devin Largent reached base in the third, leading to five more runs and an 8-0 lead.

The Bulldogs scored two to close the gap but a North Coast four-run fourth keyed by five walks and four stolen bases ended the game early. Moon, Sutherland, Moulden, Putman and Borths all drew walks in the decisive frame. Putman stole third and scored on a wild throw to end the game.

Moulden threw three no-hit innings and struck out five to earn the pitching victory. Sutherland struck out two in an inning of relief.

For the tournament, Sutherland struck out 11 batters in seven innings. Moon led North Coast at the plate with five hits, five runs and eight stolen bases. Sutherland had four hits and three runs. Gray, Monroe and Putman all had three hits. As a team North Coast stole 18 bases and was caught only twice.

Junior golf wraps up season

The Charlevoix County Junior Golf Program recently concluded its 15th summer of providing golf lessons and competition for the youth of Northern Michigan. The final event of the year was the traditional awards and picture day. Although most of the 140 youth who participated in this year's program were from Charlevoix, players from Petoskey, Boyne City, East Jordan, and Ellsworth were also among the participants. Juniors played at four local clubs, the Charlevoix Country Club, the Belvedere, the Charlevoix (municipal) Golf Club, and Antrim Dells.

Ten juniors were awarded scholarships to attend the Ferris State University week long golf camp and two Charlevoix graduating seniors that were former junior golfers were awarded stipends for freshman college book expenses. In addition, 18 juniors won season-long passes for the municipal course as members of "Steve's Kids."

Program executive director, Dean Davenport said he was especially pleased with the program this year. "It was the most 'focused' group we have ever had. Their interest in improving and their attendance at each session was the best. Our mentor program had more than 25 adults that committed to attending each session and that allowed for a safe teaching and playing environment. Both the Belvedere and the Charlevoix Country Club provided incentives which rewarded our mentors, and as a result, our program continues to improve."

Both courses allow mentors special golfing dates. Davenport also cited the teaching professionals that donate their time.

"Steve Braun, Marty Joy, Joan Waha and Scott Blechel. In addition, Antrim Dells, Belvedere, Charlevoix Golf and Country Club and the municipal course provide course time for teaching and playing sessions even during the busy summer time. The Charlevoix Recreation Department provided us with some administrative help which has enabled us to handle the tremendous amount of paper work associated with having this many golfers," he said. "The secret to our success is simple: Caring adult mentors, devoted teaching professionals, and local courses willing to set aside prime time for youngsters, all have combined for an outstanding junior program, one for which Charlevoix can be proud."

Davenport noted that a few participants did not pick up their picture during the award day and can now pick them up at the Artvark Studio and Gallery on Bridge Street in Charlevoix. There is no charge.

Boyne City teen headed to junior skiing world championships

Wellman on his way to reaching an even bigger goal

DAVID HOPKINS
NEWS-REVIEW STAFF WRITER

BOYNE CITY — A local Boyne City teenager is heading to Lake Wanaka, New Zealand, on Aug. 17 to compete against the best junior freestyle skiers in the world in the International Ski Federation Junior World Championships.

Ty Wellman may be only 17 years old, but he has already accomplished a lot in competitive skiing and will soon be heading around the world on a venture that will match him against some of the world's best skiers.

"This will be the biggest competition I've ever been in," Wellman said about the junior championships.

He considers getting to the event as his proudest accomplishment in skiing and says a good performance there would get him on pace for reaching even bigger goals.

The halfpipe that Wellman will be competing in is a 500 to 600 foot-long trench with high, steep sides. The competitors ski down the side into the trench one at a time and launch into the air off the opposite side. When in the air they perform tricks that are rated by a panel of judges who are looking at the difficulty of the move, how it's performed and the landing. The skiers repeat this the entire length of the pipe, getting in about five big jumps with each run.

The Junior World Championships will showcase the best junior competitors in both skiing and snowboarding in a variety of events. Wellman's event will be the last of the 11-day competition and he feels he'll be prepared physically and mentally for his big moment.

"I'll be training with some good coaches when I get over there," Wellman said. "My event is last so that gives me some time to get on the snow and get ready."

Wellman also has a routine to prepare himself mentally before a contest.

"The night before a competition I visualize the routine I'm going to do," Wellman said. "It's all very mental and I have to get the moves imbedded in my mind before I can do them on the snow."

The Junior World Championships have been one of Wellman's skiing goals for a long time, but he has his sights set even higher for the future.

"I want to get into the X-Games," he said. "And if they have the halfpipe for skiing in the Olympics in 2014 I'd like to make the team."

A fundraiser dinner and silent auction are scheduled at Samminich-N-Sudz restaurant in Boyne City from 6-8 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 12, to raise money for Wellman to go to the games and help him compete in other contests throughout the winter months. Donations will be accepted at the door. Silent auction items are also being accepted.

For more information, call (231) 582-0097.

Trail talk

Citizens weigh in on pathway options

DAVID HOPKINS

CHARLEVOIX—More than 100 interested citizens were in attendance Monday night at the Charlevoix Public Library for the Non-Motorized Trail Forum to discuss the proposed trail along Boyne City-Charlevoix Road.

The forum was designed to provide a means for people to come to some common ground about the issues surrounding the trail debate while reducing the tensions experienced in some of the past meetings.

"The issue started to get a little heated at the meetings last fall," said Dean Solomon, senior educator for the Michigan State University Extension in Boyne City. "The forum process allows people who normally wouldn't say anything to be more involved while not letting others dominate the discussion."

The trail, if completed, will connect Boyne City with U.S. 31 and will be for use by all non-motorized means of travel. A steering committee was assembled last winter to develop a series of options for discussion at the forum. They came up with five different approaches about how to handle the trail development.

Solomon, who was the head mediator at the forum, briefly introduced each of the five approaches for possible development of the trail and then left the discussion to the community.

"I don't want to say too much about the approaches," Solomon said. "I want you to be able to speak freely about them in your small groups without interference."

All in attendance were randomly placed into six small groups of between 13 and 15 people to discuss what they liked and didn't like about each of the different approaches. There was a mediator in each group to make sure everyone had a chance to speak and no one person was dominating the discussion.

Approach One is to build a detached trail within the Boyne City-Charlevoix Road right of way. Many felt this would be the safest option for the trail because it would separate those using the trail from the traffic on the road. While there was no dispute about the safety of the trail being detached from the road, some still opposed the idea saying it infringes on the property of the residents along the road.

Approach Two would be to build a trail attached to the Boyne City-Charlevoix Road for non-motorized travel. With this approach the shoulder would be expanded five feet on each EAST JORDAN — A semi truck attempting to turn around on a side street in East Jordan left the Little League baseball field concession stand in ruin on Tuesday, Aug. 10.

According to East Jordan Police Department officials, at approximately 7:30 p.m. a semi truck traveling eastbound into the city on M-32 attempted to turn around on Echo Street next to the baseball field and struck the concessions building, collapsing it.

The concession building was made of cinder block construction with a wood roof and was attached to the side of a storage building of the same style.

Police did not cite the driver of the vehicle for any infraction in the incident and no one was injured.

There was no game being played on the field at the time of the accident and no one was in the building.

The truck sustained only minor damage.

City officials don't yet know if the building will be a total loss or how much it will cost to fix or replace the structure.

Police have arrested three people in connection with break-ins on two consecutive nights at Andy's Market and Deli last week.

The defendants include, Michael Robert Knapp, 17; Curtis Roy Russell, 17; and Corey Joel Winters, 20, all of Charlevoix. side of the road and would be marked as being only for non-motorized travel.

Approach Three would be to build a combined trail with portions attached to the road and portions detached from the road along the Boyne City-Charlevoix Road. This approach would keep the trail separate from the road in areas where the land owners agreed to allow the trail on their property. The trail would go next to the road in areas where the landowners did not agree to have it on their property.

Proponents of Approach Three say it's the best way to balance the issues of safety with the concerns of the landowners.

Approach Four is to build a trail to connect Boyne City to U.S. 31, but not along the Boyne City-Charlevoix Road. If this approach is chosen as a solution for the trail, further research will need to be performed to determine the best route for the trail, which could delay the project further.

Approach Five is to discontinue any discussion on building a non-motorized trail. This approach would end all discussion and no trail would be considered at this time.

The small groups discussed the approaches for nearly two hours, listing their ideas on large sheets of paper, before they were all completed. The ideas of each group will be logged and handed over to the steering committee for review.

I believed at the time, and I still do, that if my muscles were firmed and my balance improved, I could possibly feel younger and ward off getting knee or hip surgery any time soon. In my journey a couple of things happened.

I began to realize my hearing was failing. Individuals would sway and move about like graceful swans acutely aware of their surrounding and moving as one with unbelievable agility. I'd be two steps behind in another movement. Realizing I couldn't hear the instructors soft voice, this was B.H. (before hearing aids) I needed to closely watch others. Once posed in thoughtful position (lots of this going on) I began planning my dinner menu and making lists of things that needed to be done prior to the weekend. Whoops multi-tasking again. Multi-tasking is not a word that's used often with gurus, yogis or anyone east of Rhode Island. Oh, I think my mind is supposed to be quiet. How do I do that? Can people really do that?

While in the comfort of my own home I usually lay out a teal colored mat during the beautiful morning hour while the sun begins to glisten in the window. I am in my downward dog facing pose but instead of resting my mind, I am thinking, "Gosh I didn't know the skin on my legs could sag?" I am also listening to the latest news and catching the weather report.

Eight years hence I've realized yoga is for stretching your muscles and to quiet your mind so you can meditate. A faithful follower will sit in the same position for hours and that stretching part came about so your muscles wouldn't tire while in positions for long periods. I usually break the cardinal rule about quiet but I religiously do my stretches and have strengthened my forearms enough to carry a 20-pound infant grandson without any difficulty — quite a feat for me who use to complain about picking up bags of dog food or cat litter weighing the same. My muscle strength has improved and I am eating healthier. I love Greek yogurt and its part of my daily menu. Now I have more stamina and a better digestive tract with the help of this diet change. It's a far cry from the cherry pie I used to scarf down. I still eat pie, just not for breakfast anymore.

In the old days I'd show up for yoga class after a full meal. Anyone into this healthy concept can surely appreciate the trauma I put my insides in with each twist and turn. At the end of each class when all are laying flat on their backs in quiet restful pose, my snoring usually alerted everyone that class was about to end. Namaste.

Yes, with my poor hearing for years I thought I heard "Have a nice day" to which I would reply "you too."

LETTERS to the editor

THANKS TO THOSE WHO SUPPORTED CAR WASH FUNDRAISER

Editor:

On Saturday, Aug. 7, the city (of Charlevoix) held a car wash fundraiser at the fire station to benefit our lifetime resident, 36-year city employee (now a retiree) and dear friend, Judy Przybylski. Judy has been battling a brain tumor for many months and is facing another surgery and mounting medical expenses.

On behalf of Judy's friends at city hall, I would like to thank everyone who helped with the planning and execution of our very successful car wash: Harbor Industries for help with advertising, Seovies for providing lunch to the car wash workers, WCCW for advertising, and the following individuals for volunteering their time and talents: Kelly Bradley, Jim Caldwell, Hal Evans, Mary Ann Evans, Ed Frye, Lyle Gennett, Paul Ivan, Alida Klooster, Chuck Klooster, Brian MacDonald, McKenna MacDonald, Parker MacDonald, Gabby Martinez, Sam Martinez, Troy Martinez, Dawson Matter, Jerry Meggison, Bruce O'Connor, Carol Ochs, Jill Picha, Dan Riley, Bob Roloff, Willy Schoof, Dean Spencley, Patti Spencley, Rob Straebel, Joe Travers, Janine Warner, and Linda Weller.

Thanks to the car wash and subsequent donations, we were able to raise more than $1,700 to help Judy. Donations are still being accepted. Please stop into city hall or mail your donation to: Charlevoix City Hall Attn: Stephanie 210 State Street Charlevoix, MI 49720 (checks should be made out to JUDY PRZYBYLSKI)

Again, on behalf of all of Judy's friends, I thank you.

DOES VENETIAN NEED TO LAST A WEEK?

Editor:

In the last few years since the Venetian festival went to a full week, there is a plea to everyone to help pay for it all and for volunteers. Having grown up in Charlevoix and helping with the festival in past years when it was a four day event with only one night of fireworks, I do not understand the need to have a full week of Venetian festivities with two nights of fireworks. Are the stores and restaurants really benefiting?

The motels are for sure. But I always thought Judy was a busy time in Charlevoix anyway. Just a thought.

I would, however, like to commend the committee for all of their work, money and time. For such a small group, you sure do a great job. Thank you.

project was able to be completed.

We believe that Joe Vogelheim, in particular, should be congratulated by the entire community for seeing that this project became a reality. Through his ingenuity, intelligence and all-out efforts, the organization was able to raise enough money to get the job done. With significant reductions in the contributions from various entities from previous years, Joe had to accomplish this task on a very limited budget. While we realize that a number of people, including all of the volunteers who planted the petunias, helped in this endeavor, Joe Vogelheim's efforts clearly stand out.

It is obvious that the maintenance of the petunias is not as significant as in previous years. We know that Joe was able to negotiate an arrangement to allow the prisoners to do the weeding which has been done so far. It would be nice if the property owners along Bridge Street helped to maintain the petunias in front of their property and allow the prisoners to maintain the remainder.

Despite all of this, we think Joe should be commended for his efforts in devising a method for planting the petunias and getting as much maintenance work done as possible on a very limited budget. This took a tremendous amount of time and effort and we should be thankful that people like Joe volunteer to spend their valuable time and energy to help make Charlevoix the beautiful place that it is.

Planting the petunias is a wonderful tradition which should be continued in any event. In order to do this, we need people like Joe to get this project done.

United Way sets sights high for 2010-11 fundraising campaign

RACHEL BROUGHAM

The Char-Em United Way will attempt to raise more money than ever during their 2010-11 campaign.

The organization set a goal of raising $350,000 by next May, an 8 percent increase from last year.

The funds raised will support health and human service programs throughout Charlevoix and Emmet counties.

In addition to the fundraising goal, the Frey Foundation also offered a challenge grant of $20,000 when the campaign goal is achieved.

"The worse the economy gets, the greater the demand there is for social services," said board president, Boh Carlile.

"But people can be sure of the care and fairness their pledges and donations are placed back in our community through the Char-Em United Way."

Ninety percent of what is raised each year is given back to local organizations and programs. That money helps approximately 20,000 residents in Emmet and Charlevoix counties each year.

Carlin Smith, executive director of the Petoskey Regional Chamber of Commerce and Erin Bemis, executive director of the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce, will serve as this year's campaign co-chairs.

"I believe strongly in Char-Em United Way," Bemis said. "Community is extremely important and together we can make the best of it all by donating our time, pledges and gifts to Char-Em United Way."

Smith stressed the importance of involving businesses throughout the two counties in this year's campaign.

"We are going to be the voice for small businesses in workplace campaigns," Smith said. "Petoskey Chamber of Commerce is a small office, but we manage every year to have a campaign, so why can't other small businesses have more workplace campaigns? Our goal is to involve more small businesses this year than in the past."

Char-Em United Way executive director, Martha Lancaster, admitted that the higher campaign goal will be a challenge due to the struggling economy.

"The needs for programs and services the Char-Em United Way supports are greater than ever," Lancaster noted. "We are confident that we will be able to reach our goal through renewal support as well as by recruiting new workplace campaigns and individual donors."

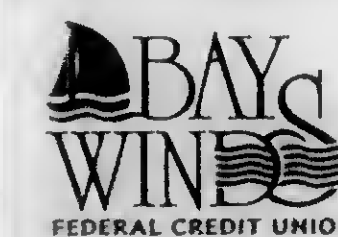

Campaign activities begin in early September, and Lancaster noted that the campaign is already at 5 percent of its goal.

New law requires more student vaccinations

DAVID HOPKINS
NEWS-REVIEW STAFF
WRITER

All Michigan students entering the sixth grade this fall are now required to receive immunizations before they will be allowed to attend school.

A new state requirement, which went into effect earlier this year, includes three separate shots and is intended to keep children healthy and help prevent the spread of potentially deadly diseases.

The immunizations are required for all children who will be entering the sixth grade and any student between the ages of 11-18 who is changing school districts. The shots include inoculations for tetanus, diphtheria, whooping cough and meningococcal disease. The Health Department also recommends that all students get immunized for chicken pox if they have not been previously, but this is not required.

The health department and the Michigan Department of Education said they are working together to keep school-age kids healthy and say the shots are an important step to make this happen.

"These shots are really important," said Pat Fralick, director of Family and Community Health Services for the Health Department of Northwest Michigan. "We have had a lot of whooping cough through Northern Michigan and getting immunized is very important to stop its spread."

Kids can get the shots at their family doctor, pediatrician or at one of the health department locations in Charlevoix, Petoskey/Harbor Springs, Gaylord, Bellaire or Mancelona.

"We were able to get a large amount of the vaccines from stimulus funds so we are now able to provide, the otherwise very expensive immunizations, at a much more affordable price," said Fralick.

The series of shots, which would normally cost more than $200 dollars, is now being offered by the health department for $15 as long as their supply lasts.

"The shots are much cheaper now," Fralick said, "but we still won't turn anyone away who isn't able to pay. We want everyone to be able to get the shots."

The new vaccination rule requires the students to get the shots before going to school, but there is a way for families who are opposed to their children receiving the inoculations to get around the new requirement.

"We have a waiver available for families who don't want their children to receive the inoculations," said Jane Sundmacher, public information officer for the Health Department of Northwest Michigan. With the waiver, which is available at the health department, students will be allowed to attend school without the series of shots.

The health department says they have had a steady flow of students coming in for shots through out the summer, but expect this will increase as the school year gets closer. They urge everyone who needs the shots to get them as early as possible so there is no last-minute rush.

"With the vaccines being offered at this rate it's a win-win situation for everyone, from the students who get the vaccines to the schools," Fralick said. "The vaccines will help fight the spread of diseases and will provide a better learning environment in the schools."

To make an appointment for shots at the Health Department of Northwest Michigan, call their central number at (800) 432-4121.

Additional information about vaccines is available on the Health Department website at www.nwhealth.org.

Little Brown Bag event highlights foster care needs

The image is a stark one: Children who have been abused or neglected coming into foster care with little but the clothing they wear, or their few belongings jumbled into a brown paper or plastic garbage bag.

But it's the important message of Child and Family Services' Little Brown Bag Campaign, an insert for which can be found in this week's edition of the Charlevoix Courier.

Organizers say the Little Brown Bag Campaign is a reminder of the plight of children entering the foster care system — their need for stable, affectionate, and disciplined parenting, for clothing, school supplies, transportation, and for the extras of childhood such as music or dance lessons.

The Campaign has raised more than $190,000 for these needs in the past 20 years.

During the Little Brown Bag Campaign, readers of Northern Michigan newspapers will find a small brown paper bag imprinted with that message of heartbreak as well as of hope — that the care of individuals can truly make a difference in the life of a child whose beginning has been less than ideal. Donors may place a contribution in the bag, stamp it, and mail it.

"The Little Brown Bag Campaign not only raises money for kids in need right here in our community," Child and Family Services Executive Director Jim Scherrer said, "It calls attention to the vital need for people who have room in their hearts and their homes to become foster and adoptive parents. We are grateful to everyone who has helped make this campaign successful these past 20 years, and we're hoping for a stellar 21st year."

Child and Family Services averages about 170 children a day in out-of-home placement. Children are placed in foster care because of abuse, neglect or delinquency, and range in age from newborn to 18 years.

In Charlevoix County, Boyne City residents Craig and Lori Cheadle have their first foster child, a 13-year-old girl, after becoming licensed foster parents through the program in February.

Lori, a hair stylist and Craig, who owns Boyne Irrigation, have two daughters of their own, Brenna, 18, and Torri, 16.

Lori Cheadle said she and Craig love children and had talked about adopting prior to having to children of their own. She said over the years they have served as a host family for foreign exchange students and became interested in becoming foster parents when they learned of the program through their church.

Lori described the experience of being foster parents as, "very rewarding."

She said the process for becoming a foster parent is not difficult, but it is very thorough.

"You pretty much have to lay it all out there," Lori said of the required background checks. "But its good to know that they are so detailed. They really do their homework."

For more information on the Little Brown Bag Campaign, or on how to become a licensed foster or adoptive parent, call Child and Family Services at (231) 946-8975.

Wequetonsing grants wheelway easements

Action will close gap in Charlevoix-Harbor Springs trail

RYAN BENTLEY
NEWS-REVIEW STAFF
WRITER

HARBOR SPRINGS — Easements to be provided by the Wequetonsing Golf Club are expected to help in closing a gap in the Little Traverse Wheelway recreation trail running alongside M-119.

The Harbor Area Regional Board of Resources (HARBOR Inc.) — a regional planning organization that has helped facilitate the trail's development in the Harbor Springs area — announced that the club's board of directors recently approved permanent easements to two parcels of its property along the route.

Construction of a retaining wall that would facilitate the trail's completion also was approved by the board.

HARBOR Inc. executive director Danna Widmar said the board's actions are positive news.

"We have just 400 feet to go to complete the final leg of the bike path," she said.

"When we started talking with Wequetonsing, the gap was approximately one-half mile.

"When completed, the bike path will wind through the woods and alongside the golf course, creating a great experience for riders."

Two permanent property easements will be granted: a 24-by-16-foot parcel of land at the eastern edge of the golf course at the corner of M-119 and Emmet Heights Road and a portion of the woods adjacent to the west entrance of the golf course.

In addition to granting the permanent property easements, Wequetonsing has proposed the construction of an approximately 3-foot-high retaining wall along 200 feet or so of the trail route to accommodate changes in elevation.

"Wequetonsing's full cooperation has enabled us to resolve several important issues," said Harbor Springs Mayor Al Dika. "Our next step is to work with the Michigan Department of Transportation regarding the roadside water ditch that is part of the final 400 feet of the bike path."

Currently, Wheelway users travel along M-119's shoulder in the areas where there's no dedicated trail.

"Wequetonsing's commitment is impressive," said Widmar. "The club's willingness to grant access to its land at the corner of M-119 and Emmet Heights and allow the path to come through the woods on its property is a huge benefit to the community."

Wequetonsing Golf Club retained an engineering firm in March of this year to assist its board in evaluating options for extending the bike path alongside the golf course. The firm's recommendations were reviewed by the board in early July and later shared with the membership and representatives of HARBOR Inc.

In recognition of HARBOR Inc.'s role in promoting trail development, the golf club's board also has recommended and approved a special grant of $25,000 to aid HARBOR Inc. and the Michigan Department of Transportation in completing the final leg of the trail along M-119.

Widmar said these funds will provide seed money for needs such as engineering and legal work. But she added that HARBOR Inc. and MDOT haven't yet finalized how to pay for the remaining trail construction itself.

The last major segment of the Little Traverse Wheelway — which runs for about 26 miles between Harbor Springs and Charlevoix — was constructed between Pleasantview Road in Little Traverse Township and the eastern outskirts of Harbor Springs in 2009. Transportation enhancement funds administered through MDOT were a key funding source for this project.

"We assume that enhancement dollars would be used to finish construction (on the yet-to-be-completed portions of the trail)," Widmar said, although details haven't been finalized.

Widmar is hopeful that the bike path can be finished in the near future, but noted that it's premature to speculate on a completion date.

"With Wequetonsing's easements in place we are ready to talk with MDOT about solutions to the water by the roadside," said Widmar. "The good news is that now we have just 400 feet to go to complete a 26-mile trail."

Emmet-Charlevoix County Fair runs from Aug. 21-29

If there is one word to describe this year's Emmet-Charlevoix County Fair, it would be, "big."

From a new monster truck show, to carnival rides that offer spectacular views high above Little Traverse Bay, to six large barns full of animals and exhibits, this year's fair is one big event.

"I think this is going to be one of the best fairs we've had," fair manager, Agnes Shaw said. "There are just so many big things going on this year, we really worked hard to make this year's fair a great one."

This year's Emmet-Charlevoix County Fair runs Saturday, Aug. 21 through Sunday, Aug. 29.

For more than 105 years, the fair has been tucked just south of Petoskey, along Little Traverse Bay.

A recently-renovated 2,500-plus seat, covered grandstand, hosts a variety of highlighted events throughout the fair, including a first in fair history — a monster truck show.

"We've been talking about adding a monster truck show for years now and we finally agreed on a price with the company," Shaw said. "And I can guarantee that these monster trucks are the real deal."

The big wheeled, car-smashing trucks are from Michigan Monster Trucks company.

Six full-size monster trucks and four mini-monster trucks are planned for the event, barring any mechanical malfunction, including Predator, the company's most popular truck.

About 20 cars are expected to be demolished during the show.

Fair organizers are expecting more than 3,000 people for the monster truck show which is scheduled for 7 p.m. on Saturday, Aug. 21.

"It's going to be cozy, that's for sure," Shaw said.

riety of species.

"The barns are always a popular attraction, especially for the young kids," Shaw said.

The fair's carnival will open on Tuesday, Aug. 24 and run through Sunday, Aug. 29.

And of course, merchandise and food vendors will be on hand throughout the fair, offering favorites including corn dogs, cotton candy, hand cut French fries and elephant ears.

"We really do have some of the best food at this fair," Shaw said. "For many, the food they eat at the fair is a once a year treat and it's something they look forward to each year at this time."

For the last 100 years, members of the First Christian Church in Petoskey have made and sold pies at the fair.

"It really is some of the best pie in the world," Shaw added.

Admission to the fair is $3, and those 12 and under are free.

Also, Saturday Aug. 21 and Sunday, Aug. 22, there is no gate fee.

"We really do our best to make the fair affordable for families so everyone can come and have a little fun," Shaw said.

For more information about this year's fair, call (231) 347-1010.

Trust seeks to preserve Walloon Lake shoreline

BRANDON HUBBARD
NEWS-REVIEW STAFF
WRITER

A remote portion of Walloon Lake could become a preserve if a local conservancy organization can find the financial backing.

Slated for purchase by the Walloon Lake Trust and Conservancy, the "Mud Lake Protection Project" would combine the purchase of a 15-acre, 1,600-foot waterfront wetlands parcel with a 58-acre parcel of farm land on the eastern side of Mud Lake at a total cost of $575,000.

"Mud Lake" is a secluded, relatively shallow area at the northern tip of Walloon Lake's west arm. It is accessible by smaller boats through a narrow inlet, but much of the property around it is undeveloped.

Property owners Ken and Donna Billiau approached the conservancy about protecting their centennial farm on Walloon Lake in 2009. Under the purchase, the farm property would continue to be used for farming purposes.

"It's the highest price project that we have attempted to protect, and the most Walloon Lake shoreline that we could hope to protect," said Betsy Lieberman, the executive director of the Walloon Lake Trust and Conservancy. "It's one of the rare shorelines that probably looks like it looked a hundred years ago."

Lieberman approached the Resort Township Board of Trustees for financial support for the project Tuesday night as part of a five-day push to raise funds for the purchase. A specific donation amount was not specified.

Because grant attempts fell short, the conservancy will be seeking private donations and "any other avenue possible" to meet the price tag, Lieberman said.

"Our primary mission is to protect watershed of Walloon Lake, which is one of the highest priced assets of the five surrounding townships," Lieberman said.

Essentially, the waterfront wetlands portion of the project will cost a total of $225,000, while the farmland portion would be an additional $350,000.

While Resort Township is one of the few Northern Michigan communities with a "purchase of development rights ordinance" to allow them to acquire certain property rights, Resort Township trustee Don Caird said the township would have to either own or have name-rights to a portion of the property to donate funds.

Caird also pointed out that a ranking system would need to be established by the planning commission — to evaluate the township's priorities and prevent bias — before any such donations could be given.

The township planning commission has been working on such a system for the past two years, Caird added. Although the trustees were unable to commit any funding to the project immediately, they did offer verbal support for the conservancy's efforts.

The Walloon Lake Trust and Conservancy, a 501(c)(3), was created in 1978 and currently protects about 1,800 acres of property in the Walloon Lake area, including conservative easements and nature preserves.

Can You Save for Retirement and College?

Benjamin Muladore
Financial Advisor

As another school year approaches, you may be thinking about the day in which you'll be sending your children off to college. Can you afford to help them pay for school while still saving for your own retirement?

There are many strategies to explore when saving for your retirement and your child's education. To implement the right mix of options, it's important to discuss your situation with a professional financial advisor, but here are some options to consider:

- Contribute to your 401(k). Since many people don't have unlimited funds available to save for retirement and college, it's important to get the most mileage possible from the money invested. Try to utilize the tax-advantaged retirement accounts available to you. For starters, contribute as much as you can afford to your 401(k) or other employer-sponsored retirement plan. Not only can your earnings grow on a tax-deferred basis, but your contributions are generally made with pretax dollars, so the more you contribute, the lower your annual taxable income—which, in turn, could give you more disposable income to invest for college. In 2010, you can contribute up to $16,500 to your 401(k), or $22,000 if you're 50 or older.

- Fund your IRA. Depending on your income level, your contributions to a traditional IRA may also lower your taxable income, again potentially freeing up resources for college. Plus, your earnings can grow tax deferred. If you qualify for a Roth IRA, your contributions are not tax-deductible, but your earnings grow tax free. Withdrawals are also tax-free, provided you've held your account at least five years and you don't start taking withdrawals until you're at least age 59½. Also, you can withdraw Roth IRA contributions without paying taxes (since you've already been taxed on this money), so you could use these funds, if necessary, to help pay for college costs, although ideally you'd like to leave your account untouched until you retire. If eligible, you can contribute up to $5,000 to your traditional or Roth IRA in 2010, or $6,000 if you're 50 or older.

- Open a 529 college savings plan. Contributions to a 529 plan are made with after-tax dollars. However, when you contribute to a 529 plan, your earnings grow tax free. Withdrawals are also tax-free, provided they are used for qualified higher education expenses. (Withdrawals for expenses other than qualified higher education expenditures may be subject to federal and state taxes plus a 10% penalty.) Furthermore, 529 plan contributions may be eligible for a state tax deduction or credit in certain states for residents who participate in their own state's plan. Also, the lifetime contribution limits for 529 plans are quite generous, and you can gift $13,000 per year, per beneficiary, without incurring gift taxes. To make sure you understand the tax ramifications of a 529 plan, you'll want to consult with your tax advisor.

It may not be easy to put away as much as we'd like for retirement and college. But you do have some attractive savings and investment options. Don't delay, because when saving for any goal, time is a great ally.

'Hickory Hundred' returns

Marty Joy will play 100 holes to benefit Junior Golf Program

COURTESY PHOTO

Golf pro Marty Joy will again don 1920s-era garb for his 100-hole fundraising effort.

'Hickory Hundred' returns to Belvedere head golf professional Marty Joy is set to shoot 100 holes in a single day to raise funds for the Charlevoix County Junior Golf program.

This will be the second year that Marty has dusted off his "niblick," "mashie," and blade putter — hickory clubs from decades ago, for the fundraiser.

The event raises money for the junior golf program through pledges that supporters make for each hole Marty completes.

Charlevoix County Junior Golf Program Director Dean Davenport said the money Joy will raise is crucial to the success of the popular local program.

Davenport said the money will go into the junior golf operating funds and will enable the program to send selected participants to the week-long golf camp at Ferris State University. The money also supports two college book stipends awarded to graduating seniors who have been junior golfers. The money also helps purchase season passes at the City of Charlevoix's Charlevoix Golf Club for selected participants.

Joy will start his marathon at 6:30 a.m. on Monday, Aug. 23, and plans to finish around 6 p.m.

"I'm hoping to shoot somewhere in the 70s for each 18 holes," said Joy, who has shot as low as 74 with hickory clubs during competition and has finished as runner-up in six national events. "I will be wearing 1920's era garb and only hope it isn't too hot. If it is that might be the biggest challenge. I will be motivated by the thought that the game I love will be made more available to young people in the Charlevoix area," he added.

Spectators are welcome to watch Joy take on the 100 hole challenge. Those wishing to make a tax-deductible pledge for the junior golf program may contact Joy at (231) 547-2611 or Dean Davenport, program director at (232) 547-6433.

Football frenzy

Hopes high as Rayders' practice gets under way

Summer ended Monday, Aug. 9, for thousands of high school football players across Michigan as three days of conditioning got under way. On Thursday, Aug. 12, they pulled on the shoulder pads and started playing some football.

Last year is last year. If you had a good year, you refer to it. Maybe. If you didn't, it's a distant memory.

For Charlevoix, like other teams in the area, 2009 ended in the playoffs. Wins, league championships and playoffs are on the minds of everybody this week. Everybody is undefeated.

Also like many other area teams, the Rayders headed to camp during the first three days of conditioning last week.

The isolation helps serve to get the players thinking football — and only football — and to bond, which pays dividends frequently throughout the ups and downs that are bound over the next three months.

It's now a little more than a week until opening night. The sequestration of camp serves another practical purpose. It makes it much more difficult for players to walk away when the going gets tough.

"The experience is not only something the kids will remember, it's huge for bonding and from a coaching standpoint," said Charlevoix coach Don Jess, who takes his team to Beaver Island. "The second day, that's an easy time to not have kids show up. It's a long swim home."

Jess and his staff face a daunting task in replacing three-year starter Bill Ivan, who is now playing at Indiana and was the cornerstone of an offensive line that averaged more than 230 pounds.

"Four of the five starters on the offensive line" graduated, Jess said. "We averaged probably 230 (pounds) and this year we're looking at about 170. We were fortunate to have that big of a line. But we're fast (this year), so that's good."

Senior Chris Keie is the lone returning starter along the offensive line, and the Rayders return a good core of juniors at the skill positions, including running back Jake McLean and tight end Cohy Herriman. Linebacker John Boss, another junior, also returns.

"The key for us is we've just got to get better every day, every practice," Jess said. "When you're as young as we are, that's going to be key for us."

AROUND THE LAKE

As Boyne City coach Don Nohel heads into his second year, he's dealing with a shortage in numbers, an unfamiliar feeling at a school that has made the playoffs nine consecutive years and 12 times overall, by far the most among area schools.

The Ramblers have had just 18 varsity candidates for the first two days of practice.

"We're usually around 24, 25," said Nohel, who is in his sixth year at Boyne and in his 12th as a varsity head coach. "The junior class doesn't have a lot of kids playing football in it."

Still, the Ramblers return what Nohel called a good veteran nucleus led by 210-pound center Bryan Wonski and two-way starter Kolbi Shumaker, who was among the team's top rushers a year ago. Among the other key returnees are noseguard Gage Burt, two-way starter Jalen Adams, along with James O'Brien, Taylor Reinhardt and Brandon Darrah.

"We've got some athletic kids who are working hard," Nohel said. "We're not going to be real deep numbers-wise, but the kids we put on the field will be competitive."

In East Jordan, Allan Peterson is back at the helm of the Red Devils, and he was even more upbeat than usual last week after two days of practice.

"Having a blast," said Peterson, who coached the Red Devils to four playoff appearances including a district championship from 1993-2001.

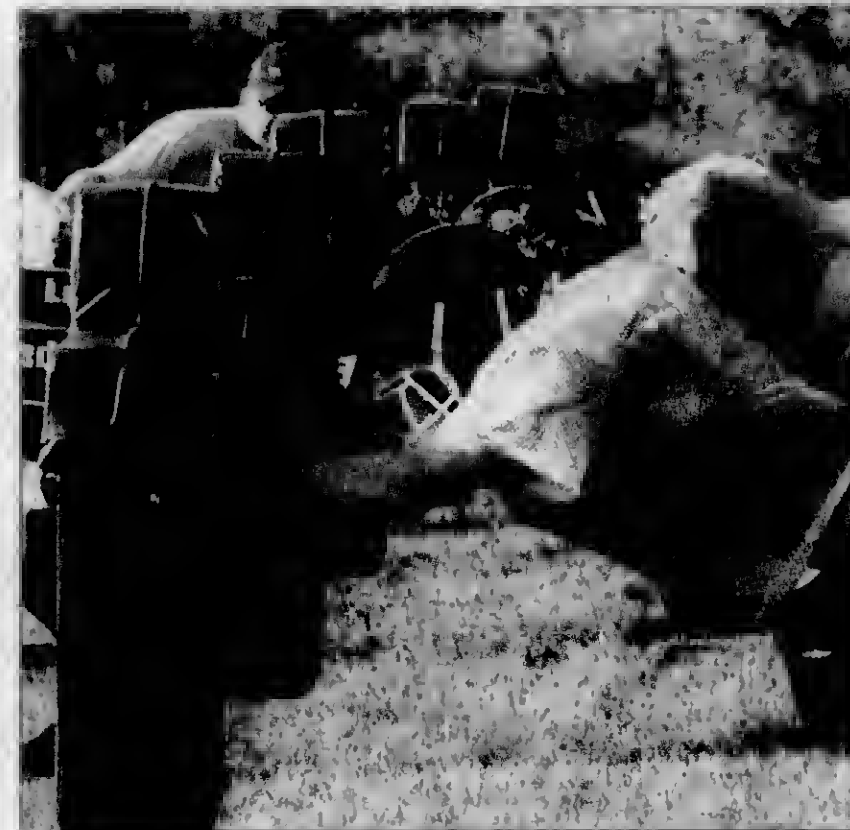

Enthusiasm is never in short supply on a Peterson-led team, which is a step in the right direction for a program that went winless last season and has won just four games over the past four seasons.

Peterson said he expects to have nearly 30 players by the end of the week.

Tops among the returnees are speedsters Akeem Brogan and Rob Crick, among the top sprinters in the Lake Michigan Conference, along with tight end John Richards, and fullback Chris Yettaw.

Memorial Garden

After nearly two years since the Charlevoix street department bulldozed the original memorial garden at the corner of East Dixon and Mercer avenues, the Charlevoix Area Garden Club along with city officials gathered Tuesday, Aug. 10, to re-dedicate the garden. The garden memorializes loved ones, in whose names donations have been given, dating back to 1971.

Sheriff exploring options for Boyne Falls substation

DAVID HOPKINS
NEWS-REVIEW STAFF
WRITER

BOYNE FALLS — Charlevoix County officials met with an architect on Wednesday, Aug. 11, at the Boyne Valley Township office to discuss plans for putting the sheriff department's substation in the same building with the township fire department.

The group is working with the architect and the Boyne Valley Township Fire Department to come up with a suitable design that will cost less than the original plan to build a separate building for the substation. The township will be building on to the current fire department this fall to add space for an ambulance bay, and would like to add the substation at the same time.

"We have looked at building our own facility, but it's more cost effective to combine with the fire department," said Don Schneider, Charlevoix County Sheriff.

The one snag the project is having is raising the money to get the project moving forward this year.

"The county put in $50,000 for match money several months ago," Schneider said. "And we've been requesting money to match that or even triple it from different organizations through grants, but because of the current economy it's been tough and we've been turned down by most."

Schneider further explained that he may have a donor, but the individual wants to remain anonymous.

Because of the time constraint brought on by the upcoming winter season, Schneider would like to generate some more interest in the project to see if the plan to upgrade and combine with the fire station can be completed this year.

"The fire department wants this done by winter," he said. The current substation was built more than 30 years ago and was originally set up to supply work space for one deputy. It consisted of one small room and a bathroom, and had no garage to house vehicles. Now, seven deputies are working out of the small substation.

If the addition can be built at the fire department, Schneider would like to have facilities with "a squad room, which will be a common area where the deputies can work, an interview room, a garage with room for at least four vehicles, a boat and a snowmobile," he said. Sheriff's employees would be sharing shower and bathroom facilities with the other emergency workers to save cost.

Schneider says a new interview room in the facility is possibly the most important feature.

"We discuss many sensitive issues with people here," Schneider said. "Some days it's just someone stopping in to report that they hit a deer, which is no big deal, but sometimes it is something more private. They don't want someone walking in the substation and hearing their business."

The need for the substation on the east end of the county is to provide fast response to emergencies to residents of the area.

"Our response time to this area from Charlevoix on a good day is about 30 minutes," Schneider said. "On a bad day, which could be had traffic or snow, it can take twice that long. That is not acceptable service to the people over here."

Department officials say they're not looking for a state-of-the-art facility, just a place where deputies can work to protect and serve the people of Charlevoix County.

"We don't need anything fancy," said Under Sheriff Charles Vondra. "We just need something functional that will allow us to provide service in the area. We want to service this side of the county as well as the other side."

Tree pruning seminar slated

A statewide tree preservation organization will host a tree pruning seminar at 7 p.m., Thursday, Sept. 2, at the Charlevoix Public Library, 220 West Clinton St. in Charlevoix.

The free event, titled, "Proper Tree Pruning - Why Topping Hurts Trees" will also include information on the emerald ash borer.

Paul Drysdale, owner of Drysdale Forestry and Consulting in Cadillac and a Global ReLeaf of Michigan volunteer, will be the presenter. Funding for the workshop is provided by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources and Environment's Urban and Community Forestry Program.

The educational session is being presented by Global ReLeaf of Michigan, a statewide, non-profit tree organization whose mission is to educate the public on the value of trees, and the need to properly select, plant, and maintain them. Since 1989, the organization has worked with more than 300 community groups throughout the state to plant more than 25,000 large trees on public property.

Call (800) 642-7353 to reserve a spot. For more information on Global ReLeaf of Michigan, visit its website at www.globalreleaf.org.

Giving drugs a JOLT

Authorities: Drug arrests way up with new task force

STEVE ZUCKER
COURIER EDITOR

It's been six months since Charlevoix County decided to pull its sheriff's deputy and financial support out of the multi-jurisdictional Straits Area Narcotics Enforcement Team (SANE) saying the county wasn't getting much bang for its drug-enforcement buck.

A half-year later, county law enforcement officials say they've found that "bang" in the team they've formed in place of SANE, and it's giving a JOLT to the drug trade in the county.

The Joint Operational Law (Enforcement) Team is made up of officers from the Charlevoix County Sheriff's office, the Charlevoix Police Department and the East Jordan Police Department and the Charlevoix County Prosecutor's office.

On Feb. 24 the county board of commissioners voted to pull out of SANE after Charlevoix County Sheriff Don Schneider, county prosecutor John Jarema and some board members expressed concern about the financial management of the team and the return the county was receiving on its investment of $80,000 in wages and benefits for the deputy assigned to the team and $700-$900 per month in car lease payments.

County officials said in recent years SANE has been generating about 25 drug cases in Charlevoix County per year.

The new team is generating about that many cases each month Jarema told the Charlevoix Courier last week.

Schneider said he was surprised with how quickly the arrests started piling up.

"Personally, I was amazed at the amount of drugs that are here," Schneider said. I hate to use the word 'epidemic,' but that's really what it is."

"We have young people who are dying," Schneider said pointing to a recent overdose death in Emmet County. "This stuff kills people."

Jarema noted that heroin seems to be particularly popular right now. He said that although drug cases run the Man arrested for masked assault on relatives

An East Jordan-area man is facing multiple felony charges amid allegations that he and an accomplice beat up two elderly relatives during a break-in at a home south of Charlevoix early Sunday.

Charlevoix County chief assistant prosecutor Shaynee Panara said police arrested Greg Williams, 18, on Monday, and she has since authorized charges of first degree home invasion, using a firearm in the commission of a felony, two counts of aggravated assault and four counts of resisting and obstructing police.

The most serious among the charges are the first degree home invasion, which carries a maximum penalty of up to 20 years in prison and the felony firearms charge which carries a mandatory two year term to be served consecutive to any sentence from the underlying felony.

According to Panara and court documents, the incident took place shortly after midnight on Sunday, Aug. 22, at a home on Wa Ba Noong Road, where Williams' great-aunt and -uncle and great-grandfather live. The home is located off Ranney Road in western Eveline Township in a Grand Traverse Band of Ottawa and Chippewa Indians housing development. Court documents

Story gets 6-30 years for armed robbery

STEVE ZUCKER
COURIER EDITOR

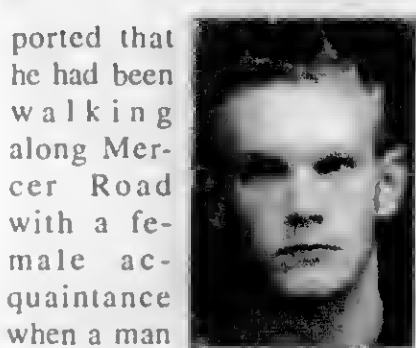

A Charlevoix man who robbed a man at gunpoint earlier this year in an effort to further feed his drug addiction, will spend at least the next six years in prison.

On Friday, Charlevoix County Circuit Court Judge Richard M. Pajtas sentenced Brandon Michael Story, 22, to serve a term of six to 30 years in prison on a charge of armed robbery. Story received credit for 23 days he's already served and was ordered to pay $128 in fines and costs.

Story's conviction and sentence stem from a plan that he and others devised to rob another Charlevoix man in hopes of stealing drugs from him.

Police were called to Mercer Road around 3:30 a.m. on May 17 when a Charlevoix man called 9-1-1 reporting that he had just been robbed at gunpoint.

Police said the victim re-

ported that he had been walking along Mercer Road with a female acquaintance when a man wearing a mask approached them with a gun and took his wallet, cell phone and shoes.

Police said the victim reported that the robber had let the female acquaintance go.

According to the affidavit, the victim told police that during the robbery, after letting the woman go, Story sat on his back, put the gun to his head and pulled the trigger.

When the gun didn't discharge, but instead only "clicked," Story allegedly said, "that one was a blank, the next one is a kill shot," according to the affidavit.

Police received a tip later in the day that led them to arrest Story and Brooke Claire Baker, 18, who was the woman who was with the victim at the time of the robbery. In court documents, police said Story, Baker and Stephanie Michelle Fels, 18, of Charlevoix all conspired to set the victim up for the robbery.

In July, Baker was sentenced to serve 10 months in jail after she pleaded guilty to a charge of unarmed robbery. Fels' is facing a charge of conspiracy to commit armed robbery. Her case is scheduled for a preliminary examination on Aug. 31.

During Story's sentencing hearing Friday, his defense attorney Kraag Lieberman said Story has made many mistakes in his life, many of which are tied to his longstanding drug and alcohol addiction. Lieberman asked the judge to consider the cooperation Story has offered to police since his guilty plea including helping police in several drug cases, and an embezzlement case.

"What I did was very wrong," Story said when his opportunity came to speak. "There's a million different ways I could have fixed this." Story said he will not waste his time in prison, but use it to make sure he does not come back before the court ever again.

Charlevoix County Prosecuting Attorney John Jarema noted that Story reported that he had taken Vicodin, drank 18 beers and a fifth of vodka in the hours leading up to the robbery.

Before sentencing him, Judge Pajtas read from the pre-sentence investigation report which indicated that Story has a 10th grade education, has four prior misdemeanor and two prior felony convictions as an adult and a juvenile record. He also noted that the report indicates Story has been selling drugs since he was 13 and has been in residential substance abuse treatment on four different occasions.

Story is also facing two new misdemeanor charges of failure to stop and identify at a personal injury accident and driving while license suspended.

gamut of the socio-economic spectrum, many recent cases have involved young people in the 18-25 age-group, many of whom are unemployed.

He added that cases involving actual drug charges — such as the May arrest (and subsequent guilty plea) of Earl King, for selling heroin within 1,000 feet of a school — are just the tip of the iceberg. Jarema said a high percentage of property crimes that take place in the area have their roots in people trying to get drugs or money to buy drugs.

He pointed to the armed robbery that took place in May on Mercer Road where the assailant was hoping to steal drugs from the victim as a prime example of a drug-related crime.

Schneider noted that even with the added drug case load, said the new drug team is still costing the county less than its participation in SANE did.

For example, he said, instead of paying about $800 per month to lease a car for SANE, JOLT is using cars it seizes for its work; lower travel costs; and the county

BY THE NUMBERS

Data compiled by the Charlevoix County Sheriff's office on JOLT's activities from mid-February through Aug. 20 show the following numbers:

— 73 complaints

— 98 people arrested

— 101 criminal counts authorized

— 26 forfeitures

Among the forfeitures have been 14 vehicles, three cell phones, a recreational vehicle, two TVs, 13 guns and more than $1,500 in cash.

is getting a full 40 hours of work in Charlevoix County out of the deputy it previously had assigned to SANE.

But Schneider after six months, the money isn't the his main concern.

"Take the money off the table. The amount of drugs we're taking off the street is where it's at."

Car seat checks offered

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's office will host a free child car seat check-up event from 10 a.m.-2 p.m. on Wednesday, Aug. 25, the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office, 1000 Grant St., in Charlevoix.

The seat check-up is sponsored by "Safe Kids" Northwest Michigan Chapter with co-sponsors being the Health Department of Northwest Michigan and Charlevoix County Sheriff's office.

Results from previous safety seat checks have shown four out of five child safety seats are used incorrectly.

Organizers said each inspection lasts approximately 30 minutes per seat. Car seats will be inspected on a first-come first-served basis. Organizers also noted that a thorough inspection requires the children be present.

Child passenger safety technicians will supervise inspections and will be available to answer questions such as:

"Has my child's car seat been recalled?"

"When should I turn my baby's car seat around to face forward?"

For further information about the event, call Health Department of Northwest Michigan at (231) 347-6014 or the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office at (231) 547-4461.

indicate that Greg Williams lives nearby.

Authorities said Greg Williams' great-grandfather, Keith Williams, reported that shortly after midnight he had heard some unusual scratching outside the home. Hearing the noise, he told police he grabbed his handgun and cocked it. Keith Williams told police that a short time later a masked man burst into his bedroom and the gun discharged with the bullet going into the wall. Keith Williams told police the masked man then beat him up, according to court documents.

Greg Williams' great-aunt and -uncle Cynthia and Keith Hanson, told police around the same time they were awakened by a different masked intruder who was holding a long gun and told them to stay in bed or he would kill them.

Keith Hanson told police he was able to determine that one of the intruders was Greg Williams because he was not wearing a mask at one point. Hanson told police both intruders then attacked him causing injuries.

Fanara said after the assaults, both intruders fled the scene.

Police said the injuries to both Keith Hanson and Keith Williams were serious enough require treatment at the hospital. Police reported that the house "had blood all over from the attacks" when they arrived.

Police said Greg Williams fought four sheriff's deputies extensively at the time of his arrest.

Fanara said police are still working on identifying the second assailant.

Speaking with the Courier Tuesday, Fanara said she did not know what the motivation for the attacks might have been and noted that the case is still under investigation.

Keith Williams was set to be arraigned on the charges in 90th District Court Tuesday.

BC-EJ Road will get new name

DAVID HOPKINS

BOYNE CITY — The Wilson Township Board met with residents of Boyne City-East Jordan North Road at a special meeting Tuesday to discuss changing the name of the road for safety reasons.

Because of an unusual repeat in house numbers along the road there have been problems with emergency crews being dispatched to the wrong homes along the road.

"We have to change the name of Boyne City-East Jordan Road North because it gets mixed up with 9-1-1 calls and could cost someone their life," said Todd Sorenson, Wilson Township supervisor.

For many years the road, which starts in Boyne City at M-75 and ends in East Jordan, was simply called the Boyne City-East Jordan Road, but citizens started seeing a problem where the road took an abrupt turn at Deer Lake Road.

House numbers in the township are set up on a grid system. Addresses on east-west roads start at zero on the eastern edge of the township and go up by 1,000 for every block to the west.

Addresses on north-south roads start at zero on the northern edge of the township and go up by 1,000 for every block to the south.

The Boyne City-East Jordan Road, which takes a sharp turn at Deer Lake Road, has house numbers on the east-west section that are repeated on the north-south section, Sorenson said.

In 1992 the township tried to fix the problem by calling the north-south stretch of the road Boyne City-East Jordan Road North. The addition of "North" to the road name was supposed to end confusion.

"Everyone was supposed to have been informed of the change," Sorenson said. "But many still didn't specify whether they were on Boyne City-East Jordan Road North or on just Boyne City-East Jordan Road when they called in emergencies."

Sorenson went on to explain that the 9-1-1 operators also had difficulty discerning between the two road names and dispatched crews to the wrong section of road.

In October 2009 the problem became more apparent when a man living on Boyne City-East Jordan Road North died. His wife called 9-1-1 and an ambulance was dispatched. Ambulance personnel went to the wrong block and searched for the house, but were more than seven miles from the actual house.

The mix up with the house number wasn't the cause of the man's death, but the township became aware of the potential for such a situation and decided something had to be done.

"So far it hasn't caused a critical problem, but we're faced with the potential for that happening," Sorenson said.

Once the name change for the road is made — a step that's expected to occur during the township board's regular meeting on Sept. 8 — it will take 30 days to have signs made and installed.

"The house numbers will all remain the same," Sorenson said. "The only thing that will change will be the name of the road from Deer Lake Road north to Boyne City. This will help take away the confusion with repeating numbers."

After the name change is official, residents along the newly-named road will be responsible for changing their street address with the post office.

So far there are two name suggestions for the road: Fall Road and Fall Park Road. The names come from a longtime family name in the township. The road name will be voted on at the next township meeting.

Information regarding the change of the road name will be sent to residents along the road by next week and they are encouraged to attend the township board meeting on Sept. 8.

A slime of the times

Mold with unfortunate name is no alien creature

With all the recent local concern about invading alien plants and animals, it seems the right time to introduce a local organism, easily found at this time of year. Imagine an alien like a giant amoeba that oozes over everything in its path, digesting any living material. That is not the description of the star of a science-fiction film, but the description of one of our local biological residents that is most active at this time of year.

This fearsome creature, with the unfortunate-sounding name, slime mold, is among the more interesting, even fascinating, organisms in our living world.

If you cover the ground around the base of some of

EAR TO THE GROUND

your trees with bark mulch, you might be providing a home and food for your local slime mold. Any dead plant material in a damp place can become bed and board. Living among the bark shreds or dead leaves, your slime mold may grow to the size of the top of a small cocktail table, and could be any color from red or yellow to completely transparent. As long as the mulch is damp, the slime mold will flow around in and over it, digesting any fungi and bacteria growing on the mulch, and growing rapidly. It can double in size in just a day. You might not be aware of your visitor until the mulch begins to dry out and the slime mold starts to reproduce. Over the course of two or three days, it converts all its slimy life into millions of microscopic dry spores that can blow around to any appropriate damp location and start growing all over again. Or the spores can remain dormant until the right conditions come along and then begin growing again. A dried bit of slime mold can be kept in a desk drawer for more than twenty years and begin growing again as soon as it is dampened.

I once kept a yellow slime mold growing in a small dish on my desk for more than a year by feeding it a few flakes of oatmeal every day. It crawled around in the dampness at the bottom of the dish and never once tried to creep out onto the drier desk top.

Next time you see a scary film about a giant, alien amoeba flowing over the town and dissolving all the residents, give a thought to the real-life slime molds that almost certainly live in a damp, woody place somewhere near you.

Most alien-like creatures are not at all harmful, and collectively serve to make our world the fascinating place it is.

PROPERTY OWNERS SHOULD CONSIDER SAFETY IN TRAIL DEBATE

Editor:

A few thoughts come to mind over the debate on the Boyne City-Charlevoix non-motorized trail.

Perhaps the repaving of the Charlevoix/Boyne City Road should be the first order of business considering what horrible shape it is in.

Isn't it short-sighted, and selfish, of land owners who aren't willing to give up several feet of property (that they probably don't even use) to safeguard the users of the trail? The proposal that would allow the trail to weave back onto the shoulder of the highway puts the users in jeopardy. Traffie may be fairly sparse but it's fast and, as stated before, in terrible shape. I certainly wouldn't want to be an owner who forced users to be on the shoulder and get injured or killed. That's a great burden!

If the owners' property is used for the trail, perhaps a reduction in property taxes based on the amount of lost property would be an incentive to cede the land.

I noted in a separate article that Wequetonsing is granting wheel-way easements on its property to allow the Little Traverse Wheelway to be continuous. If they can do it, property owners along the Boyne City-Charlevoix Road trail can certainly do the same.

It's time people stopped thinking only of themselves and do what's most beneficial for the masses.

HUMANE SOCIETY OVERFLOWING WITH CATS

Editor:

I am writing to let the community know about the plight of "Chuck Morris" and the other cats currently at the Charlevoix Area Humane Society animal shelter.

"Chuck Morris" is the name staff at the society gave to a cat that they recently found after someone left him in the shelter's donation box one night without food or water. Because the staff thought he was such a good cat, they have temporarily made him their office cat. But the staff also had to do that because there is no other room left for "Chuck." The shelter currently has as many cats in foster care as there are in the shelter. They have a full house. All of the other shelters in the area are also overflowing so they can't help. My concern is that if homes aren't found for some of these cats soon, the staff may have to start putting them down.

The humane society is in desperate need of good homes to adopt these cats. Please consider making a home for one at your house.

For more information on adopting pets from the Charlevoix Area Humane Society, call (231) 582-6774.

Sincerely,
Georgia Boyer

Invasive species costly to control

RACHEL BROUGHAM
NEWS-REVIEW STAFF
WRITER

Invasive species in the Great Lakes region cost $5 billion a year to control and that cost is rising.

Invasive species pose threats to not only the economy, but to native wildlife as well.

The News-Review spoke with Jennifer McKay, policy specialist at Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council, about three species that are of great concern in our area and what is currently being done and what should be done to prevent their spread.

QUAGGA MUSSELS

Quagga mussels were introduced in the 1980s and have since, spread rapidly to all of the Great Lakes and several inland waterways throughout the United States.

The quagga mussel is a cousin of the zebra mussel and the two act similar in nature. Both have black stripes on tan bodies, but the quagga mussel has a more rounded or oval-shaped shell.

Zebra mussels live primarily in warm, shallow water while the quagga mussel lives mostly in deep, cold water.

While zebra mussels can only colonize on hard surfaces such as boat propellers, quagga mussels have the ability to colonize and thrive on both hard and soft surfaces, including sand and pebbles.

Additionally, the quagga mussel has a rapid reproduction rate, with a single mature female producing more than a million eggs in a spawning season.

"These factors mean that the negative impacts from the quagga mussel will be substantially greater to our waters than those of the zebra mussel," McKay said. "While the adverse impacts are still unknown, there is already fear that these little creatures will be much more threatening to the health of our waters."

McKay said zebra and quagga mussels were most likely introduced into the Great Lakes region from ballast water discharge from transoceanic ships.

"Education and outreach to inform the public of their role in the spread of quagga mussels is crucial," McKay said. "Additionally, monitoring and detection programs are under way to check waterways and likely infestation points. And research is being conducted in hopes of developing a control of quagga mussels."

To help control the spread, McKay stresses that boat owners should inspect every inch of their boat when taking it out of the water. Also, remove any aquatic plants, animals and mud and drain all the water from the boat and any equipment on land before leaving the area.

EURASIAN WATERMILFOIL

Eurasian watermilfoil is an aggressive, submersed plant that forms thick underwater beds of tangled stems, then a thick canopy mat of vegetation at the water's surface.

These beds cause the loss of native plants, degrade water quality and may reduce habitat for fish and other wildlife.

They also hinder boating, swimming and fishing. Since its introduction from Europe and Asia in the mid 1940s, the weed has spread to 40 states.

"During the 1960s, this aquatic invasive species found its way into Michigan's waters and unfortunately, Eurasian watermilfoil has invaded many Northern Michigan lakes including Burt Lake, the Elk River Chain of Lakes, Lake Charlevoix, Long Lake, Mullet Lake, Paradise Lake, Thumb Lake and Walloon Lake," McKay said.

According to McKay, while there are several techniques used to control nuisance aquatic plants, most are not effective or practical for Eurasian milfoil.

"Ultimately, prevention is the most effective and least expensive strategy for controlling Eurasian watermilfoil," McKay said.

The weed is often moved between bodies of water by small fragments transported on recreational equipment such as boats, trailers and fishing equipment.

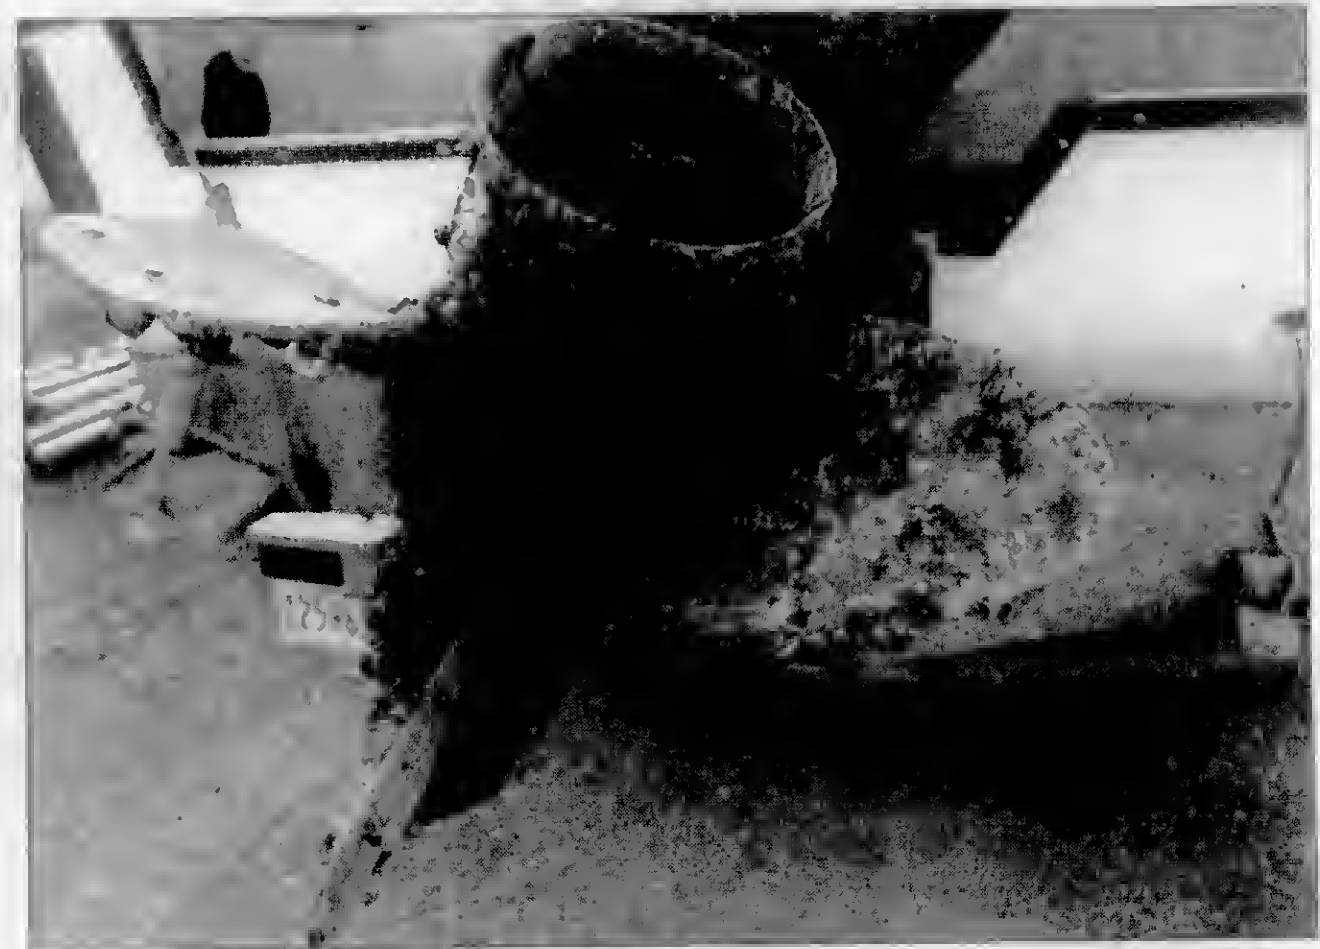

Like quagga mussels, McKay urged boat owners to thoroughly check their boats and trailers after use and to carefully inspect any fishing and recreational equipment.

PHRAGMITES

Phragmites is an aggressive wetland weed that grows along the shorelines of large bodies of water or water that is several feet deep.

Phragmites grow and spread very quickly and can crowd out native plants, alter wildlife habitat and increase fire potential.

It is spread both by seed dispersal and by vegetative spread from fragments that break off and are transported elsewhere.

Quagga mussels live mostly in deep, cold water and colonize on hard and soft surfaces such as boat propellers and sand. Mature females can produce more than a million eggs in a spawning season.

"Phragmites is thought to have arrived in North America accidentally from Europe, most likely in ballast material around 1870," McKay said. "It established itself along the Atlantic coast and then spread across the continent."

In recent years, several organizations including Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council, have documented phragmites throughout Northern Michigan and worked to educate property owners about the plant.

Efforts have been under way on Beaver Island to control the plant since 2006. Efforts began on the mainland in 2009 after stands were discovered along Lake Michigan in Norwood Township. In a report earlier this year, the watershed council reported that herbicide spraying conducted under a permit obtained by the Lake Charlevoix Association in 2009 make significant progress in controlling the plant's spread.

For more information about any of these invasive species and how to help prevent their spread, visit www.watershed-council.org.

Dedicated decade

Chicago Club marks 10 years of helping children

It's been 10 years since Chicago Club members created a fund at the Charlevoix County Community Foundation, dedicated to improving the health and well-being of Charlevoix school-aged children.

To date, more than $82,000 has been distributed from the fund for financially needy children for urgent dental and medical expenses, water safety classes and family swim nights at the Charlevoix Area Community Pool. Most recently, the fund has provided scholarships to Camp McSauba, enabling more than 20 campers to enjoy a week at camp that they might otherwise have been unable to afford.

"As a result of the ongoing economic downturn, we've seen an increase in the number of youngsters who need scholarship support," Camp McSauba director Leslie Hoffman said. "We're very grateful that the Chicago Club stepped up again this year to make sure that a lot of kids got to enjoy an awesome week at camp."

Camp McSauba's daily activities include small and large group games, arts and crafts, B.B. gunnery, archery, field sports and, of course, fun at the beach. Sessions are planned around a specific theme. Some of the themes this summer included Wacky Week, Sports Week, Camp Olympics and more. Each camp session runs five days, with a sleepover on Thursday night, and an awards ceremony for campers, parents, grandparents and friends each Friday morning. Older campers also have the option of swimming at the Charlevoix Area Community Pool on Thursday night, before the sleepover. "We've had an exceptional camp season again this summer," Hoffman said, adding, "the kids have had a great time and the counselors have done a great job."

Speaking of the Chicago Club gift, Hoffman said, "It's great to live and work in a community that shows such support for Camp McSauba, and other programs that benefit young people."

The Chicago Club was established in 1880, and today, many descendants of its founding families continue to maintain cottages in the association. Although most members are summer residents of Charlevoix, the club has a long history of supporting local causes.

"This is such a wonderful expression of the Chicago Club's positive influence on the community," community foundation president Chip Hansen said. "We're very grateful for their ongoing support."

United Way collects items for school children in need

Each year during the back-to-school season, Char-Em United Way collects donated school supplies to distribute to children in need in the Char-Em Intermediate School District. On Aug. 14 a school bus parked at the K-Mart plaza in Petoskey and a UPS truck parked at the K-Mart plaza in Charlevoix were loaded with items donated by the community that will help students succeed in school.

"With assistance from volunteers we collected a bus and truck full of items to help children in Charlevoix and Emmet counties to go back to school with confidence. At a time when many families are struggling to meet basic needs like rent and groceries, the community's support of Stuff the Bus provides a huge relief," Char-Em United Way Project Coordinator Savannah Zednick said.

Char-Em United Way offered its thanks to all the volunteers who made Stuff the Bus possible including Ashley Hand, Bergmann Center Aktion Club, Petoskey Department of Public Safety, Retired and Senior Volunteer Program, UPS, and others.

Supplies will be distributed to schools in the Char-Em Intermediate School District within the next week. Students in need of school supplies should ask their teachers about Stuff the Bus supplies.

Stephen H. Liddicoat, July 18, 1948 - Aug. 17, 2010. Born to Dr. Paul G. and Elise (Bishop) Liddicoat in Muskegon, Steve succumbed to cancer after a courageous two-year battle. Possessing an adventurous spirit, he spent the bulk of his working career in Saudi Arabia, the United Arab Emirates, the "Green Zone" of Baghdad, Iraq, and Brazil, where he met his wife, Elizangela.

Steve was an outdoor enthusiast who relished all that northwest Michigan offered. Since moving to Charlevoix in 1989, he was particularly fond of his days afield with his good friend and hunting companion, Randy Beegen.

A gathering of Steve's family and friends will take place from 2-4 p.m., Saturday, Aug. 28, followed by military honors conducted by Charlevoix area veterans, at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix.

Betty Ione Parsons: Sept. 16, 1922 - Aug. 19, 2010

Betty Ione Parsons, 87, of Kingsford passed away Thursday, Aug. 19, 2010, at Manorcare Health Services in Kingsford. She was born Sept. 16, 1922, in Kingston, Ill., the third and youngest child of Chester A. and Anna (Duff) Bird. Betty attended schools in Illinois, Detroit, and Elmira. At age 13, Betty was awarded champion medals for the Detroit News School and District Spelling Bees.

Betty left home during the Depression-era 1930s to support herself, abandoning her last two years of high school. At 18, on Nov. 14, 1940, she married Joseph M. Parsons, her life-long partner of 69 years. They made their home in St. Ignace until Joe left to join the Army Air Corps in 1942. While Joe took basic training in Chicago at Soldier Field, Betty followed, working for the Keystone Company making photo-identification materials of enemy ships, planes, and other military equipment. Her free spirit soared in open cockpit plane rides and aerial loops over the Chicago skyline on some of her days off.

After World War II she moved to Petoskey with her husband and worked for Sears Roebuck & Co. as a credit manager and catalog store manager. Later, she became manager of the Petoskey Jo-Ann Fabrics store. In 1972 Betty and Joe had a great adventure traveling to Alaska in their truck camper. Driving the gravel road of the Al Can Highway, they shot hundreds of feet of 8 mm film of Alaskan wildlife and scenery.

Betty's retirement years included a couple of winters in Florida and part-time work in the Newberry Sears Catalog Merchant store. Her true love was time spent in outdoor camping on "number 14" at the Pretty Lake State Forest campground, northwest of Newberry. She and Joe made many friends among the campers and educated a generation of fishermen on the art of catching fish on Pretty Lake. Her favorite saying was, as she lived her life: "You can do anything if you put your mind to it," — a true testament to her courage and character as she rose to management positions during her working years without the benefit of a high school diploma. She was an avid reader all her life.

Betty is survived by her husband, Joe, a resident of Manorcare, a son Merle (Betty) Parsons of Iron Mountain, a granddaughter Lori (Shawn) Smith, of Minneapolis, Minn., a grandson Jeffrey Parsons, of Salt Lake City, Utah, a great grandson, Ryan Paul Parsons, of Salt Lake City, Utah and many nieces, great nieces, nephews and great nephews. Betty was preceded in death by her father Charles A. Bird, her mother Anna, her stepfather Richard Stark, her dearly-beloved sister, Phyllis, and her brother Chester ("Chet") Bird. In accordance with Betty's wishes no memorial services are planned. The family requests no flowers. Inurnment will take place in Ellsworth at a later date.

Condolences may be expressed to the family of Betty I. Parsons online at www.ernashfuneralhomes.com or be mailed to her husband, Joseph Parsons c/o Manorcare Health Services 1225 Woodward Ave., Kingsford, MI, 49802.

The family has entrusted the Erickson-Rochon and Nash Funeral Home of Iron Mountain with the arrangements.

Claude Pearsall Jr.: June 10, 1918 - Aug. 21, 2010

Claude Pearsall Jr., 92, of East Jordan, died on Saturday, August 21, 2010, at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

He was born on June 10, 1918, in East Jordan, the son of Claude, Sr. and Ethel (Painter) Pearsall.

He had worked at the East Jordan Creamery, farming in Alba, Boyne City Tannery, Watson Construction, Northland Construction at Bay Shore and then 16 years at Charlevoix Area Hospital in the maintenance department. He retired in 1982.

He enjoyed fishing, gardening and flowers. He was also an avid Detroit Tigers fan.

He is survived by three children, Beverly (James "Butch") Frye of East Jordan, Eugene Pearsall of Grand Rapids and Rod (Lynn) Pearsall of Charlevoix; 14 grandchildren; 10 step grandchildren; several great grandchildren; three step sons, Charles (Judy) Pierce of Alanson, Clifford (Charla) Pierce of Woodstock, Ill. and Barry (Karen) Pierce of Charlevoix; one stepdaughter, Joy (Jim) Price of Toledo, Ohio; one brother, Robert (Barbara) Pearsall of East Jordan; and two sisters-in-law, Betty Pearsall of East Jordan and Ann Pearsall Harbor Springs. He was preceded in death by two wives, Virginia Bergman Pearsall and Dorris Struthers Pierce Pearsall; two daughters, Paygie Cabc Innis and Pat Lowder; two brothers, Harry and Donald Pearsall, one sister, Elizabeth Pearsall; and a stepdaughter, Karen Vincent.

The family will receive friends on Wednesday, Aug. 25, 2010 from 2-7:00 p.m. at the Penzien Funeral Homes, Inc. in East Jordan. Interment will be in Brookside Cemetery, Charlevoix. Memorials may be given to Grandvue Medical Care Facility, 1728 S. Peninsula Road, East Jordan, MI 49727.

Not a resident? Not a problem

Library cards available to non-resident employees

If you work in the Charlevoix Public Library district, but do not live within the boundaries of the PAC2 Consortium, you can now receive a Charlevoix Public Library card to use all the services provided to library patrons.

The PAC2 Consortium includes the residents of the following libraries: Alanson, Boyne City, Boyne Falls, Walloon, Petoskey, Cheboygan, Presque Isle County, Alcona County, and Montmorency County.

The Charlevoix Public Library Board of Trustees recently passed a new strategic plan which included a goal of "Fostering positive and lasting relationships with Charlevoix businesses."

Valerie Meyerson, library director said, "We felt that offering business employees full use of the library was one way we could say thanks for all the support the businesses provide the library."

Here's what employees will receive: a library card and pin valid for one year and renewable each year; use of library computers; web access to library account; web access to placing holds and requests. Of course, library card holders may also borrow materials available at the Charlevoix Public Library as well as libraries within the PAC2 Consortium.

Here's what employees need to do: Visit the library and present to a circulation staff member a picture identification with current address and a current pay stub from a business within the library district. The circulation staff will then register the employee for a library card, good for one year. The card can be renewed each year. Eligible businesses must be within the library district boundary, which includes all of the townships of Hayes, Charlevoix, Norwood, Marion and Banks and the City of Charlevoix. The portion of Eveline that falls within the Charlevoix School District boundary is also included in the library district.

For further information about this new program, contact Julie Burgess, circulation supervisor at (231) 547-2651 or Julie@charlevoixlibrary.org.

Jessica Kutsch - Michael MacLeod

Pat and Trent Kutsch and Sam and Norma MacLeod, all of Charlevoix announce the engagement of their children Jessica J. Kutsch and Michael E. MacLeod, both of Traverse City.

The bride-elect holds a bachelor's degree in history from Michigan State University, a master's degree in teaching from Saginaw Valley State University and currently works as a special education teacher at Cesar Chavez Academy in southwest Detroit.

The groom-elect holds a bachelor's degree in human resources and economics from Michigan State University and works as a sales representative for UPS in Northern Michigan.

The couple are planning an Oct. 14, 2011, wedding at Castle Farms in Charlevoix.

Rotary plans annual golf fundraiser

The Rotary Club of Charlevoix will host its annual "Porker" golf tournament Thursday, Sept. 9, at the Charlevoix Municipal Golf Course.

Rotary organizers said in light of the ongoing difficult economic times, they kept the entry fee at $40 per person.

"In addition to a fun round of golf and a great meal, every participant in the tournament goes home with a prize that is donated by our generous local merchants," tournament director Tim Petrosly said. "Money raised at this event helps support the many Rotary programs including the Strive and Foot-in-the-Door scholarships for local students."

The event is a four-person scramble. The entry fee includes golf, a dinner buffet at Giuseppe's, and the traditional tournament trademark: prizes galore. Prizes will be awarded based on skill and luck, and to teams that finish first, last and right in the middle. Golfers will also have the chance to win a brand new automobile donated by Fox Motors of Charlevoix.

Registration forms are available at the Charlevoix (municipal) Golf Club pro shop.

ALICE PERRAULT/NEWS-REVIEW

36-year-old Heidi Trantow stands outside her family's summer home in Charlevoix. Trantow is a two-time cancer survivor and is working to re-enter the nursing field.

For Heidi Trantow Every day is a gift

CHARLEVOIX — Grateful to be alive, 36-year-old Heidi Trantow is thankful for every day she lives after beating cancer — twice.

Trantow has faced and conquered osteosarcoma and a rare form of non-Hodgkin's Lymphoma.

"I see every day as a gift. I know I have a lot to be thankful for," Trantow said.

The trouble started when Trantow was 23 and had pain in her right leg. She was diagnosed with osteosarcoma and received 15 rounds of chemotherapy, surgery and a donor bone.

Eight years later, Trantow found a lump in each breast and was informed she had a rare form of non-Hodgkin's Lymphoma. Once again, she headed for chemotherapy. However, her battle did not end there.

There were many complications with the donor bone so Trantow had an above the knee amputation in March of 2009. She had surgery again this past January because of prosthesis complications.

Today, things are finally looking up for Trantow. Although still on many medications, she has been cancer free for two years.

"This journey has really shown me the value of friendship and family. It has also made me stronger in my faith. I know I would not have gotten through this without God's help," Trantow said.

Trantow usually lives in the Chicago area, but visits Charlevoix with her family every summer. The family has owned a home in the area since 1924.

Before her battle with cancer, Trantow earned a social work degree from Hope College in Michigan. When she was going through treatment, she decided to change her career and go into nursing. She worked for about a year and a half as a nurse before losing her leg. Now, she is taking classes to get a bachelor's degree in nursing. She hopes to be working as a nurse again by August of 2011.

"I really want to help people. I feel I have been through so much that I can relate to what they are going through and encourage them. It will help other patients see if I could get through it, so can they," Trantow said.

"No one really understands what it's like to be fighting cancer other than those who have been there," she added.

Because of outstanding medical debt, family and friends of Trantow have set up a special fund in her honor. The steering committee of the Heidi Trantow Next Step Fund have been and will continue to host charity events to help Trantow pay for her medications and other debt. Their goal is to raise $60,000.

"We have already raised some money and it has been such a relief to know that there are people willing to help, and that I can get out of this rut and move on," Trantow said.

"Once my goal has been met, we (Trantow family) have thought about continuing to collect money and give it to others who need the help.

Whooping cough cases on the rise

Health officials urge immunization

Doctors are urging that babies, children and adults should be immunized to help stop the spread of pertussis, or whooping cough, in four area counties.

So far this year, the Health Department of Northwest Michigan has investigated 21 cases of pertussis in Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet and Otsego counties. That's five times the number of cases seen in a typical year for the four-county health district.

According to Joshua Meyerson, medical director with the Health Department of Northwest Michigan, 10-15 percent of children under the age of 5 are not up to date on immunizations in the district. Infants are especially vulnerable to diseases that could be passed on from school aged brothers and sisters.

"We urge parents to protect their children and adolescents against pertussis, and other vaccine-preventable diseases by keeping their immunizations up-to-date," Meyerson said. "Adults under age 65 need a booster too. We often find in our investigations that adults with a lingering cough did not realize they were infected with pertussis and un-knowingly gave it to a family member."

Pertussis is a highly contagious disease that is spread by coughing or sneezing while in close contact with others. Symptoms include cold-like symptoms, such as a mild cough.

The "whoop" is often absent in older children and adults, so immunization and quick treatment is crucial.

For more information about pertussis or pertussis immunization, contact the Health Department of Northwest Michigan at (800) 432-4121.

Football team working to fill gaps

MIKE DUNN
SPECIAL TO THE COURIER

Graduation took a huge toll on the Charlevoix High School football team, depleting the offensive line — including Bill Ivan, now at Indiana University — and taking three-year quarterback starter Clayton Mitchell.

Although the Rayders' numbers are lower than usual, with 21 varsity members, and there is a notable lack of experience in the trenches, veteran coach Don Jess believes his team will still be competitive this season.

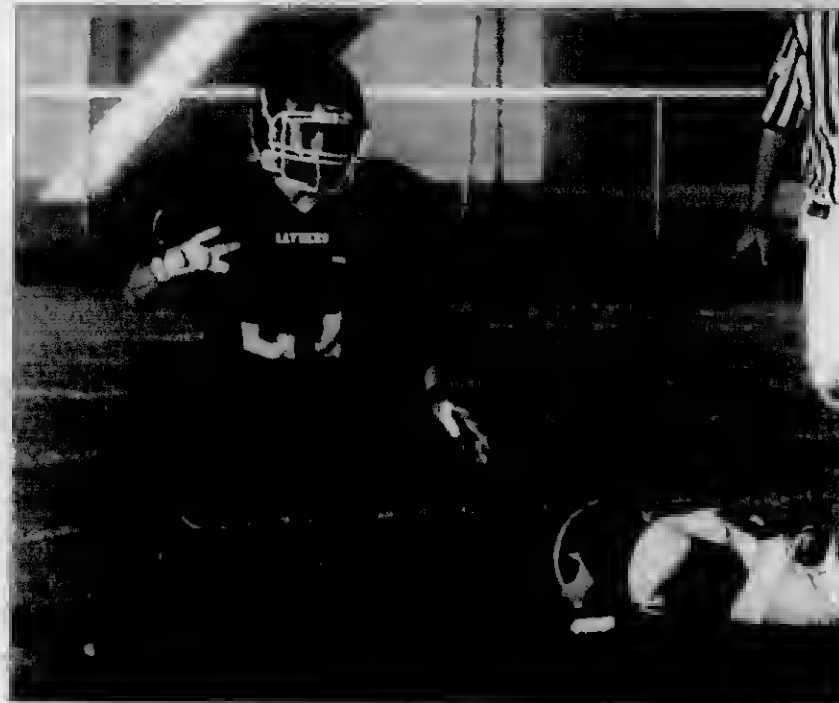

"We're getting better," Jess said after the first week-and-a-half of practice. "We have a lot of holes to fill from last year's team, especially on the offensive line. We won't be as big this year, but our overall team speed will be our biggest strength. The kids are working hard and they're aggressive."

Junior Andrew Potter will fill Mitchell's shoes behind center. Potter started for the JV a year ago, his first year playing the position, and he made huge strides. He's been handling himself well in practice and Jess likes his potential.

"He's a good athlete," he said. "He's a starter at short-stop on the baseball team, just a real good all-around athlete and a natural team leader. He's very smart, too. He's only been a true quarterback for a year but he's come a long way. He worked a lot on his mechanics in the offseason and he's done everything we've asked of him."

The backfield behind Potter will be solid with the return of juniors Jake McLean and John Boss, who both played on the varsity last year as sophomores. McLean, a speed burner with excellent balance and strong strides, was Charlevoix's leading rusher before being sidelined by injury and Boss, who also possesses above-average speed, saw a lot of duty at fullback. Gunner Zipp, a 6-foot-1, 210-pound senior newcomer who transferred from St. Ignace, will be used at both fullback and flanker and provides some pop to go with the sizzle.

Another key returnee is junior tight end Coby Herriman, a solidly built 6-1, 190-pounder who is a fierce blocker with soft hands and good on-field vision. Dylan Putman, 6-3, is another senior who is new to the football roster, will be one of Potter's targets at receiver along with junior Jordan Jones, who returns to the varsity.

Charlevoix finished 6-4 last year, winning the final three games of the regular season to make the playoffs for the second year in a row and the fourth time in five years. A return to the playoffs could depend on how quickly the offensive line is able to develop.

Senior Chris Keie is the lone returning starter at guard and one of three captains along with McLean and Herriman. He will anchor a line that averages less than 200 pounds, but is physically tough and has good mobility. At 260 pounds, senior Steve Belfry is the biggest player on the line, and he will see playing time at guard along with senior Braden Knoop. Sophomore Corbin Turkelson joins the varsity to play the center spot with Alex Waha and Clay Heise at tackles.

The strength of the Rayders' 4-4 defense will be the mobile linebacking unit featuring Zipp, McLean, Herriman and Boss. Jones, Putman and Potter will man the secondary with 6-6 Josh Hogan and River Gauthier joining Keie, Heise, Knoop, Belfry, Turkelson and Waha on the defensive line. Jones returns as the team's kicker.

Jess likes what he sees in his team's attitude.

"The kids have worked hard to get better and their attitude has been great," he said. "They're very much a team."

Jess sees a lot of improvement among the teams in the Lake Michigan Conference, though Traverse City St. Francis is still clearly the team to beat.

"Harbor Springs is going to be better and so is East Jordan now under (Alan) Peterson," Jess said. "Boyne has a heck of a program and they're always tough. Grayling has a lot coming back. The league should be tough from top to bottom."

Rayder teams look to build on last year's successes

ANDY SNEDDON
NEWS-REVIEW SPORTS
EDITOR

Last fall, the Charlevoix High School boys soccer team enjoyed the best season in its history.

The distinction may last only one year.

The Rayders return 10 starters from that squad which won the first district and Lake Michigan Conference championships in school history and posted a school-record 20 victories. And they're already off to a good start, having won the Leland Invitational on Saturday.

Longtime coach Josh Block said the goal this year isn't necessarily numeric, but more tangible, as in state-tournament hardware.

"We are not going to be 20-1 this year, that's not our goal," Block said. "We are keeping our eyes on the playoffs this year."

The Rayders, who play in Division III, have beefed-up their schedule, adding defending Division II state runner-up Petoskey, Division I Traverse City Central along with Marquette and Gaylord, schools that dwarf Charlevoix in enrollment. The Rayders played at Gaylord on Tuesday, and are scheduled to host Petoskey in their home opener 5 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 26.

The point, Block said, is to get his veteran team prepared to go beyond the regional semifinals, where the 2009 season came to an end with a loss to Tawas.

Nine of the 11 seniors on the Rayder roster are in their fourth year on the varsity, including 2009's top scorer Ben Myers, who last season became the school's first first-team All-Stater in boys' soccer.

Other senior returnees are Matthew Klooster, Will Larsen, Noah Matchett, Boog Nitchman, Thomas Rich, John Shea, Wade Werth, Ty Wilhelm, T.J. Currier and Ryan Winner. Shea was an All-State honorable mention a year ago.

The key is in goal, where sophomore Matt Batdorff will seek to replace All-Stater Nick Brandi. He's getting some individual coaching from former Petoskey standout Kyle Lieberman, who played at Alma College.

Senior Ben Myers is one of a slew of veterans who return to coach Josh Block's Charlevoix High School soccer team in 2010. Myers was the Rayders' leading scorer in 2009 and became the first boys' soccer player in school history to earn first-team All-State honors.

"Matt is very athletic and right now he needs some experience," Block said. "He's very capable and I know he's going to do a great job."

"I am phenomenally optimistic. That guy's (Lieberman) a great coach and he's really clicked with Batdorff."

The Rayders opened Saturday's tournament at Leland with a 4-1 victory over Reed City, then downed the host Comets, 5-4, after building a 5-1 lead.

Nitchman scored all four goals against Reed City, while Myers had four against Leland. Nitchman also picked up a goal against the Comets. Klooster had two assists against Reed City, while Shea and Matchett had one apiece, while Batdorff notched the win in goal.

Werth had two assists and Klooster added one in the win over Leland. Batdorff and sophomore Justin Erskine split the game in goal.

VOLLEYBALL

Like their soccer counterparts, the varsity volleyball players are looking for an encore performance to a highly successful 2009 campaign, when coach Liz Grunch led the Rayders to a runner-up finish in the Lake Michigan Conference followed by a Class C district championship, and the first win in the regionals in school history.

The Rayders bowed to a very good McBain team in last year's regional final.

"We're coming off a great season, last year we lost to a great team in regionals," said Grunch, who guided Charlevoix to a 42-19-2 finish in 2009. "We have a strong core back and are looking to go out hard every day."

Second team All-Stater Jenna Way, a junior setter, headlines the returnees. Also back are all-region middle hitter Allison Hankins, the lone senior on the roster, along with all-region left-side hitter/middle back Katie Mays.

Newcomer Anna Way, a sophomore right-side hitter, should contribute immediately.

The Rayders opened Saturday by reaching the semifinals in the 15-team Pellston Primary. They fell to the host Hornets, the defending Class D state runners-up, in the semifinals, 23-25, 21-25.

"I think we kind of ran out of steam a little bit at the end against Pellston," Grunch said. "We probably made 10 hitting errors. We're right there ability wise, it's just a matter of getting into volleyball shape."

I think the girls have what it takes to be a championship team. It's just a process, especially early. It's pretty exciting, the talent we have and the desire. They go out and play for each other and work hard and have great attitudes. It's a

The Rayders finished 7-1 to win their pool. They beat Central Lake, 25-24, 25-24; Onaway, 25-22, 25-22; and Harbor Light, 25-20, 25-20; and split with Kingsley, 16-25, 25-24. They then downed Fife Lake Forest Area, 25-20, 25-10, in a quarterfinal match.

Jenna Way finished with 85 assists, 19 kills, 22 digs and five blocks to earn a spot on the all-tournament team.

Also for the Rayders, Hankins had 46 kills, 10 blocks; Mays finished with 23 kills, 22 digs; Kelsey Way had 35 digs, 15 kills, six aces; Kelly Greyerbiehl had 56 digs, served at 98 percent, and finished at 92 percent in serve reception; and Chelsie Hoffman added 28 digs.

The Rayders go to the LeLand Invitational on Saturday, Aug. 28.

BOYS' TENNIS

Coach Erik Lundteign has 15 varsity candidates including several returning letter winners, led by senior Logan Klein, who played No. 1 singles last year and enters his fourth year on the varsity.

Also back are senior John Sauer, and juniors Blake Schulman, Trent Bradley, Austen Lobenherz and Ben Way, all of whom earned a letter last fall.

The Rayders were scheduled to open the season on Tuesday, Aug. 24, with a Lake Michigan Conference match at Elk Rapids.

CROSS COUNTRY

From the ashes of disappointment burn the fires of motivation.

Such is the case for the Charlevoix boys' and girls' cross country teams in 2010 as both squads return a slew of talented veterans bent on improving on last year's performances — and staying healthy.

The boys return All-Stater Eric Buday, a senior, along with a quartet of juniors, while the girls return six letter winners, all juniors, and have added a talented and motivated

Top runner Molly Jeakle returns to lead the girls' squad along with Lauren Bartling, Hillary Way, Jane Balasz, Annie Dipert and Stirling Whitthoef. Those six comprised the bulk of the '09 team that finished fourth in the regional, just seven points from third, a position that would have sent the Rayders to the state meet at Michigan International Speedway.

"The first time we all ran together last year was the regional," coach Mary Plude said, explaining that illness kept the Rayders from being at full strength throughout almost the entire '09 season. "We had never seen what we could do with all seven together."

The transfer is sophomore Olivia Certa, who moves over from Ellsworth. She finished 34th last year at the Division IV state meet, while Jeakle qualified for the Division III meet as an individual.

Like all their teammates, Jeakle and Certa have bought into the team concept and getting the entire squad to MIS this year is goal No. 1.

"I always find that for girls, the junior year is make or break — you either bounce back and decide you're committed or you're not," Plude said.

And commitment is not in question with this group, Plude said, particularly in light of how last season ended for the team at the regional.

"They've taken it to heart," she said. "They got on each other when one wasn't doing the work and they let them know to remember what that felt like last October. It's definitely been a motivating factor. They've made that commitment. They do not want to stay home."

The boys' team is every bit on the same page when it comes to drive and commitment, coach Ken Plude said.

"Depth as far as experience isn't there, but there are some guys who look really good," said Plude, who saw his top runner, Buday, battle illness last year yet still manage a 19th-place finish in the state meet. "Can't get sick, can't get hurt. No swine flu like last year."

Juniors Kirk Acharya, Andrew Plude, Alex Gooch and Vinnie VonLau also return. Those four, along with Buday, ran to a 13th-place finish as a team at MIS last year.

Junior returnee Will Jeakle, freshman Jackson Buday, and senior Tony Faulk, a transfer from Traverse City Central, will battle for the remaining two varsity spots. Acharya, a mainstay in both the cross country and track programs, is rehabilitating an injury and may not run until the season is well under way.

Just as it did to the girls' squad, illness took a toll on the Rayder boys a year ago. Plude said he figured he had a team with the potential to finish in the top seven in the state in '09, and, with so many of the same personnel back, that's a realistic goal in 2010.

"They're already talking about where they want to go," he said. "They put it out on the table and no excuses. They are definitely motivated and they can be a contender. They can be in that top five, if everything goes well."

Tall ship Lynx to visit Charlevoix

Schooner offers a glimpse into maritime past

The Lynx, a 122-foot square-top sail schooner will be sailing into Charlevoix harbor at 10 a.m. on Thursday Sept. 2. The crew will fire a salute from the ship's main battery of 6-pounder carronades upon her grand entrance to Charlevoix harbor.

"We are very excited to visit Charlevoix and thank our generous hosts the Seaports Great Lakes Group and Charlevoix City Marina for making it all possible," Jeffrey Woods, director operations for the Lynx Educational Foundation said.

The 114-ton Lynx is an interpretation of a privateer or naval schooner from the War of 1812. She is fitted with period ordnance and flies pennants and flags from the 1812 era. The Lynx crew wear period dress and operate the ship in keeping with the maritime traditions of early 19th century America.

The ship represents a "letter of Marque" Baltimore Clipper, considered to be among the finest privateer schooners ever built. Because of their swiftness and maneuverability, these ships were most effective as blockade runners and offensive weapons of war.

The Lynx has recently begun a five-year mission along the East Coast of the United States and Canada to participate in the Great Lakes United Tall Ships Challenge Series during the summer of 2010 and then will remain on the East Coast to participate in the celebration of the 200th anniversary of the War of 1812 and the Star-spangled Banner.

The ship was also hired to train the cast and crew of the hit movie Pirates of the Caribbean.

While in Charlevoix, the Lynx, will be offering public dockside tours from 11 a.m.-1 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 2 and from 10 a.m.-1 p.m. Friday and Saturday, Sept. 3-4. Sailing adventures will be offered from 2-4 p.m., Friday and Saturday, Sept. 3-4, and sunset sails will be offered from 5-7 p.m., Thursday and Friday, Sept. 2-3. Prices for the sunset and adventure sails are $65 for adults and $35 for children 12 and under.

For reservations call (866) 446-5969 or visit www.privateerlynx.org for tickets.

Challenge Mountain needs 'Nightmare' volunteers

BOYNE FALLS — Organizers of "The Nightmare at Challenge Mountain" are seeking volunteers to help staff its upcoming ninth annual fundraising event.

Event officials will be hosting an informational session for those interested in volunteering from 1-4 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 29, at Challenge Mountain, 2205 Springbrook Road, Boyer Falls.

Organizers said volunteers can work as much or as little as they wish and many acting parts are still available.

The Nightmare fundraiser raises thousands of dollars each year toward the organization's adaptive recreational programs. Thanks to the efforts of volunteers, the event typically hosts more than 300 guest visits each year.

Challenge Mountain officials said the "Nightmare" event is not a typical "spook house," but it is a theatrical story-telling haunting with something to do for every age group including the little ones.

Charlevoix nurse dies in crash

STEVE ZUCKER
COURIER EDITOR

BRECKENRIDGE — A long-time nurse at Charlevoix Area Hospital died from injuries she sustained when she crashed while riding a motorcycle downstate Monday.

Graati County Sheriff Rick Beracy identified the deceased as Kaye Lynn MacMillan, 61, of Charlevoix.

Beracy said the crash happened around 2 p.m. on U.S. 127 near the Lincoln Road overpass.

The sheriff said police indicated that MacMillan was riding with her husband, Michael, (on a separate motorcycle) at the time of the crash. Beracy said the crash happened in an area where there was a curve in the road and for some reason, MacMillan failed to follow the curve of the road, veered off the roadway and struck a guardrail.

MacMillan was taken by ambulance to Gratiot Medical Center where she was pronounced dead, according to the Sheriff.

Beracy said deputies are still investigating what might have caused MacMillan to leave the roadway. He said the initial investigation shows that no other vehicles were involved, weather conditions were good and there were no obstructions or animals in the road that might have contributed to the crash. According to state licensing records, Mac-Millan has been licensed as a registered nurse since 1974.

Charlevoix Area Hospital President Bill Jackson said today, that MacMillan had worked for the hospital for about 18 years — most of that time in the emergency department.

Jackson said staff at the hospital, and especially in the emergency room were struggling to deal with the news of MacMillan's death today.

"We're all just devastated here," Jackson said. "We're all like a big family here, so (the news) has been very difficult."

Jackson said MacMillan was a dedicated nurse who was well respected by her peers.

Sandra Bennett, the nursing house supervisor at Charlevoix Area Hospital started working for the hospital around the same time as MacMillan and considered her not only a co-worker, but a good friend.

Bennett described MacMillan as a warm, compassionate and very efficient nurse with a good sense of humor. She said in addition to riding motorcycles with her husband, MacMillan enjoyed spending time with her family and sewing and knitting.

"In a small place like this, we're all friends," Bennett said. "That's one of the things that is so special about this hospital. Many of the people who come in are often our friends, family or neighbors. That's how we feel today — like we lost a member of our family."

Airport terminal to get expansion

MATT MIKUS
SPECIAL TO THE COURIER

Plans remain on track for a $1 million terminal expansion project at the Charlevoix Municipal Airport to better service commercial flights and the community. The expansion is scheduled to begin in late 2011.

City officials said 95 percent of the funding for the expansion of the terminal comes from the Federal Aviation Administration's entitlement grant, which is funded through commercial airline tickets taxes and fuel taxes.

Matt Bailey, the airport manager, explained that funding for expanding the terminal comes specifically from individuals who choose to fly, whether as a pilot or a passenger.

"All the monies are collected nationally through aviation taxes and fuel taxes," Bailey said. "So it's not like the residents of Charlevoix or Beaver Island are paying a tax for something they don't use."

The remaining 5 percent of the development will be split the state of Michigan and funding through the city's operating budget. The city will be required to pay 2.5 percent of the expansion project.

Bailey said that the airport qualified for the entitlement grant because the airport meets the minimum requirement of 10,000 commercial passenger flights a year. He said the Bridge Street water work on tap

Council OKs water main work, long-term infrastructure plan

STEVE ZUCKER
COURIER EDITOR

A water main replacement project on Bridge Street is set to begin shortly after Labor Day.

At a special meeting on Thursday, Aug. 26, the Charlevoix City Council unanimously approved a bid in the amount of $178,808.20 from Glawie Inc., the lowest of four bidders on the project.

Charlevoix City Manager Rob Straebel said the project will take place on Bridge Street (U.S. 31) in the area from Carpenter Avenue south to M-66 and will include replacing an existing four-inch water main with an eight-inch main, the installation of three new fire hydrants and the replacement of service lines from the main to the new curb stops.

He said the work, which is expected to take about two months to complete should only have minimal impacts on water service and traffic in the area because much of the work will be done by boring instead of by digging open trenches.

Straebel said the cost of the project, which was included in the city's 2010-11 budget, was in line with what engineers had projected.

In another recent infrastructure-related matter, at its Aug. 16 meeting, the council also approved a 10-year plan for long-term street and infrastructure improvements in the city.

The priorities set out in the plan incorporate a numerical street rating system (known as PASER), that uses set criteria and standards to rate the condition of each street within the city.

Straebel noted that each street improvement project will be coordinated with underground utility work minimizing future pavement cuts while repairing and replacing the city's aging utility infrastructure. Over the next 10 years the plan calls for spending $7.5-$8 million investment without the added costs of bonding.

"Overall, the plan is a wise investment into the city's future that will boost the local economy for years to come,"

Straebel said.

In his memo about the plan to the council, city street superintendent Pat Elliott said the priorities on the list are not cast in stone and may have to change as conditions warrant.

Elliott also noted that the plan includes the following assumptions:

— The infrastructure fund balance will not dip below $200,000 at year's end

— The fund will capture at least $443,000 each year — The city will continue to collect $230,000 in county-wide road millage funds each year

— Grants were not included in any of the calculations — Projected costs do not include hurrying overhead utilities. The feasibility of burying such lines will be evaluated in the planning stages of each project.

First up on the list for 2011 (after this year's water main project) will be reconstructing Meech Street from U.S. 31 to Division at an estimated cost of $460,000 and water main work on U.S. 31 from Green to Hurhut at an estimated cost of $375,000.

A season of change

I'd like to formally welcome fall after a beautiful warm summer. Change is in the air not only in the weather but in the schools as well. There will be new faces leading the helms in Charlevoix and other districts nearby. It's difficult for some of us to wrap our minds around change but sometimes someone new will bring about an outlook and approach that brings a different view on the same topic. New ideas and new blood can lead to new beginnings.

For some, this fall will be sending your child off to pre-K, kindergarten or the change from home school to the public school setting. Having the ability to select your child's education through "schools of choice" is also the opportunity to see if the grass really is greener on the other side. As parents we worry about the many "wills" in their lives: Will they get along with others? Will they achieve? Will they make the team and will they come home on time?

For the recently-retired teacher, fall brings a bittersweet smile as the familiar school buses roll down the highway. For us long-time retirees seeing a school bus is likened to the umbilical cord to education. There is always that tug at our hearts reminding us how great the kids are but also the new found excitement realizing you are only responsible for your self and not the lives of others. Time spent educating the future generation is priceless and often the best years of our lives. They will never be forgotten as many of us still savor those precious memories in the form of homemade thank you notes from former students.

A LOOK AT LIFE
Gayle Gennell

For the new teacher there is the excitement and anticipation of having your classroom to yourself and diligently trying to figure out how to meet all the state standards and still have fun in the classroom. But it's your room and your students and the feeling of guiding your own flock is almost as good as the feelings from parenting and seeing your kids become kind and caring individuals.

When I walk into a store and see new school supplies childhood memories flood my mental visuals of getting a new school bag and filling it with crayons and sharpened pencils. Attending Catholic schools from first through 12th grade, my memory bank brings up many things. At the top of the list is cleaning the oil cloth on the desk (I am known for being a clean freak) that was assigned to you all year. Oil cloths on the desks served the purpose of protecting the wood as well as keeping it sanitary. What a good idea someone had back in the early 50s. Maybe it came out of the need to disinfect since fear of disease brought about the swallowing of sugar cubes laced with immunizations to protect future generations.

The Bank of Dearborn provided the schools I attended with blue and white book covers that we learned to carefully manipulate to cover each book. Our entire class of 31 students learned to make folds almost origami-like for future use for our brothers and sisters. To this day I claim my Catholic education for teaching me how to perfectly wrap a present after folding and covering textbooks for 12 years.

For me, my favorite part of the day was penmanship because it was an art to get my capital "T"'s to look like swans and having a "G" as the letter in my first name brought with it the opportunity to get creative with a little swirl. Spelling bees were a highlight as well as math flashcards. I swear I could add, multiply and subtract on my fingers carefully hidden behind my back faster than any student in the class. I still occasionally do math on my fingers and have been mistaken for communicating with the deaf.

Safety patrol officer — boy what an honor that was to protect youth on the playground and be allowed to carry the nun's books back to the convent. I proudly sported my arm badge while stationed at a locked door allowing entrance for staff and parents only as the students were attending Mass just around the corner. Now as I reflect on all of this it makes sense for me to guard a door rather than attend Mass. I was a member of the church choir and, on more than one occasion, a choral stick flew my way but I was fast-ducking just in the nick of time. It had something to do with my need to entertain my friends via notes, making faces and whispering.

So, fall is upon us as well as a new school year. Class is in session and I'll sit on my lawn chair, java in hand and smile knowing that this next generation is in good hands and the only persons behavior I am responsible for is my own. Believe me when I say that this alone keeps me busy.

SUMMER RESIDENT KEEPS THE FAITH DESPITE THEFT

Editor
Not very long ago I had some difficulty with a door lock on the red Jeep I use during my summer stay in Charlevoix. Although my wife and I make our permanent home in New York City, I have been a summer resident of Charlevoix since 1960. When I told my spouse that I had solved the problem with the door by disabling the lock, her silence told me that she thought that I may have lost touch with the world as it is.

But for me, I was in Charlevoix. The city of neighbors and safety and petunias and trust in community life and regard for others as seldom is found elsewhere.

In Charlevoix I mostly fish, and Irish Boat Shop is my safe harbor. My boat occupies a slip there from May to October. I usually install a rod holder for six rods on the dock adjacent to my boat so they will be very much at hand. Perhaps to prove the point that lock and key is not our way of life, I have been leaving rods unlocked for five years. They remain as I leave them for days and months with only the visitation of spiders.

However, one day in mid-July only five rods were in the holder. For a long while I shared the loss with no one almost as if I were loath to admit to myself that times change. A few weeks went by and one morning the reel suddenly appeared. The rod — a bamboo antique imprinted with my name — remained lost.

Around the same time I read in the Courier about the loss from aboard the sailing vessel Sunshine. I decided then to write something about all of this. But what to write?

I wish what I have to say not be about changing times but rather how we maintain that which we have come to cherish in our "beautiful" place.

In the interim month or so, two thoughts came to mind. First, I wish for the taker some good use and pleasure with the rod. No reward is offered for return because that is not the point. Were someone to wish to return it, Irish will surely hold it for me. If not, use it well. It is a great piece of work.

Second, I have since been asked how I was going to secure that which I treasure in the future. This comes to mind: I watched a movie not long ago about a lawsuit. In a summation to a jury the lawyer spoke of a belief from a religion not my own that says, "Act as if ye had faith and faith will be given to you." A variant enters my mind, "Act as if you have firm belief in honesty and honesty will prevail for you and your neighbors."

My answer now to those who query about what I am about to do about safeguarding is that I shall do nothing different because I believe that I and all of us will both bear the occasional loss as our town and world sustains that which we wish it to be.

Char-Em United Way renews certification

Martha Lancaster, executive director for the Char-Em United Way, announced that the organization has successfully completed all of United Way's national membership requirements by their respective due dates.

Lancaster explained that the annual certification process includes completing the membership requirements certification, membership investment to support the national office, and a survey of total resources generated (a survey that captures the full extent of a community's resource development efforts during the year). In addition to the annual requirements, Char-Em United Way recently completed a mandatory organizational self-assessment, as part of this process.

"The membership requirements must be certified annually in order for us to remain a member of United Way," Lancaster said. "It is important for us to maintain high standards of accountability, and this is part of the process to confirm that our operations are transparent and meet or exceed United Way requirements."

The board of Char-Em United Way approved the membership requirements certification on June 17. The certification mandates completion of 13 requirements for United Way membership, along with verification of the status of 61 indicators that a United Way demonstrates the intent of the membership requirements (as examples, conflict of interest policies).

Char-Em United Way is part of a worldwide network in 30 countries and territories, including 1,259 local organizations in the U.S.

"All United Ways must meet the highest standards and verify that they have conformed to the requirements of membership," Brian Gallagher, president and CEO, United Way, said. "We applaud Char-Em United Way's commitment to accountability and, importantly, their continued efforts to support work in their community which improves lives and advances the common good for all people."

As an integral part of Charlevoix and Emmet counties, Char-Em United Way works to improve lives by providing financial support for effective health and human service programs that meet identified community needs. In addition, United Way provides leadership for the Day of Caring, Project Connect, and other initiatives including Volunteer Connections, 2-1-1, and Friends Enhancing Emmet Transit.

The annual United Way Campaign which supports all these activities is under way. To donate or for more information call (231) 487-1006, e-mail info@charemunitedway.org, or log on to www.charemunitedway.org.

Sea lampreys to be studied

RACHEL BROUGHAM
NEWS-REVIEW STAFF

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service will work in the area beginning today, Tuesday, Aug. 31, to determine the need for sea lamprey control.

Crews will use a lampricide in Porter Creek, Horton Creek, Boyne River and Jordan River areas in Charlevoix County Aug. 31 through Sept. 9.

Sea Lampreys invaded the Great Lakes in the 1920s and have been a destructive element of the fishing industry ever since.

Sea Lampreys attach to fish with a suction cup mouth, rasp a hole through the fish's scales and skin, and then feed on the blood and body fluids. The average sea lamprey will destroy up to 40 pounds of fish during its parasitic phase.

Fishery biologists and technicians conduct sea lamprey surveys in hundreds of Great Lakes streams each year. While most surveys are conducted by electrofishing, in deep waters, crews use the Bayluscide 3.2 percent lampricide approved by the United States Environmental Protection Agency and Health Canada Pest Management Regulatory Agency.

The lampricide is specially formulated and has a time-release coating.

The lampricide is sprayed over a measured surface area of water where it sinks to the bottom, rapidly dissolves, and causes the larval sea lampreys to leave their burrows and swim to the surface where they are collected.

Exact timing for the surveys in Charlevoix County will depend on weather conditions.

Studies show the Bayluscide lampricide poses no risks to humans or the environment when it is applied correctly.

Information about sea lampreys and sea lamprey control is available at www.glfic.org.

SLEEP

Group seeks 'Crossings' book donors for schools

The Charlevoix Area Hospital Foundation and the Crooked Tree Arts Council are teaming up to put forth a new proposal asking sponsors to put copies of the "Crossings" book in every elementary school in our area.

"Crossings" initially was an opportunity to be involved in a raffle while supporting two non-profit organizations, but because the book holds a higher intrinsic value both historically and artistically, the fundraising committee is hoping that it can be put to use for yet another purpose.

"We are looking for sponsors, individuals or service clubs who might be interested in making a donation to place the books in all the area elementary schools," Lyn Jenks, executive director of the Charlevoix Area Hospital Foundation said.

Seven classes participated in the "Crossings" raffle challenge and all entered correct answers, and although the Charlevoix Street Legends car club won the $5,000 drawing that took place on Aug. 1, the fun of solving the destination mystery, working out the puzzles and the abundance of history the book contains are still available to everyone.

"We got really good feedback from the teachers who used the book with their classes," Jenks said.

Crossings author Patricia Aikin spent six months researching Northern Michigan history before she began writing, starting her efforts with two months of reading the 21 books included in the "Crossings" bibliography.

At a recent Charlevoix Area Hospital Foundation board meeting Aikin was presented with a plaque commending her for her talent and the amount of time she put into writing, researching and promoting this unique fundraiser and was honored by the Crooked Tree Arts Council with the volunteer of the year award.

"It was just fun talking to people about it," Aikin said.

"The information contained in the book is timeless and presented in a creative format," Jenks said. "We are hoping to provide a book for every third grader in our area to learn about Michigan history."

For those who still wish to get in on the mystery or wish to sponsor classroom books, "Crossings" can now be purchased for $10 by calling (231) 547-8502.

North Central Michigan College offers new program for high school students to earn college credits

RACHEL BROGHAM
NEWS-REVIEW STAFF

A new program will give high school students in Emmet, Charlevoix and Antrim counties an additional way to earn college credits while still in high school.

The pilot program, called Direct Credit, was announced at the monthly North Central Michigan College board meeting on Tuesday, Aug. 24.

The program expands the partnership between the college and the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District.

Through Direct Credit, juniors and seniors at area high schools will have the option to take selected courses at their high school to earn credit toward an associate degree.

"We believe this program will help students who may not have thought they were really ready for college," said Christine Hammond, dean of instruction and student success at North Central Michigan College.

"It will help students gain credit and confidence while working toward college credits."

The program will feature about a dozen courses, that will be taught by high school teachers who have the credentials to teach the courses.

Students enrolled in the courses will use the North Central Michigan College syllabi and will use college text books.

The number and subject matter of the courses will vary from high school to high school, but will include classes such as marketing, personal finance and entry level accounting.

Credits earned in these courses will count toward a certificate or associate degree at North Central Michigan College and may be accepted by other colleges and universities throughout the state and country.

"Our overall goal is to give juniors and seniors an additional opportunity to jump-start their college course work," said Rick Diebold, superintendent of Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District.

"We are fortunate to have such a strong partner in North Central to make this happen."

Also during the same meeting, a new partnership with the Young Americans was also announced.

Members of the Young Americans music and theater group will have the option to take courses through North Central Michigan College and work toward an associate degree.

Qualified instructors will lead the courses in California where the Young Americans live and train.

Some students may also opt to take courses online.

The students will also pay out of state tuition costs.

"Students will adhere to the master course syllabi for courses taken in California and will have to meet the same expectations of all of our students," Hammond said.

"This is an exciting new partnership and we've spent over a year working on this program," said college president, Cameron Brunet-Koch.

"It has not come without a tremendous workload, but I think once we get a routine, it will be an outstanding opportunity for these talented students."

AIRPORT

"Even in these tough economic times," Bailey said, "for $25,000, the city of Charlevoix is basically getting a million dollars. That's the beauty of this."

The terminal expansion plan will allow for more waiting space for passengers, space for charter and individual pilots to plan flights and a conference room for training new pilots. The conference room, which will be designed to give users a view of the airport, will also be available for public use.

"We tried to create it in such a way that it's always going to have a use," Bailey said. "We're not trying to create any dead spaces in the terminal that are just going sit vacant."

In addition to the development of the terminal, Bailey said officials also hope to add 400 feet to the runway, in order to service more flights and bring more revenue to the airport. The airport currently receives $15,000 from the city annually, but after the expansion, Bailey hopes that the airport will be self-sufficient.

He believes that expanding the runway will allow more planes to choose Charlevoix over locations like Traverse City or Pellston.

"That little bit (of runway) may be the difference between somebody being able to add enough fuel to fly non-stop to Florida, or having to stop somewhere in Georgia to pick up fuel," said Bailey. "And they don't want to stop in Georgia."

Bailey said he hopes the project will bring more revenue into the Northern Michigan community. He noted that not only do tourists come and spend money in the areas, but the expansion will allow business to take advantage of services, as well as more access by the National Guard and Coast Guard branches for training and rescue missions.

The airport also is essential for residents of Beaver Island, providing medical services, food supply and transportation during the winter.

"We're trying to make this airport better to help service the needs, so they have a nice airport for them to come," Bailey said.

City officials are also in the second phase of developing a master plan for the airport.

Earlier this month the city received a $159,134 grant from the Federal Aviation Administration to pay for the planning work.

Rayders' late charge falls short in 4-3 loss

Petoskey built a 4-0 lead 10 minutes into the second half Thursday, then held off a late charge by Charlevoix in posting a 4-3 non-league boys' soccer victory at Charlevoix High School.

It was the first win of the year for the Northmen, 1-2-1, who opened the season on Saturday against some rugged competition at the Traverse City West Invitational.

Sophomore Louie Lamberti, freshman Ethan Cartwright, junior Brandon Coats, and senior Alex Jons each scored his first career varsity goal to spark the Northmen, who jumped to a 1-0 lead 10 minutes in when Lamberti took a free kick from Will Cobb and found the top corner of the net.

Cartwright scored five minutes later on a left-footed shot from 20 yards out off a Cobb assist, then Coats made it 3-0 at halftime when he tallied on a breakaway off a long ball over the top of the Rayder defense by Cade Ingleson.

Jons scored on a rebound early in the second half to complete Petoskey's scoring. Jons' goal came after Cartwright made a corner kick that was headed by Nick Manzer.

"It was nice to get Will Cobb back into the lineup," said Zach Jonker, who notched his first victory as Petoskey's coach. "His minutes were very limited, but he made the most of them. David March played an exceptional game in the mid-field distributing the ball, and he also scored a great goal that was disallowed."

Ben Myers scored two goals and picked up an assist to lead the Rayders, 4-1, who lost their first match of the season. Joe Filipiak also scored for Charlevoix, and Wyatt Drost had an assist.

"Charlevoix played very well in the first half," Jonker said. "Brad Lehey (Petoskey's goalkeeper) made a great diving save on a Myers penalty kick to keep it scoreless. We didn't do a very good job closing the game out."

The key for the Northmen was holding Myers, who last fall became the first first-team All-Stater in Charlevoix history, in check while building their 4-0 lead. The Charlevoix senior broke out late in the game.

"We have only played and scrimmaged perennial top 10 Division 1 teams up to this point, and outside of East Kentwood forward Dzenan Catic, a returning Michigan Dream Team player, Myers has been by far the most dangerous player we have encountered," Jonker said. "We lost track of him in the final minutes and he made us pay."

"Ben spends a ton of time working on his game and he is destined to have a great year for Charlevoix. With that said, they are far from a one-man team. They have a great core group of seniors. Charlevoix will be a team to be reckoned with in Division III."

For the Rayders, who returned most of the top talent from their 2009 squad that produced the best season in school history, the match served as a barometer, coach Josh Block said.

"Parts of the game were absolutely fantastic, and other parts we need to work at," he said. "That's why this is such an important game for us."

"We're very grateful to be able to play a team like Petoskey. Playing teams like Petoskey that have such a great soccer tradition help get us ready for where we really need to be. Petoskey's the real deal and this really helps us set our goals and lets us know what we have to work on and improve at."

The Rayders faced a key early season conference game on Tuesday, Aug. 31, against perennial power Elk Rapids. The Rayders are the defending league champions, but the Elks have long been the team to beat in the conference.

How to Generate Retirement Income — during Retirement

Benjamin Muladore
Financial Advisor

Like most people, you probably save and invest throughout your working years so that you'll be able to afford a comfortable retirement. Once you retire, you'll want to focus on strategies to help you make the most of your retirement income — and you might want to become familiar with these ideas well before you retire.

Basically, you'll have some "must do" moves and some "think about doing" moves. Let's take a look at the "must do" ones first:

- Take the right amount of distributions from retirement plans. Once you turn 59½, you may be able to take penalty-free withdrawals, or distributions, from some of your retirement accounts, such as your traditional IRA and 401(k). But once you turn 70½, you generally must start taking distributions from these accounts. Your required minimum distribution, or RMD, is based on the previous year's balance in your retirement plan and life expectancy tables. You can take more than the minimum, but you'll want to make sure you don't take so much that you outlive your savings.
- Maximize your Social Security benefits. You can start collecting Social Security as early as 62, but if you wait until your "full" retirement age, which will probably be around 66, your monthly checks will be larger. And if you wait until after your full retirement age before you start collecting benefits, your checks can be even larger, though they'll "top off" when you turn 70. What should you do? Start taking the money as early as possible or delay payments, waiting for bigger paydays? There's no one right answer for everyone. To get the maximum benefits from Social Security, you'll need to factor in your health status, family history of longevity and other sources of retirement income.

Now let's consider two moves that you may think about doing during your retirement years:

- Purchase income-producing investments. Outside your IRA and 401(k), you may have other investment accounts, and inside these accounts, you'll need a portfolio that can produce income for your retirement years. You may choose to own some investment-grade bonds and certificates of deposit (CDs), both of which can help provide you with regular interest payments at relatively low risk to your principal. However, these investments may not help you stay ahead of inflation, which, over a long retirement, can seriously erode your purchasing power. Consequently, you also may want to consider dividend-producing stocks. Some of these stocks have paid, and even increased, their dividends for many years in a row, giving you a chance to obtain rising income. (Keep in mind, though, that stocks may lower or discontinue dividends at any time, and an investment in stocks will fluctuate with changes in market conditions and may be worth more or less than the original investment when sold.)

- Go back to work. In your retirement years, you may decide to work part time, do some consulting or even open your own business. Of course, the more earned income you take in, the less money you'll probably need to withdraw from your investments and retirement accounts. However, if you've started collecting Social Security, any earned income you receive before your "full" retirement age will likely cause you to lose some of your benefits. Once you reach full retirement age, you can keep all your benefits, no matter how much you earn.

Keep these strategies in mind as you near retirement. They may well come in handy.

So close Rayders a yard short in comeback bid, fall 13-6 in season opener Charlevoix missed a late comeback bid against St. Ignace, losing its opener at Kipke Field Friday in a non-conference matchup.

After a disappointing first half after which Charlevoix trailed, 13-0, the Rayders rallied in the second half.

John Boss scored on a 5-yard run to pull Charlevoix to within 13-6. The touchdown was set up on a 40-yard pass play from quarterback Andrew Potter to Dylan Putman.

The game ended with the Rayders on St. Ignace's 1-yard line.

"I was happy with the way we played in the second half," Charlevoix coach Don Jess said.

Boss finished with 91 yards on 20 carries, while Potter completed 7-of-13 passes for 98 yards.

Senior Gunnar Zipp, a transfer from St. Ignace, led Charlevoix's defense with 7 tackles.

More than two dozen local officials and citizens attended the Aug. 24 open-house gathering, which MDOT arranged to share details of the U.S. 31 upgrade plans as well as results from studies of traffic speeds in that area. Opportunities for questions and feedback were offered as well.

A key part of the proposed multimillion-dollar project

By getting motorists out of the flow of through traffic as they make left turns, MDOT development engineer Matt Radulski said this additional lane could reduce opportunities for accidents and improve traffic flow, and that the new design also has traffic-calming potential.

That stretch of highway currently has two through lanes in each direction. MDOT is considering a change to a three-lane format, with one in each direction for through traffic plus a center lane for left turns.

Since this type of center lane can help eliminate turning-related hazards, "we have found that three lanes are safer than four," Radulski said.

In recent years, numerous members of the Potosky, Resort Township and Bay Harbor communities have voiced desires to see the speed limit reduced from the currently posted 50-55 mph between Petoskey and Bay Shore, noting a desire to improve on traffic safety.

Following a request from Resort Township officials last fall, the state arranged a speed study along the corridor. MDOT and the state police conduct these studies as part of the process for determining the appropriate speed limit for a given road.

A key factor in speed limit decision is the 85th percentile rule. Limits typically are set near the speed at which 85 percent of motorists travel at or below — up to the standard maximum of 55 mph for non-freeway roads.

This is based on long-standing observations that most motorists drive at a speed that's appropriate for road conditions.

"I think the vast majority of us are safe, adequate, reasonable drivers," state police Lt. Gary Mcggee said.

At various points along the U.S. 31 South corridor, speed

Crash rate comparison

Michigan Department of Transportation staff recently compared the U.S. 31 South corridor near Bay Harbor to six similar sections of Northern Michigan highways in terms of their accident rates from 2005-2009.

These segments of highway all have two-lane configurations, speed limits of 45-55 mph and average daily traffic volumes comparable to the 12,500 vehicles seen along the Bay Harbor corridor. Most of the stretches compared were segments of U.S. 31 in the northern region, with a section of M-66 near Lake City included as well.

In terms of the overall crash rate (for accidents not involving animals), the Bay Harbor segment's rate of 22.9 crashes per mile from 2005-2009 was second lowest of the seven highway sections.

In terms of severe crashes, the Bay Harbor stretch's rate of 1.5 per mile was third lowest of the seven.

studies have shown that the 85th percentile speed runs between the mid 50s and low 60s, state police noted. Based on the state's standard approach, this suggests a speed limit reduction wouldn't be appropriate.

Megge noted several examples of speed studies along

Michigan roads that showed little variance in the 85th percentile speed, even when posted speed limits were changed significantly.

Although a few motorists may comply when the speed limit is set artificially low, state police noted that the difference in speeds between these drivers and others can create new hazards.

And by keeping the limit near the 85th percentile, state police noted that law enforcement can focus enforcement efforts on the small share of drivers who travel at speeds that are dangerous for the surroundings.

Following Megge's presentation, several audience members said they understood that a road's configuration and environment were more likely to influence speeds than posted limits. Still, some wondered if some type of change to the road environment might be useful to improve safety before the 2015 project.

Radulski said the state may repair deteriorated sections of shoulder in the meantime. It's possible that MDOT could consider adding passing flares in select areas where left turns are common, but Radulski noted that these, too, can sometimes present new hazards. Budget limitations make it unlikely that the project's timeline could be moved up significantly, MDOT staff noted.

County transit to get new buses

DAVID HOPKINS
NEWS-REVIEW STAFF
WRITER

Charlevoix County Transit Service will be receiving $350,000 from state and federal funds to purchase new buses that will arrive over the next two years.

With more than 82,000 riders a year on the county's transit bus service, the 17-bus fleet gets worn out and vehicles need to be replaced regularly to remain dependable, so on Wednesday, Aug. 25, the county board of commissioners approved the motion for the transit system to order four new buses.

"The state searched every nook and cranny for money and found some that was supposed to be set aside for the purchase of transit buses in 2008 and some of that money is available to us. We discussed it at the council and agreed that we better use the money or we'll lose it," said Ron Reinhardt, Charlevoix County Commissioner and County Transit board member.

Funding for the buses comes from the federal and state government and is specifically set aside for the purchase of buses. Other operational costs come from other areas, such as ride fares.

"Different percentages of the money go to different areas and the part we are getting is specifically for the purchase of buses," Reinhardt said.

Many people, including the elderly and disabled, throughout the county depend on the buses to get to appointments and there has been an increase in usage of the bus system over the last year. The transit system will be using the money to purchase four buses to replace older vehicles and keep the fleet in working order to service all the customers.

"We are up from seven and 10 percent for users of the bus system from last year. With that increase we need to make sure we have dependable buses throughout the county," said Ray Leach, manager of Charlevoix County Transit Service.

The buses cost between $70,000 and $109,000 a piece, depending on the style of bus and the features, such as wheelchair lifts, the vehicle is equipped with, and the buses will stay in the fleet for about seven years before they need to be replaced.

"The state used to require our buses to have 150,000 miles or be 5 years old before we could replace them. They recently changed that requirement so we can't replace them until they reach 200,000 miles or are 7 years old. We have several that are older than that and others that are getting close," Leach said.

The transit service has been working at replacing older buses all year, but the addition of the $350,000 to the bus-purchasing budget for the county will help get the fleet up to speed.

"We already have four buses on order from previous funding and we received three other new buses earlier this year so we'll have seven by the end of the year. Plus, the four from the latest funds will really help the fleet," Leach said.

It will take a while to go through the ordering process, which will take more than a year, but when the new vehicles arrive the bus service will be better prepared to handle its customers.

"With many buses in the fleet getting high on miles, a replacement will allow us to run new buses with less risk of breaking down. The buses will be more dependable and will allow the transit department to better service the community," Reinhardt said.

AAA: More people expected to travel this Labor Day

DENVER (AP) — More Americans will get away for the Labor Day weekend this year, yet stick closer to home as they try to get the most for their money, AAA said Wednesday, Aug. 25.

The auto club expects 34.4 million people to travel at least 50 miles from home between Sept. 2 and Sept. 6. That's up nearly 10 percent from 2009 — one of the lowest Labor Day volumes in AAA's record keeping history — and below the 45 million who traveled during the Labor Day weekend in 2008.

It's an indication that there is some pent-up demand for trips, but people are watching their budgets carefully as they worry about the sluggish economy, AAA Travel Services Director Glen Mac-Donell said.

"We're a little concerned on the fall and whether or not people will start to pull back on their wallets," he said. "This holiday, again relatively to last year, is up."

During the holiday, most Americans will stay near home, driving mostly to visit relatives or friends. The average round trip — by air, car and other means — is expected to be about 635 miles, compared with 645 miles in 2009.

About 91 percent will travel by car, 5 percent by plane and the rest by rail, bus or boat.

Drivers are getting a break on gasoline prices, which have remained relatively stable, below $3 a gallon for most of the summer. AAA projects the average price of a gallon of unleaded regular gas will range between $2.65 and $2.75 during the holiday weekend.

Prices for other things are higher. AAA says airfares are up about 9 percent from Labor Day 2009. Car rental rates are 7 percent higher and hotel room rates are 2 percent to 6 percent above last year.

AAA estimates that travelers will spend about $697 over the weekend, about $50 more than last year.

Dining, shopping and visiting relatives and friends were the three planned activities most frequently mentioned by travelers surveyed.

AAA's travel forecasts are based on research by IHS Global Insight, an economic research and consulting firm in Boston, and on reservation data from 1,000 AAA offices in North America.

Arts council offers 'Favorite Things' exhibit

EAST JORDAN — The Jordan River Arts Council's "Favorite Things" exhibit, which is now showing, includes the work of 48 different artists and a wide array of art pieces.

Some of the types of items included in the exhibit include: "Real" folk art, recycled art, art found in a resale shop, paintings by relatives found in the attic, old paintings of relatives, paintings by teachers, and even some antiques including a Japanese print. Media include ceramics, paintings, collages, drawings, sculptures, glass, prints and mixed media.

The favorites are by local artists, famous artists, deceased artists and many unknown. In all, 24 people submitted works they considered favorites in their collections. The criteria were that the piece could not be one created by the contributor, and the contributor was required to make a statement about why the piece is a favorite.

Organizers encourage those who view the exhibit to take the time to read the statements.

Collectors participating are: Ron Ahlfalter, Rachael Alberts, Prudy Barber, Mitch and Nancy Carey, Dick Cunningham, Jane Diller, Howard Ellis, Liz Kantzer, Karen Kimmell, Peggy Midener, Fran Pletzt, Carol Ross, Rod and Pat Tinney, Tom and Marge Teske, Jackie Trimble, Ron and Cynthia Tschudy, Judy Warner-Worger, Sylvia Walworth and Babs Young.

Bridge walk

Participants in the annual Labor Day Charlevoix Little Mighty Bridge Walk raise their hands and cheer as they make their way across the bridge shortly after 1 p.m. Monday. Although much of the weekend was cool, windy and rainy, Mother Nature cooperated Monday as intermittent morning showers gave way to blue skies in time for the walk. City hires new rec director

STEVE ZUCKER
COURIER EDITOR

Things have come full circle for Charlevoix's Teresa Hart, who was recently hired by Charlevoix City Manager Rob Strabel as the city's recreation department director.

Hart, a Charlevoix native and a 1981 graduate of Charlevoix High School, started in her new position on Aug. 31.

Strabel said Hart was selected from a field of about 15 applicants, four of whom were interviewed by a five-person committee Strabel selected. Under the city charter, however, the final decision on Hart's hiring was up to Strabel alone.

Hart brings with her not only a long history of working with children and organizing programs, she also has a long history specifically with the Charlevoix Recreation Department.

Hart

Starting in 1986, Hart worked for seven years as a counselor with the department's annual summer day camp, Camp McSaubia and then another six years as the camp's director. She's also done some umpiring for the city's youth softball league. She has 24 years experience in education at East Jordan Public Schools. She has taught middle school, been in charge of the school's media center and served as the district's director of curriculum for eight years until the position was recently eliminated because of budget cuts.

Hart holds a bachelor's degree in education and a master's degree in education and curriculum design.

While in high school she excelled in basketball, volleyball and softball and she played on the varsity softball and field hockey teams for four years while attending Alma College.

"We were fortunate to have four very qualified finalists for the job," Strabel said. "Based upon her extensive recreational experience and her strong track record with the East Jordan schools, we felt Teresa would be the best

WEATHER DAMPENS SOME LABOR DAY ACTIVITIES

STEVE ZUCKER
COURIER EDITOR

Holding true to the old weather saying, "In like a lamb, out like a lion" a summer that started with warm temperatures and sunny skies on Memorial Day ended with the roar of cool temperatures, rain, wind and waves for much of the Labor Day weekend.

The rough weather, which started Friday had an impact on several weekend events.

With wind and seas on the increase Friday, operators of S.S. Badger ferry that runs between Ludington and Mantiwoe, Wis. canceled its runs early in the day. Later in the day, the Beaver Island Boat Company canceled its 5:30 run from Charlevoix to Beaver Island because of the weather, and the ferries stayed docked all day Saturday, too.

The National Weather Service office in Gaylord received a report of wind gusts around 45 mph in Charlevoix around 10 a.m. on Friday.

Even newer principal, two new teachers await students St. Mary school Students at St. Mary School in Charlevoix will see an even newer new face in the principal's office when school starts Wednesday.

Earlier in the summer, school officials had named Pat Cleland, who had served as the school's interim principal for the last three months of last school year, to permanently take over the position. However, recently Cleland accepted a different position as the dean of students at Forrest Area Schools.

After being unexpectedly back on the hunt for a school principal, school officials have recently hired Charlevoix resident Nancy Philp to take over in the principal's position.

Philp comes to St. Mary School with a long background in education. She was born, raised, and lived in the Davison (east of Flint). She attended St. John Catholic School in Davison for eight years.

School officials described Philp as having "a deep, abiding faith in God and a sincere desire to serve."

Philp received a bachelor's and master's degree in education from the University of Michigan and has an additional 30 graduate hours in education.

She has been a substitute teacher at various schools, including St. Mary's, in the Charlevoix and Petoskey area and most recently taught business/office administration classes at North Central Michigan College in Petoskey. She has two children, Scott and Lindsay.

The school lists as its mission statement, "St. Mary School seeks to empower students to grow spiritually, academically, creatively, and physically so that they may experience, understand and live their responsibilities to God, family, community and self."

OPINIONS yours & ours

Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof, or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press, or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances.

Do you believe, or do you know?

During my brief Navy career more than 50 years ago, we had a way of explaining why morning formations or exercises did not turn out the way they were supposed to. We would tell one another that "there was always the 10 percent who didn't get the word." That some don't get the word still seems to be true, although the word is now closer to 20 percent.

It is possible to find 20 percent of Americans who will believe anything. Examples abound. Twenty percent of Americans believe that President Obama is a secret Muslim. Twenty percent of Americans believe that evolution is a lie. Twenty percent of Americans believe that global warming is a political and scientific hoax. Twenty percent believe that the World Trade Center was demolished by Americans to set off a global war against Islam. Twenty percent believe that the Federal Reserve Banking System is a Jewish conspiracy to control the world finances. Twenty percent believe that President Obama was born in Nigeria or at least some place outside the U.S. Twenty percent believe that something called the Trilateral Commission or the Illuminati are in control of the world's politics and media. Twenty percent believe that ardent environmentalists actually blew up the oil rig in the Gulf of Mexico to reinforce the need to stop off-shore drilling for oil. The list could be longer.

EAR TO THE GROUND

Roger Knutson

I am most troubled by the concern that in each of the above cases, it may be the same 20 percent who believe all those nonsensical ideas. They often can present themselves as an embattled minority fighting for their rights, and invoke the Civil Rights language of the push for racial equality to legitimize themselves. Some minorities deserve to be heard and defended, but not those who purposefully spread wild conspiracy notions.

After more than 30 years as an educator, I am more than a little disappointed by the number of people in the public eye that assist the spread and confirmation of such ideas. Dedication to the spread and reinforcement of misinformation is the opposite of education. There appears not to be a word to describe someone who attempts to spread misunderstanding as widely as possible. I would call them scoundrels, but that is not specific enough.

A large part of the communication problem is confusion about the difference between believing and knowing. Belief suggests that opinion is involved, while knowing usually means that there are some facts that apply. I can listen to someone who says they "believe" that the Federal Reserve System is controlled by international Jewish bankers, but if they say that they "know" that idea is the truth without evidence for it, they are probably unassailably ignorant and difficult to talk to. No evidence will change their mind.

There are a lot of dangerous lies or at least serious misrepresentations out there, and it is well to be wary. The speed with which some new notion for good or ill can be spread in today's electronic world is a large part of the problem.

Maybe the Internet is making us dumber.

MUSICIANS ENJOY PLAYING IN CHARLEVOIX

Editor:

I would like to thank the City of Charlevoix and Gary Stutzman for the wonderful experience Trombones Plus has had the past two years performing at your summer concert series. The gorgeous setting really helps Charlevoix stand apart from the other towns in the region. The presence of a highly skilled sound technician means we sound better in Charlevoix than anywhere else, too! These kind of events contribute to strong local economies and make Charlevoix all the more attractive for boaters and tourists. Congratulations to all of you!

THANKS TO ALL WHO SUPPORT JUNIOR GOLF PROGRAM

Editor:

The Charlevoix County Junior Golf program welcomed two recent fundraisers that will allow the 2011 summer season to continue with the traditional special activities that have set the program apart from those at other communities.

The recent "Hickory Hundred," involved Belvedere Golf Club professional Marty Joy who played 100 holes in one day using vintage hickory clubs. Supporters of golf for kids pledge money for each hole and it has become the major source of revenue for the program.

The 100 holes in a day event was started by longtime local pro and current Junior Golf Program board member, Steve Braun. Joy, for the second year continued the tradition and added the feature of using only clubs and dress from past eras. Marty's scores for the 100 holes were: 75, 78, 79, 77 and 38. He even paled the 100th par 5 hole.

The second fundraiser was a rather surprise as the Michigan PGA tournament, which took place at the Charlevoix Golf and Country Club in August, chose the local junior golf program as its recipient charity for the event.

I was elated with the success of the fundraisers. We can continue to do the unique program features that set our program apart from others. With a budget of about $18,000, we sent 10 juniors to the Ferris State golf camp and purchased about 20 season tickets to the Charlevoix Golf Club for deserving youngsters.

We also host a family night golf and picnic and close the season with a tournament and a pizza party and present each junior with a framed 5 x 7 color picture of themselves with their clubs.

Our board awards two book scholarships to seniors that have been strong role models in our program. We also award T-shirts and trophies to champions of two tournaments and from skill testing events. It adds up fast! Without Marty's fundraiser and support from the community, we would be hard pressed to offer the quality program we have had for the past 15 years. On behalf of the juniors, our 24 mentors, we thank the many friends who have helped us.

We appreciate the courses, Antrim Dells, Charlevoix Golf and Country Club, the Belvedere, and the Charlevoix Golf Club for their facilities offered free for our use. We also salute the many clubs, bags, carts, and balls given to our program. This generosity of Charlevoix area people who realize kids are important allows our program to attract youngsters. It speaks well for the community and the surrounding area.

The weather buoy located about half way between North Manitou Island and Wisconsin's Washington Island recorded the storm's peak between midnight and 6 a.m. Saturday when it recorded average wave heights of about 9 feet and sustained winds around 38 mph with gusts around 45 mph. During that same time frame the weather buoy in Little Traverse Bay recorded wind gusts near 50 mph and average wave height of nearly 15 feet.

Beaver Island Boat Company General Manager Margo Marks said the company's vessel's are capable of operating in seas that were present at the time, but she said it would have made for an "uncomfortable ride" for their passengers.

The rough weather also prompted organizers of the Charlevoix Yacht Club's annual Red Fox Regatta to postpone its Saturday sailing events.

The weather also appeared to keep the tall ship Lynx, a replica of an War of 1812-era schooner from making at least some of its scheduled sails during its weekend visit.

One event that seems to only have been minimally affected by the bad weather was the second annual Beaver Island Marathon.

Sharon Suffolk, registration coordinator with race operator Good Boy Events and wife of race director Ron Suffolk said despite the bad weather, she and Ron heard nothing but good comments about the race from its 250 participants.

She because of the cancellation of the last ferry run on lifts his bike over a tree that was blown across the trail in the high winds that lashed Northern Michigan on Friday and Saturday.

Friday, some athletes had to get to the island by air. She said both Island Airways and Fresh Air Aviation brought on extra crews to take participants to the island until about 9 p.m. Friday.

"It seemed like every time a looked up there was another plane coming in," Suffolk said.

She said the weather prompted organizers to push the start time back an hour to 9 a.m. in hopes that conditions might improve some. She said runners reported experiencing a wide array of conditions everything from sunshine to being drenched by rain, having sand blown in their face and feeling like they were being blown backwards.

"Everyone was still coming in with a smile on their face and we've heard nothing but good things about the race since," Suffolk said. "There was a great sense of camaraderie among the athletes. It will be a race for them to talk about around the coffee table for a long time."

SUMMER RECAP

If it seemed like you had the air conditioning running more and the sprinkler running a little less this summer, you are right.

The National Weather Service in Gaylord is reporting that this summer in Northern Michigan was much warmer and a little wetter than last year's.

According to the weather service, all five of its main reporting stations — Sault Ste. Marie, Houghton Lake, Alpena, Traverse City, and Gaylord reported one of their top warmest summers on record.

The two closest stations to Charlevoix — Traverse City and Gaylord — reported 53 days and 37 days respectively above 80 degrees for 2010 while each station reported 32 days and 20 days above 80 degrees for 2009. The average days above 80 degrees is 44 for Traverse City and 40 for Gaylord.

Traverse City reported 12.27 inches of precipitation, which is 3.07 inches above its average. Gaylord reported 10.13 inches of precipitation which is 0.36 inches above its average.

fit to be the city's new recreation director."

Straebel added: "Teresa has emphasized the importance of building upon the many successful recreational programs currently offered while identifying new programs for the future. Being a long-time resident she is ready to hit the ground running. We are very excited to have her on board."

Hart said she was "elated" when she was offered the position and that she has felt very welcome from her first day on the job.

"I look forward to working with the City of Charlevoix staff and members of the community," Hart said. "For a community this size, the recreational programs currently being offered are quite impressive. It is my hope that, with input and help from others, we can make these programs even better and accessible to multi-age groups of people."

The position that Hart filled had been vacant since June 2 when Straebel fired Ike Boss from the job. Boss had held the position for more than 35 years. At the time of the firing, Straebel said he fired Boss mainly because of recent job performance issues.

At its July 19 meeting the city councils approved a revised job description for the recreation director a Straebel's request. Straebel said the primary changes in the job description are that it requires the director to take more active role in the operation and management of the Mount McSaubia Recreation area during the winter months and have a greater focus on administration and community relations during the summer months.

Bonnie Staffel honored by alma mater

Ceramic artist among first four chosen

Bonnie (Betts) Staffel, pioneer studio potter in Charlevoix, was selected as one of four recipients of the inaugural Maumee (Ohio) High School distinguished Alumna Awards at a dinner ceremony Sept. 3 in the school's performing arts center. The other recipients were James Cannale, a Toledo business leader in the manufacturing industry; Dr. Douglas Smith, a noted Seattle physician specializing in limb amputation, reconstructive surgery, prosthetics and rehabilitation; and Dick Kasmaier, a successful Massachusetts businessman who, when attending Princeton University, received the 1951 Heisman Trophy. The four winners were chosen from 15 individuals who were nominated for the awards.

Staffel

In 1965, Staffel, and her husband, Bill Staffel, purchased property seven miles south of Charlevoix in which they started their pottery studio. Their gallery was in business for 20 years. The Staffels have been staunch supporters of the growth in the cultural opportunities of the area and often urged their artist friends to also open their studios in Charlevoix. Staffel has also been involved in many more art activities including winning awards, having one and two man shows in regional galleries. In 1985, Staffel changed her focus in to when she became program director in a North Carolina art/craft school. She was also involved in establishing a new art/craft school in Mississippi in 1990. Staffel has traveled nationally and abroad, and taught pottery in Denmark. She returned to Charlevoix in 1991 to again focus on her pottery.

For her 80th birthday, Staffel's family and friends opened a Bonnie Staffel Fund to support aspiring artists to help achieve their goal by awarding grants.

Staffel resides in Charlevoix with her daughter, Marell Staffel, granddaughter, Heather Harrod and great grandson, Jacob Harrod. Her ex-husband, Bill, also resides with this four generation family.

Women's Resource Center hires marketing director

Women's Resource Center of Northern Michigan recently hired Dena Sydow as its marketing and communications director.

Organization officials said Sydow will be responsible for creating and implementing the marketing and development plan which will help generate community awareness, in addition to financial and other support, for the organization and its programs. She will also function as a member of the agency's leadership team, providing input for overall agency management.

Center officials said Sydow brings with her nearly 20 years of experience in marketing, advertising, media sales and management acquired while working in the magazine, radio, telephone directory and newspaper industries. For the past 10 years, she held the position of marketing manager with Northern Michigan Review, a subsidiary of Schurz Communications, Inc., South Bend, Ind.

Women's Resource Center Executive Director, Jan Mancinelli said, "The addition of Dena to our leadership team and her extensive experience in media and marketing will help our agency grow awareness of the many services and programs we offer including: counseling; the Children's Learning Center; the Gold Mine Resale Shops; domestic violence, sexual assault and prevention programs; and also advocacy, counseling and refuge for survivors at our safe house. This will be instrumental as we continue to reach out to women and their families, as well as to current and future donors and volunteers."

Women's Resource Center of Northern Michigan is a non-profit organization, founded in 1977, serving Antrim, Charlevoix, Cheboygan, Emmet and Otsego counties. They are committed to equality, justice and the well-being of women and work to end violence through community engagement.

Don Gordon: June 28, 1923 - Aug. 23, 2010

Former aide and executive assistant to Governor William G. Milliken, Don Gordon, died at Hospice of Little Traverse Bay's Hiland Cottage in Petoskey Aug. 23, 2010, of kidney cancer. He was 87.

Gordon, who jokingly said he had a hard time keeping a job, had a multifaceted career inside government and in the private sector.

After serving in the Naval Air Corps as a pilot, Gordon completed his journalism degree at MSU in 1948 and was hired as a managing editor of the Leelanau Enterprise. Gordon eventually became the editor and co-publisher of the paper from 1951-61.

He took a leave of absence from the paper from 1957-58 to serve as administrative assistant to Congressman Robert P. Griffin in Washington, D.C. The taste of politics took hold and Gordon successfully ran for the Michigan House of Representatives, representing Charlevoix, Antrim, Leelanau and Benzie counties from 1963-64.

It was during his tenure as a representative that he was tapped by then-

Gov. Romney to spearhead the passage of two pieces of landmark legislation: the Minimum Wage Act and the Construction Safety Act.

Gordon served as administrative assistant to Lt. Governor William Milliken (1964-69) and became his executive officer (a position now referred to as chief of staff) from 1969-72. It was during this tenure that he was dubbed by the press, "the alter ego of William G. Milliken."

Upon learning of Gordon's death, Milliken issued the following statement: "Don Gordon was a wonderful, thoughtful and kind man — and my dear friend over many years. In his public life he was a great servant of the people. He had a keen mind, a delightful sense of humor, a deep understanding of life in his time. I shall miss him greatly."

Gordon also was a member of the Michigan Civil Service Commission, 1972-73; vice-president of Hall/Gordon, 1974-75; deputy director of the Michigan Department of Agriculture, 1975-76; founding partner and lobbyist for Karoub Associates, 1977-86; partner, Anderson-Gordon Associates, a lobbying, advertising and public relations firm in Lansing and Traverse City, 1984-96.

Gordon, during his time as a lobbyist, represented Blue Cross Blue Shield, Delta Dental, Fraternal Order of Police, Northwestern Michigan College, Glen's, Olsson's, Mid-Michigan Community College, Michigan Speech and Hearing Association and others.

He was a man who used his ability with words to inform, inspire, persuade, negotiate and tell a story.

The last few years, Gordon and his spouse divided their time between Charlevoix and Phoenix, Ariz.

He was preceded in death by his son Guy, brothers, Fay and Murray.

He is survived by his spouse Suzanne, daughters Linda Kalber (Sacramento, Calif.), Trudy Carpenter (Northport), sister Lillian Synder (Wheaton, Ill.), brothers Raymond (Cedar Springs), Murray (Grand Rapids), many grandchildren and great grandchildren and his beloved dog Piper.

At his request there will be no memorial service.

Donations in his memory may be made to Hospice of Little Traverse Bay in Petoskey.

Unwanted medication drop-off scheduled

BOYNE CITY — The tip of the Mitt Watershed Council will host a pharmaceutical collection event from 9 a.m.-2 p.m. on Saturday, Sept. 11, at the Charlevoix County Road Commission building, located at 1251 Boyne Ave. (M-75) in Boyne City.

Those with unused and unneeded prescription and over-the-counter drugs are encouraged to drop them off for safe disposal.

Many studies in the last 10 years have detected pharmaceutical compounds in treated wastewater effluent, rivers, lakes, and ground water. According to the U.S. Geological Survey, more than 80 percent of waterways tested in the United States show traces of common medications such as acetaminophen, hormones, blood pressure medicine, cocaine, and antibiotics.

The two main sources of pharmaceuticals in the environment are excretion and disposal. Many people flush their unused medicines down the toilet or sink. Sewage treatment plants are not designed to treat all the substances contained in medications. Therefore, most of these chemicals pass through the wastewater treatment facility (or they are processed through septic systems) and accumulate in rivers, lakes, ground water, and aquatic organisms. Even drugs thrown in the trash can eventually leach into the landfill and wind up in our ground water.

Improper disposal or storage of unwanted medicines is also a public safety issue. Keeping medicines around the home can lead to possible poisoning from accidental ingestion, particularly among young children and pets, or illegal use or theft. Properly getting rid of unused medicines reduces the risk that prescriptions will be mishandled and end up on the street.

Organizers request that residents bringing medications to the drop off keep them in the original container for easy identification, but erase or black out all personal information from the prescription bottles. Non-prescription, over-the-counter medications, prescription medications, and even pet medications will be accepted.

Organizers remind residents that it is illegal to transport controlled substances if the prescription is not in your name. Contact the Charlevoix County Sheriff's office at (231) 547-4461 to notify them if you will be transporting controlled substances for disposal that are not prescribed to you. For a list of controlled substances, visit www.watershedcouncil.org.

Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council recently received a $5,900 grant from the Charlevoix County Community Foundation for the project.

For more about the event, visit www.watershedcouncil.org/events or call (231) 347-1181.

Road crews trying to beat Mother Nature

Improvement projects slated for several area roads

DAVID HOPKINS AND RYAN BENTLEY
NEWS-REVIEW STAFF WRITERS

Klooster Road in Marion Township will be receiving a new surface and be widened following Labor Day to improve travel through the area.

The project, which will cover a 1.34 mile stretch of Klooster Road from Black Road to South Barnard Road, will take three to four weeks to complete and will create minor delays for motorists traveling through the area.

The road is being repaired because the edges are crumbling as a result of erosion along the shoulder. The road will also be widened from 20 feet to 22 feet.

"We will be doing a wedge and overlay and be widening the road to fix the edges," said Mark Wagner, project manager for Rieth-Riley Road Construction.

A wedge and overlay is a construction technique that consists of laying down a wedge of asphalt on the road which is thicker along the edge than along the center line. This is done to make the edges of the road stronger, level the road properly for drainage and reduce the potential for erosion.

The construction will cost $148,027.65 to complete, with funding coming from a road improvement millage in Marion Township.

The work will begin the week after Labor Day and will be completed before the end of the month.

Through traffic will be rerouted around the road, but travel by residents along the road will be controlled by a flag person, allowing access to homes.

TOWNLINER ROAD

A road re-paving project on Townline Road in Hayes Township is starting earlier than expected to beat fall weather.

The 0.61 mile stretch of Townline Road, from U.S. 31 to Martinchek Road, is under construction so crews can beat the commonly rainy fall weather and move on to complete other summer projects by early October.

"I get a little concerned about road projects that start late in the year. I've seen it rain nearly every day in October, but I think all the projects will be done early enough in the season to beat most of the bad weather," said Pat Harmon, manager of the Charlevoix County Road Commission.

Rieth-Riley Road Construction of Petoskey, the contract holder for the project, initially intended to start the project after Labor Day, which is typically the end of the summer, tourist season, but because of other projects in the area they needed to get started early to make sure all summer projects get completed before bad weather strikes.

The stretch of road being fixed had many potholes and was cracked from years of Michigan winters.

The construction will cost $113,749.50 to complete, with funding coming from a road improvement millage in Hayes Township.

The project is under way and will be completed in less than two weeks.

Through traffic will be rerouted around the road, but travel by residents along the road will be controlled by a flag person, allowing access to homes.

NORTH SHORE DRIVE

Road construction will start on North Shore Drive in Melrose Township following Labor Day to repair an eroding stretch of the road.

The project is a 0.64 mile stretch of road on the north side of Walloon Lake and extends from M-75 to 4th Street on North Shore Drive.

The road, which was paved many years ago, is cracked and has potholes, making the road rough for vehicle travel.

Crews will be paving the road, widening it from 20 feet to 22 feet, and a 1,400 foot segment of the road is being raised to fix some drainage problems. The project will cost $194,507.50 to complete, with funding coming from a road improvement millage in Melrose Township.

Construction was delayed until after the holiday so there would be less disruption of traffic on the road.

Work is expected begin on Sept. 7 or 8 and will take three to four weeks to complete.

Through traffic will be rerouted around the stretch of road, but travel by residents along the road will be controlled by a flag person, allowing access to homes.

U.S. 131 (PETOSKEY)

Road resurfacing and sidewalk repairs are slated to begin along U.S. 131 on Petoskey's south side soon after Labor Day.

The $440,000 Michigan Department of Transportation project will involve the stretch of U.S. 131 between U.S. 31 and Lears Road.

Upgrades to sidewalk ramps along the highway were expected to take place starting Tuesday, Sept. 7, MDOT delivery engineer Bill

Wahl said. Ramps located at about four intersections will be upgraded to comply with the Americans with Disabilities Act. Periodic lane closures will be needed during daytime hours as this work proceeds, but two-way traffic will be maintained.

"Then, we'll be starting the following week on (Monday, Sept. 13) with the actual resurfacing," Wahl said. "The actual resurfacing work is going to take place at night."

Crews will be milling the highway's existing surface and installing a new layer of pavement. This work will take place during the hours of 8 p.m.-6 a.m.

While crews are at work, two-way traffic will be maintained by way of traffic shifts. All travel lanes are required to be open during non-work hours in the project's resurfacing phase.

"The plan is to finish up either the night of (Sept. 16) or the night of (Sept. 17), weather-dependent," Wahl said.

Rieth-Riley Construction Co., an Indiana-based paving contractor with an office in Petoskey, will handle the U.S. 131 work for MDOT.

In recent weeks, another contractor has been performing a sewer upgrade project along the same stretch of U.S. 131. The vast majority of sewer-related work is finished, Petoskey Department of Public Works director Mike Robbins said.

Though the official county figures may take a few weeks to tally, officials say the Emmet-Charlevoix County Fair had a banner year for attendance.

Emmet-Charlevoix County Fair manager Agnes Shaw said about 25,000 people attended the week-long event, based on the $3 per head entry fees and attendance at grand stand shows.

"The weather blessed us," Shaw said, noting sunny skies and summer temperatures each day.

Last year, heavy rains threatened to close down rides and depressed attendance during key money-making days. Shaw said this year's attendance is likely a more than a 20 percent increase from 2009.

Kicking off the large turnout numbers was a maximum capacity "Michigan Monster Truck Shootout" show in the grand stand, which alone brought in about 3,000 people. It was the first time monster trucks were brought to the county fair.

"We felt bad we had to turn some people away, but (fair organizers) never thought there would be that many people who came out," Shaw said.

Another show featuring Lippizan stallions brought in 500 people for both its performances.

Shaw said an advertising blitz, combined with 20,000 copies of "Fair Time" magazine listing the schedule and information about the fair helped to bring in both the community and tourists.

"It doesn't hurt that we have the most beautiful fair grounds in the state," Shaw added.

AUCTION SALES BOOM

In addition to attendance at the fair, the annual market livestock auction saw plenty of growth.

Steer sales were up $20,000 from 2009. Eighteen steers were auctioned during this year's events bringing in about $89,000. The number represents a 50 percent increase in steers sold compared to the year sold in 2009.

"When you're bidding $2 to $3 per pound — that adds up," Shaw said.

Auction coordinators said the event also had a record attendance.

IN THE BLACK

Shaw said the big numbers bode well for the fair, since it functions as an independent department from Emmet County.

"I tell people I have to do all my business in about two weeks," Shaw said.

The self-funded operation, also gets funding from a Charlevoix County stipend of $15,000 and in-kind services from Emmet County, for liability insurance, logistical support such as civil council and computers.

Shaw said the up-tick in attendance and sales means this year's fair will stay in the black. That's good news for next year's fair, she said.

The Emmet-Charlevoix County Fair Board will know the official counts for attendance and sales when it meets in late September.

That someone is Carla Winteringham of Rapid City.

"All candidates were just

phenomenal. They were all highly qualified," superintendent Susan Wood said, adding that Winteringham was chosen because she most closely fit the candidate profile established by the interviewing committee.

Winteringham has a master of arts degree in educational leadership and a master's degree in teaching.

She also has experience in special and general education. The 29-year-old enjoys running, snowshoeing and being active.

'Fit 4 Life' group making progress

Members of an experimental weight loss group in Charlevoix are making significant progress toward their health improvement goals.

The Fit 4 Life group meets each Wednesday at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

They are now halfway through their six month journey to better health.

Since June, the group of eight has lost a combined total of 125 pounds, and lowered their average body mass index by two whole points.

"I feel that we have a good group here," said Amanda Evans, a registered dietitian. "They really balance each other out. While some have lost a significant amount of weight, others have lowered their cholesterol or blood pressure. Some have even gotten off their medications."

The group is led by Evans, nurse Kathy Jacobsen, physical therapist Shannon Pemberton, and social worker Kris Hocksema. The four women combine their specialties to help the group achieve its goals.

The program focuses on long-term solutions instead of short term fixes.

Each week, the group learns new ways to incorporate new diet strategies and exercise into their active lifestyles.

Already, the group has attended a salsa dance class, visited a local grocery store to learn about food labels, and discovered simple exercises they can work on at home.

Three participants also ran a 5k race.

Later this month, the group will have dinner together at a local restaurant to discuss food obstacles when dining out.

"We've also exchanged healthy and non-healthy recipes. With the non-healthy recipes, we had our participants turn them into healthier versions," Jacobsen explained.

Jacobsen added that some of the participants have incorporated many new foods into their diets.

"One participant says she smiles now when she opens her fridge as it now looks so much more colorful and healthy," Jacobsen said. "They are a much more confident group."

Group leaders hope participants will continue to make small changes one week at a time, thus setting them up for even more success, long after they complete the program in November.

"It has been exciting to see participants' attitudes toward exercise and healthy lifestyle choices change week to week," Pemberton said. "Several people have had the 'aha' moment that has changed their life and you can see the momentum building. Going back to the old mindset isn't even a possibility."

Plans are in the works for a second Fit 4 Life group that would begin in January of 2011. Those interested can call Kathy Jacobsen at (231) 547-8906.

Rayders' late goal not enough to win

CHARLEVOIX — The Elks grabbed a 2-0 halftime lead and held on to take a Lake Michigan Conference match from the Rayders on Thursday.

It was the league opener for the defending conference champion Rayders, who are 3-2 overall.

"They definitely were beating us to the 50-50 balls early on," Charlevoix coach Josh Block said. "Elk Rapids is always good and they always play quick soccer and today we didn't. They had a much faster sense of urgency than we did to start the game off.

"We let them do what they're good at, and they won because of it. Next time we play them, we're going to work a little harder to take their advantage away."

Boog Nitchman scored Charlevoix's goal off a Ben Myers assist.

"We're seeing a lot of improvement out of him," Block said. "He's getting more comfortable and more confident in the net. He's been better every game."

The loss may, in fact, work in the Rayders' favor in the long run, Block said.

"I'm confident that we're getting to where we need to be," he said. "This'll help us. We'll get there. We got beat for a reason tonight and I think next time we play them we'll have a different result, and we'll probably see these guys again in the (state tournament)."

FOOTBALL

Rayders notch season's first gridiron victory

MAPLE CITY — It was hardly a work of art, but the Rayders will happily take it.

Middle linebacker Gunnar Zipp scooped up a fumble and returned it 45 yards for a touchdown to break a 7-7 tie Thursday as the Rayders won their first game of the season.

"When they were together as JV's, they didn't win a ball game," Charlevoix coach Don Jess said of his players. "This was a huge monkey off their backs. The look on the seniors' faces, it was awesome."

Zipp, a 6-foot-2, 212-pound senior, keyed a strong defensive effort as Charlevoix bounced back from a 13-6 season-opening loss to St. Ignace. The Rayders are 1-1 with the Lake Michigan Conference opener at Harbor

Spring, 1-1, on Friday, Sept. 10.

"I knew they were physical, but we played a real physical game too," Jess said. "Our offense struggled in the second half. We didn't run the ball like we'd like to, but our defense played really well."

Glen Lake's lone TD came on an interception return, and the Rayders held the Lakers to a field goal when they had a first down at the Charlevoix 5-yard line in the third quarter.

Zipp

Charlevoix quarterback Andrew Potter tossed two TD passes to Dylan Putman, one of 10 yards, the other covering 15.

Zipp finished with 10 tackles, while Putman had eight and John Boss made an interception.

River Gauthier, a 5-7, 145-pound junior defensive tackle, made the big hit that jarred the ball loose on Zipp's fumble return for a TD, which came in the second quarter.

Jess also lauded the play of defensive end Josh Hogan.

"He did a great job continually putting pressure on their quarterback, containing their quarterback," Jess said. "He just did a great job at defensive end."

CROSS COUNTRY

Buday leads Rayders to third place in Ogemaw

WEST BRANCH — Charlevoix's Eric Buday placed first in 17 minutes, 14.74 seconds Thursday, leading the Rayder boys to a third-place finish in the Dwayne Rau Memorial Cross Country Invitational at Ogemaw Heights High School.

Both the Rayder boys and girls finished third in their respective 10-team fields. Eleven Rayders, five boys and six girls, earned medals.

Cadillac won the boys' portion of the event with 48 points, followed by Traverse City Central, 61; the Rayders, 72; Alpena, 84; Rudyard, 150; Ogemaw Heights, 196; Roscommon, 203; Saginaw Valley Lutheran, 205; Rogers City, 215; and Gladwin, 282.

Alpena won the girls' meet with 26 points, followed by Cadillac, 58; the Rayders, 72; Saginaw Valley Lutheran, 112; Rudyard, 119; Ogemaw Heights, 187; Roscommon, 197; Gladwin, 205; Rogers City, 234; and Hale, 272.

Charlevoix's Molly Jeak-le placed third in the girls' race in 21:25.81, while teammate Olivia Certa was fifth in 21:47.42. Samara Donajkowski of Alpena won in 20:26.37.

Charlevoix's Andrew Plude placed ninth in the boys' race in 18:23.32.

Also for the Rayder boys, Jack Buday was 15th, Vinny Von Lau was 22nd, and Alex Gooch placed 24th. For the Charlevoix girls, Hilary Way was 13th, Annie Dipert was 18th, Anna Voci placed 36th, and Lexi Barnes was 40th.

For those who wish they could glide across the dance floor with a beauty and grace that would turn heads in envious awe, Two Left Feet Dance Instruction has opened in Charlevoix and is accepting new students.

Charlevoix residents Dan and Tabitha Soulier are a husband and wife team with three years of instructional experience in couples dancing who say the most important aspect of dance is to have fun.

Three years later at the ceremony where he received his fourth black belt the Souliers performed a dance demonstration for the martial arts masters present.

Fluidity of motion is the consistent element in both arts, Dan explained.

The Souliers, who were married at the Rustic Ballroom in Walloon Lake, call the school "Two Left Feet" because it took Dan three lessons to catch on to a basic swing step.

He said he finally asked his instructor to show him something technical and he was able to call on his martial arts training to master the steps.

"We learned to dance in Northwestern Michigan and wish to give our experience back to the community," Dan said.

Lessons take place at Northwest Academy from 6-7:30 p.m. on Wednesdays. Two Left Feet requires a fee of $5 per person per lesson.

"I promised my dance instructor Larry Sieradski to give inexpensive lessons and to teach it the way he did. I'd rather have 100 people having fun at $5 a lesson than one or two at $35," Dan said.

New year, new hope

HIGHER ENROLLMENT, STIMULUS MONEY COULD KEEP FURTHER CUTS AT BAY

STEVE ZUCKER
COURIER EDITOR

After being forced into $1.1 million in deep and difficult staffing cuts in May, Charlevoix school officials are hoping that better-than-expected enrollment numbers and federal stimulus money will help buoy the district's budget — at least for the first school year.

Charlevoix Public Schools Superintendent Chet Janik told the district's school board at its regular monthly meeting Monday that after the first few days of school, the district's enrollment is unofficially at 1,076 students. That 26 students more than what the number district officials used in calculating its budget for the 2010-11 school year as passed in late June.

Janik also told the board that by week's end he expects to hear from state officials how much of another infusion of federal stimulus money the district will receive. He said the amount could range from $73,000 to $202,000.

Janik said in a best case scenario — the enrollment numbers holding and the highest stimulus payment — the district could break even for the year. And that would eliminate the need for further cuts — at least for this school year.

Janik reminded the board that there are still a lot of "ifs" that must fall into place for that to happen.

One of those "ifs" is the official student count day which will take place on Wednesday, Sept. 29.

Even after making the cuts at the end of the last school year, the district still had to dip about $1 million into its savings (fund balance) and the budget for this school year was still calling for the district to spend $256,000 more than it takes in.

The board also heard a report from a representative from its auditing firm, Angie Roloff. Roloff reported that the district's books are in good order from an accounting standpoint, but warned that its fund balance of $580,000 (about 5 percent of its annual expenses) is quite low. She noted that state law doesn't allow a school board to pass a budget that expends all of its savings and "deficit spend." She also reminded the board that it also has about $1 million in accumulated sick time liability that it will eventually have to pay out as teachers retire or leave the district.

One measure the board approved Monday will help put a little more back into the district's beleaguered budget. The board unanimously approved an agreement with the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District to provide financial and administrative services for the district.

Janik explained under the agreement, the intermediate school district will hire a person whose sole responsibility will be to handle the business manager's job function for the district. The position has been vacant since the district's previous business manager, Shawn Biddle, left in late August to take a similar position in Monroe.

Janik said the district had posted the job opening and 13 people submitted applications. He said Char-Em officials will now use that list of applicants and work with school officials to hire a person for the position.

Janik said by using the contract with Char-Em to fill the position, the district will save about $35,000 per year.

MIDDLE SCHOOL MATTERS

When giving his update to the board Monday, newly-hired Charlevoix Middle School Principal Travis Garrett said a new start-of-day student arrival policy has been working well to improve student supervision, but ruffled a few feathers in the first few

CORRECTION

Because of an editor's mistake, a story appearing on page 3 of the Sept. 8 edition of the Charlevoix Courier about new staff members at St. Mary School contained an error. It was the Rev. all possibilities she decided to resign.

Booze

EAST JORDAN — East Jordan City Council member, Jane Booze, resigned from her seat at the city council meeting at City Hall on Tuesday, Sept. 7.

After discussion on the issues of the night, Booze used her closing remarks to the council as a stage to read a prepared resignation statement, detailing her reasons for resigning from her post.

"Like so many other people in this economy, my husband and I have been struggling to make ends meet," Booze said.

Booze went on to explain she and her husband were forced to sell their home within East Jordan city limits and purchase a "fixer upper" in the country. The move puts Booze outside of city limits and makes her ineligible to hold a seat as a city commissioner.

Booze searched several options to allow her to stay on the council, but after exhausting she explained that she was proud to have served the city and thanked everyone who supported her in her job as she worked to look out for what was in the best interest for the people of East Jordan.

"I am profoundly grateful to everyone who voted for me and supported me," Booze said.

The other board members, the mayor and city administrator expressed their regret for her decision and their gratitude for having served with her.

"You have brought a great amount of ... I can't think of a better word than 'finesse' to the commission and I'm proud to have served with you," said council member Paul Timmons.

The council voted whether to accept Booze's resignation or not and all members responded with, "aye, but with regret." Her resignation was accepted unanimously.

Booze has been serving on the East Jordan City Council since November of 2009. The board will now work to fill the vacant seat.

"The position will be advertised, we will accept applications and then they will go to the appointment committee," said Susan Grutsch, East Jordan city treasurer.

Other agenda issues at the meeting included a vote to award a contract to Tri County Excavating of Harbor Springs for the amount of $42,213 for installing the water line in the new Fire/EMS facility, which passed unanimously, and a vote for a lease extension for the Charlevoix County Commission on Aging, which passed unanimously.

Police arrest second suspect in home invasion

STEVE ZUCKER
COURIER EDITOR

CHARLEVOIX — Police have arrested the person they believe was the second intruder who broke into a home in a tribal housing development last month and assaulted the elderly occupants of the home.

Charlevoix County Sheriff's deputies took Elwood Leroy Stainbrook, 47, of East Jordan into custody on Wednesday. However, Charlevoix County Chief Assistant Prosecutor Shaynee Fanara said on Thursday as local authorities were preparing to authorize state charges against the man, the determination was made that the case would have to be handled by tribal and/or federal authorities.

That's because Stainbrook is a member of the Grand Traverse Band of Ottawa and Chippewa Indians and the incident took place in a tribal housing complex on property that is "held in trust" by the tribe.

Tribal prosecutor Matthew Feil said late Thursday he authorized six charges against Stainbrook including three counts of using a firearm in the commission of a felony, one count of first degree home invasion and two counts of assault with a dangerous weapon.

He was arraigned on the charges in tribal court and was denied bond. He remains lodged in the Charlevoix County Jail. He is scheduled for a pretrial conference in tribal court on Sept. 20.

Although in state court the most serious of the charges would carry a maximum penalty of up to 20 years in prison, in the tribal court system, all of the charges carry a maximum penalty of up to one year. The case could be transferred to federal court if the U.S. Attorney's office in Grand Rapids chose to issue federal charges, Feil said.

The other man implicated

in the case, Greg William Williams, 18, of East Jordan is facing charges of first degree home invasion, using a firearm in the commission of a felony and resisting and obstructing police under state law because he is not a member of the tribe.

Williams was bound over to circuit court on the charges after he waived his preliminary examination on the charges Thursday in Charlevoix County's 90th District Court. Williams remains lodged at the Charlevoix County Jail in lieu of a $100,000 bond. He is scheduled to appear for an arraignment in circuit court on Sept. 24.

The case centers around an incident that took place on Aug. 22 at a home on Wa Ba Noong Road, which is in a Grand Traverse Bands of Ottawa and Chippewa Indians housing development.

Authorities said Greg Williams' great-grandfather, Keith Williams, 73, reported that shortly after midnight he had heard some unusual scratching outside the home. Hearing the noise, he told police he grabbed his handgun and cocked it. Keith Williams told police that a short time later a masked man burst into his bedroom and the gun discharged with the bullet going into the wall. Keith Williams told police the masked man then beat him up, according to court documents.

Williams' great aunt and great uncle Cynthia and Keith Hanson, told police around the same time they were awakened by a different masked intruder who was holding a long gun and told them to stay in bed or he would kill them.

Keith Hanson, 65, told police he was able to determine that one of the intruders was Greg Williams because he was not wearing a mask at one point. Hanson told police both intruders then attacked him causing injuries.

Authorities said the victims reported that after the assaults, both intruders fled the scene.

Police said the injuries to both Keith Hanson and Keith Williams were serious enough require treatment at the hospital. Police reported that the house "had blood all over from the attacks" when they arrived.

BOYNE CITY — Pam Graves, a veterinarian at Jensen's Animal Hospital in Petoskey, jokes that when she has too many pets in her care, there's a problem.

Currently, Graves has 40 pets in her care at her farm near Boyne City, including horses, rabbits, cats, dogs and birds.

Many of those animals were unwanted, ill or injured.

But she is also caring for some animals through her pet sanctuary, Second Chance Ranch and Rescue. The nonprofit, which Graves founded back in January with six other animal lovers, gives unwanted or sick animals a chance at a better life.

Now, nine months later, Graves is at her capacity, and she's desperately trying to find loving homes for some of these rescued animals.

"I really think that in big part, more animals are being neglected and given up because of the economy," Graves explained. "I think often times, people don't realize of the huge financial responsibility that comes with owning a pet."

Graves currently has several rescued animals that need new homes, including three horses, three-week old kittens and an elderly shepherd mix, named Princess.

"Princess is severely diabetic with cataracts in both eyes," Graves explained. "Unfortunately, these were issues that could have been treated if the owner had taken care of them from the beginning. She's such a sweet dog."

Graves said she takes pet ownership very seriously. She wants pet owners and those thinking about getting a new pet to really consider the financial obligations.

As a veterinarian, she knows vet care can be costly. The average price tag for a medical emergency with a pet is $500.

On top of that, there are regular expenses such as food, routine vet care, and grooming.

"The biggest thing pet owners should realize is that they need to be proactive," Graves said. "Plan ahead and know your financial and emotional limit. Set aside some money in savings each month in case you have a pet care emergency."

Currently, Graves and the other founders of Second Chance Ranch and Rescue care for the animals with their own money. They expect to receive their official nonprofit status by the end of the year.

"I'm happy to take in these animals because the need has become so great, but I'm at my personal limit," Graves said. "Pet owners need to understand the great financial obligations associated with being a pet owner. If you can't afford the vet, you can't afford the pet."

Back to the list, Back on the road again

It's back to the bucket list for this columnist. Time again to check off another activity I've dreamt about but never put into action. Next stop Charlotte, N.C. to jump in as an extra for a wonderful little movie. Wake up call 5:30 a.m. and don't be late. Wardrobe is ready and yes we get craft services. That's Hollywood talk for food. For those of you reading this column and who know me personally, you can only imagine the adrenaline flowing as time nears. My only hope is that I typed all the information correctly while ordering my tickets and arrive in some proximity of the Carolinas or at least south of the Ohio border.

"An extra?" you say. "But you don't have any lines and you get up at 5 a.m. and return home by 7 p.m. Where is the glamour?" Ah, but it's not about the glamour, it's the behind the scenes putting places and people together hoping the script truly reflects the characters and brings ink on paper to life. The camera crew, lighting, site locations, wardrobe and makeup are just part of the fun — I mean hard work. An unbelievable amount that can be laborious and boring at times, but in the end the product is what makes the journey so sweet.

A LOOK AT LIFE

Some Charlevoix residents were able to experience some of this as they were swept up in the flurry of filming Frontier Boys. For an extra, who may only see the cutting room floor, I am still excited to be a part of the artistic endeavor. It's a far cry from my stint as Ado Annie in Oklahoma circa 1967 but just as much fun. I'm going to try really hard to have myself to avoid numerous retakes. The only out takes on my part will be for lunch. Or is that take out?

Through these adventures I occasionally embark upon, I want to encourage others to try something new in your own life. Gentle reminders that it's OK to set goals, make lists and discover what you are capable of. You might surprise yourself. Life is too short to have regrets about things you wanted to do but never attempted. So if bungee jumping isn't your thing, maybe it's a day trip where you will share a meal in a different venue and try a food item that is not your usual fare. Maybe it's learning a language or playing new tunes on the piano your kids took lessons on. Think of the toddler who sees so many things for the first time and how excited they become about life and yearn for more. Taking part in something new is likened to the toddler's excitement.

Sometimes we are faced with trying out different things not out of choice but because our life situation forces us to do so. Moving is not always easy and with it means going out of your comfort zone. Change can be a good thing and the more we stretch ourselves, our confidence increases, our self esteem glistens and the journey may have been part of the plan all along.

It's important to support individuals who are taking chances when they venture into new territory. It might be a new business in town, a recently-hired person at your work, or supporting someone making changes in their personal lifestyle. Maybe you've decided you finally have time to volunteer. Select something you like but not one that you know everything about already. Come on, now and stretch. Choices and changes are challenging but extremely fulfilling. It's living life and experiencing it that makes us feel a sense of worth and realize there is a purpose we have on earth. My parting poem before venturing south is this: "If you choose to make a list of things to do for pleasure, abstain from all your household tasks, add something you can treasure."

PLATFORM TENNIS GREAT BIKING ALTERNATIVE IN WINTER

Editor:

The Charlevoix area is blessed with plenty of beautiful hike. What we need now are two lighted platform tennis courts with heated decks. Platform tennis is a wonderful, active and exciting winter sport. It can be enjoyed by players from 10 to 80 and maybe even longer.

If located at the Mount McSaubia Ski Area the warming hut and concession stand could be used by the players. Recreation staff would be on hand to take reservations and supervise usage.

Other great locations would be Depot Beach and Ferry Beach.

At approximately $50,000 per court (much less if "used" courts were purchased), this addition to the winter sports scene in the Charlevoix Area would be much less expensive than a bike trail from Charlevoix to Boyne City. And it would be available for use when the bike trail wouldn't be.

CIRCLE OF ARTS PROGRAM IS APPRECIATED

Editor:

I have a day care here in Charlevoix and I am always looking for ways to teach new things to the kids — especially in the summer months with the older children not in school. The Charlevoix Circle of Arts hosted an art class with two very talented ladies, Alla Johnson and Jeanie Putman, teaching art concepts. Unfortunately, I did not learn of it until later in the summer, but when I did, I sent several of my kids to it. They enjoyed it very much. They learned a lot and came home with very nice pieces of art.

These ladies did not ask for pay, yet they spent two precious hours teaching children how to create art. I want to say thank you to them and the Circle of Arts for giving their time and energy to the community. What a blessing!

Sincerely,
Debbie Eisenmann

Editor:

On Aug. 13, 2010, I buried my mother, Marge Mayville in St. Mary's Cemetery. This excruciatingly painful event was greatly mitigated by the actions of an extraordinary man. The cemetery sexton, Bob McGhee, went far beyond his normal duties and responsibilities. He demonstrated more than professionalism — he showed the burial party compassion, kindness, thoughtfulness, and consideration. The family and friends of Marge Mayville truly appreciate and are grateful for Mr. McGhee's efforts.

The people of Charlevoix are indeed fortunate to have such a compassionate professional at their disposal in the hour of greatest need.

Association counts more boats on Lake Charlevoix

Human muscles are competing nicely with internal combustion engines for small boat users on Lake Charlevoix and Round Lake.

That's the finding of the Lake Charlevoix Association's annual boat census for Lake Charlevoix and Round Lake, conducted on Saturday, Aug. 7.

During the census, counters tallied 756 kayaks and canoes as well as more than 500 rowed boats on the lakes compared with 802 personal water craft. Overall, the numbers of boats without motors comprised about half of all the 5,458 vessels counted, the association reported.

The boats counted by association volunteers ranged from 100-foot-long power boats to kayaks and personal water craft. The total count was up 423 or 8 percent from the 5,023 counted in 2009, but association officials noted that the counters followed a new protocol for counting tenders and other small sailing craft. That means that some boat categories are not strictly comparable with data the association has been collecting since 1998.

Sam Williamson, an association director who organized this year's count, said the new methodology was needed to clear up some ambiguities that counters from previous years had noted.

Previously some counters had treated tenders as rowed boats while others had put them in a category of power boats less than 26-feet long. This year they were tallied in a separate category and more emphasis was placed on counting a variety of other craft such as wind surfers that were beached away from the shoreline.

"The new procedures are easier for our counters," Williamson said, "and will give us even more accurate detailed comparisons for future years," Williamson said.

The boat data are shared with then U.S. Coast Guard and the Charlevoix County Sheriff's office marine patrol as well as municipal officials to help them understand the patterns of lake use and how they may be shifting.

The count showed 662 power boats, 26 feet and longer, compared to last year's 681. Smaller power boats, the largest category in the count, totaled 1,858, down from 1,875 last year.

The census found 237 tenders, a quarter of them in Round Lake alone. The personal water craft category showed a rise to 802 compared with 725 a year ago.

The total of 760 sailboats of all sizes was up from 656 last year. It included 278 "sit or stand on top" boats such as windsurfers, Sailfish and other sail boards, as well as 482 others that ranged up to 70 feet long.

Williamson said he welcomed the help provided this days of school.

Garrett said he should have communicated better with parents before school started about a policy under which student access to the building is limited or at least more closely monitored in the minutes prior to school starting each day.

Garrett explained to the board, and in a letter that he recently sent home to parents, that under the new policy, when students are dropped off each day — either by bus or by their parents — they, for the most part will be expected to remain outside the building or in supervised areas of the building until the first bell rings at 7:52 a.m. For students who ride the bus, that's about 12 minutes most days.

He said students will still be able to go in to the cafeteria for breakfast, starting at 7:30 a.m. and students and parents will still be able to make before-school-day visits with teachers or office staff.

Garrett said the new policy requires fifth and sixth grade students to wait on one side of the building with seventh and eighth graders on the other side. He said teaching staff have been given a rotating bus duty schedule under which he and three teachers will supervise students either outside the building or inside in the gym during inclement weather in the minutes prior to the first bell each day.

Previously, students were allowed to wander the school mostly unsupervised in 20 or so minutes before school starts, Garrett said.

In his letter to parents, Garrett writes, "These changes were made to increase proactive supervision among students during unstructured times. This structure will eliminate students wandering the halls in the morning and going into the gym and locker rooms, etc. This will also prevent students in fifth and sixth grade from mixing with seventh and eighth graders. As a result, we are going to eliminate as much of the bullying and mischief some students can get into when unsupervised. Proactive prevention as opposed to punitive response is the main focus."

Garrett aside from the some misunderstanding among parents, the changes have been well received by staff and students.

In fact two staff members, Cindy Whitley and Brian Hawkins lauded Garrett for the changes he's made and the positive atmosphere at the school in the first week of the school year.

COACHING APPOINTMENTS

The board also unanimously approved the following coaching appointments for this school year:

— Todd Klinger was named the head junior varsity girls basketball coach — Jim Glynn was named the varsity golf coach.

— Joe Solomon was named the freshman boys basketball coach — Bethany Pearson was named the middle school volleyball coach.

City offers refrigerator recycling program

The City of Charlevoix is offering free refrigerator and freezer recycling and a $30 "reward" to their residential electric customers.

In addition to the $30 reward, the program will also benefit city electric customers by allowing them to save up to $150 a year in energy costs as a result of lower electricity usage.

Typically, the appliances recycled through the program are outdated units used for extra storage and kept in garages and basements. Program officials said refrigerators manufactured before 1990 can use three times more electricity than new appliances.

The old refrigerators and freezers will be recycled at a Michigan recycling center so they don't end up in a landfill.

The requirements to participate are: — Refrigerator or freezer must be between 10 and 30 cubic feet in size and must be in working condition. — This recycling program is limited and available on a first-come, first-served basis. — Call (877) 270-3519 or visit www.jacoinc.net to schedule your pickup.

City offers incentives for furnace upgrades

Just in time for the cooler temperatures of fall, the city of Charlevoix, in partnership with the Michigan Municipal Energy Smart Program, is offering significant rebates to residential customers when they upgrade their home's heating and cooling systems to more energy-efficient models, along with other HVAC-related upgrades.

The available HVAC incentives from the city of Charlevoix include: — A $150 incentive for upgrading a furnace to an energy-efficient model that includes an electronically commutated motor.

— $15 rebate for purchasing an ENERGY STAR qualified room air conditioner, which uses 15 percent less energy than a standard unit to remove the same amount of moisture from your room.

— $15 rebate for purchasing an ENERGY STAR qualified room air conditioner, which can save at least 10 percent on your energy bill when compared to a conventional unit.

— $150 rebate for upgrading a central air conditioning unit to one with a 16 seasonal energy efficiency rating (SEER), which can save up to 15 percent on the typical energy bill. SEER 15 units earn an incentive of $125. SEER 14 units earn an incentive of $75.

In addition to the city of Charlevoix rebates, residential customers are encouraged to look into other state incentive programs, as well as the federal tax credits that are available.

For example, residential customers can pair the $150 City of Charlevoix incentive with Michigan's Department of Energy, Labor & Economic Growth rebate of $650 for an ENERGY STAR natural gas furnaces upgrade, as well as possible incentives from your natural gas provider.

That adds up to a potential of $750 in incentives plus up to $200 in savings on the typical annual energy bill with a single furnace upgrade.

Rebates are first come, first served. To find out more and obtain an incentive application visit mienergysmart.com and select Charlevoix in the drop-down menu. Locate the Residential HVAC application on the Charlevoix page and click to download it to your computer. Complete the application within 30 days of completing the furnace or central AC system installation or purchasing the ENERGY STAR qualified equipment. Or customers may call (877) 674-2781 and a representative will offer assistance.

Second area cattle herd tests positive for TB

BRANDON HUBBARD
NEWS-REVIEW STAFF
WRITER

HARBOR SPRINGS — State officials have found a second cow herd in Emmet County to be infected by bovine tuberculosis, while tracing the origins of another infected farm.

Upon researching a bovine tuberculosis-infected farm near Harbor Springs, the Michigan Department of Agriculture found an infected breeding bull at the farm had been leased to another farm in Emmet County. The contact resulted in a second farm in the county being infected.

On Aug. 13, the United States Department of Agriculture classified the farm as positive for bovine TB. The animals at the first Emmet County farm have been "depopulated," meaning destroyed.

"We have tested or scheduled all the cattle herds within a 10-mile radius circle around the positive herd that was identified last March, and they have been negative so far," said Dr. James Averill, Michigan Department of Agriculture's bovine TB project coordinator. "The trace investigation is almost complete and only this herd was found to be exposed to a lesioned animal. With this additional herd designation, the status of the modified accredited advanced zone (the testing area) is a concern as four positive cattle herds in a year may cause a drop in our status. We've tested 67 farms in the special surveillance circle test."

In March, state officials were concerned about the high density of infection at the cow farm in Harbor Springs. With typical infection cases involving only a single animal, Averill and other officials have been carefully tracing the origins of the tuberculosis infection within Emmet County.

While infection can occur by nose-to-nose direct contact, infection is much more likely to occur through indirect transmission through contaminated feed. Beef and dairy farmers can decrease the risk of exposing their cattle to bovine TB by limiting cattle-to-deer contact and protecting cattle feed from deer.

This Emmet County herd is the fourth TB affected herd identified in Michigan in 2010 — a beef herd in Alcona County and another in Alpena County are in the testing area where the disease is most prevalent.

On Jan. 4, 2010, MDA, in coordination with USDA, expanded the testing area to include Antrim, Charlevoix, Cheboygan, Crawford, Emmet, and Otsego counties. The goal is to return bovine TB free status to the entire state and testing is an effective way to prevent bovine TB from spreading to other herds. MDA is working to move a majority of the area to TB free status while maintaining controlled-testing status for the above listed counties along with Presque Isle County.

The state has been working to eradicate bovine tuberculosis in Michigan since 1998, testing 1 million cattle by 2003. Since 1998, MDA and USDA have detected 50 cattle herds and four privately owned cervid operations. These premises either have been depopulated or the herds were quarantined and placed under a test-and-remove program.

An informational meeting for Emmet County producers is scheduled 7-9 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 16, at the West Traverse Township Hall at 8001 M-119 in Harbor Springs. At this meeting, Dr. Averill will discuss herd investigation, impact to producers and the community, and answer any questions.

BC-EJ North road name changed

DAVID HOPKINS
NEWS-REVIEW STAFF
WRITER

BOYNE CITY — The name of Boyne City-East Jordan North Road was officially changed to Fall Park Road at a heated Wilson Township council meeting on Wednesday, Sept. 8, at the township hall.

The township board has been discussing the road change for more than two months because of an unusual repeat in house numbers along the road and the problems that has caused with emergency crews finding the correct houses.

"I'm not willing as township supervisor to risk someone's life on the fact we have repeating numbers on Boyne City-East Jordan Road and Boyne City-East Jordan North Road," said Todd Sorenson, Wilson Township supervisor.

House numbers in the township are set up on a grid system. Addresses on east-west roads start at zero on the eastern edge of the township and go up by 1,000 for every block to the west. Addresses on north-south roads start at zero on the northern edge of the township and go up by 1,000 for every block to the south.

The Boyne City-East Jordan Road, which takes a sharp turn at Deer Lake Road has house numbers on the east-west section that are repeated on the north-south section, Sorenson said.

After a special township meeting on Aug. 17, the township council sent out survey cards to all residents along Boyne City-East Jordan North Road, which asked what they would like to name the road. Out of the 72 residents on the road 37 sent back cards with their thoughts on the name. Seventeen of the residents requested the name be Fall Park Road, five requested Boyne City-Deer Lake Road and the other 12 votes were divided into 10 different names.

After reading off the votes, Sorenson opened up the topic for discussion from the residents of the road one last time and things got a little heated by those who don't want the name to change again.

"This is the fifth or sixth time they've made changes to the addresses along the road. After that many changes you would think it would fix the problem, but nothing seems to work," said Reta Skop, 25-year resident of the road.

Several of the residents of the road showed their resistance to the change, but the council was determined to make the change before the next emergency call goes out to 9-1-1.

"We can keep arguing about whether we need to change the name all night, but I'm here to tell you we have to change the name before someone dies," Sorenson said.

With a unanimous vote, the council officially changed the name of the road. The road formerly known as Boyne City-East Jordan North Road, which runs from Deer Lake Road to M-75 is now Fall Park Road.

"The name of the road has been changed to Fall Park Road," Sorenson announced after the vote.

Road signs will take between 14 and 30 days to be made and will have to be coordinated with county and state road commissions.

The road isn't the only one in the township or county with repeating numbers that cause problems with emergency crews and the council plans to do what they can to fix the problem with the others as well.

RESIDENTS UNLOAD HAZARDOUS WASTE, UNWANTED MEDICATIONS THE RIGHT WAY

DAVID HOPKINS
NEWS-REVIEW STAFF
WRITER

BOYNE CITY — Many citizens of Charlevoix County cleaned out their medicine cabinets, garages and basements to dispose of their hazardous waste at the road commission garage in Boyne City on Saturday.

For the ninth year, the county conducted the twice-annual Household Hazardous Waste Drop to help people properly dispose of chemicals, tires, electronics, batteries and old medicine.

"It's cleaning up the environment and making the world cleaner for our kids and our grandkids, and it's a great way to give back and do our part," said Shirley Roloff, Charlevoix County commissioner.

There were four stations set up at the Charlevoix County Road Commission garage for different kinds of waste. The volunteer staff directed the more than 350 cars through the stations while expert handlers took the waste from their cars for safe disposal.

"People don't even have to get out of their cars. They just drive through, we take the hazardous waste and they drive away. It's very organized after doing this for nine years and it's very fast," Roloff said.

The first station was for tires of all sizes, which were recycled to be used as fuel.

"The tires are cut in half for transportation, shredded and mixed with wood chips to be used as fuel at a factory," said Mike Gutka, owner of Northern Michigan Scrap Tire Disposal Service of Alpena.

The second station was for drugs and medicine. Pharmacists were accepting the medicine to take care of it properly while a sheriff deputy was present to make sure the large amount of drugs were secure and properly disposed.

"This is very important from a family safety standpoint. It's not safe to have old medicine sitting around because people could accidentally take it. Plus, we don't want it to get in the ground water," said Steve Czerkes, president of the Michigan Pharmacists Association.

According to the U.S. Geological Survey, more than 80 percent of waterways tested in the U.S. show traces of common medications such as acetaminophen, hormones, blood pressure medicine, cocaine and antibiotics.

"We want to educate the public about the importance of properly disposing of old medicine instead of just throwing it in the trash or washing it down the drain. It isn't safe to have it in our ground water," said Grenetta Thomasscy, program director of Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council.

The last two stations were for electronics and household chemicals such as cleaning products, lead-based paints and other chemicals.

All the chemicals were collected and safely disposed of by Drug and Laboratory Disposal, Inc. from Plainwell.

According to the disposal company, 59 percent of the total waste is used by fuel blending, 28 percent is recycled, 11 percent is incinerated, one percent is stabilized and placed in landfill and one percent is neutralized so it will not get back into the environment and cause harm.

Rayders' Buday wins Charlevoix Mud Run

CHARLEVOIX —

Charlevoix senior Eric Buday won the boys' 11th-12th grade race Saturday, leading a strong showing by area runners in the 19th Annual Charlevoix Charlevoix Classic Mud Run.

Buday's winning time was 17 minutes, 5 seconds. Gaylord was first in the boys' team standings, its top five runners finishing in a combined 1 hour, 31 minutes, 11 seconds. Petoskey was second at 1:31:56, followed by Cadillac, 1:32:20; Harbor Springs, 1:32:23; and Charlevoix, 1:32:36.

Gaylord also won the girls' event in 1:48:08, followed by Dearborn Divine Child, 1:48:49; Harbor Springs, 1:49:49; Cadillac, 1:52:11; and Charlevoix, 1:53:32.

"Coming in second, I was happy," Petoskey coach Keith Henning said. "Some of our top boys were off a little, not allowing us to do what we thought we could do. (But) we had a pretty good day."

"There were three teams (competing) from our conference. Gaylord had excellent races and got us by 40-some seconds. It's going to be a very interesting conference."

The top 14 runners in each of the four high school races earned a medal.

Petoskey's Mike Drake placed fourth in the boys' 11th-12th race, while teammate Jack Touran was 10th and Freddie Liederbach was 15th, one place out of the medals.

Other area medalists in the boys' 11th-12th race: Andrew Plude, Charlevoix, eighth; Ben Kloss, Harbor, ninth; Patrick Frank, Harbor, 11th; and Nate Schiefer, Harbor, 14th.

Petoskey's Danny Clancy was the top area finisher in the boys' 9th-10th race as he came in fourth. Josh Wojan of East Jordan was fifth, while Jackson Buday of Charlevoix was seventh.

Other area medalists: Logan Hensley, Petoskey, ninth; Caleb Mitchum, Petoskey, 10th; Mark Smith, Petoskey, 11th; Joe Brushaber, Harbor Springs, 14th.

"They both contributed greatly to our success," Henning said of Drake and Clancy, while Mitchum and Smith both turned in personal-best times and those two, along with Hensley, were keys to the Northmen finishing second in the 30-team field.

"They ran in a tight pack, they were right there," Henning said. "They're going to give us a lot of success in the future."

The top area finisher in the girls' races was Harbor's Rhi Cullip, who placed second in the 9th-10th race, leading a strong showing by the Rams.

Harbor's Katelyn Alessi was fifth, Taylor Sydow placed 10th, and Betsy Simons was 11th. The Rams' Kendal McCarthy and Maddie Buntin placed 10th and 14th, respectively, in the 11th-12th race.

"We were pretty happy," Harbor coach Emily Kloss said. "Our boys' top five had a 50-second gap between our one and five (runners), which is the best we've had this year."

Competition among the Harbor girls continues to be stiff as Kloss sorts through a number of highly competitive runners vying for varsity spots for the two-time defending state champions.

"We (the girls) were third, same as last year," she said. "We were actually a minute 40 faster than last year. Once again (among) my top seven girls, just a totally different order."

"It was a good day and that's not an easy race."

Other area runners earning a medal in the girls' 9th-10th race: Olivia Certa, Charlevoix, sixth; Hannah Passino, Inland Lakes, 12th.

Stephanie Ingraham of Man-tinn won the girls' 11th-12th race in 20:32, while Lindsey Brewis of Dearborn Divine Child won the girls' 9th-10th race.

Charlend Howard of Gaylord won the boys' 9th-10th race in 17:40.

Ellsworth placed seventh in the girls' team standings, while Petoskey was 10th, Inland Lakes finished 11th, East Jordan was 20th, and Mackinaw City was 25th.

Ellsworth was ninth in the boys' team standings, followed by East Jordan, 17th; Mackinaw, 18th; and Inland Lakes, 25th.

"Not satisfied with that," Henning said of his girls' team's 10th-place finish. "We had several of our key girls who (skipped the meet) opted to play soccer, and it put other girls in a position of having to rise to the occasion. They all gave 100 percent."

"They ran hard. We have a young girls' team and those who participated did very well."

Petoskey's top finisher in the girls' 9th-10th race was Kathy Rajewski, who was 18th. Teammate Claire Brummier placed 46th.

Labor Day weekend strong for many area businesses

RYAN BENTLEY
NEWS-REVIEW
STAFF WRITER

Early reports suggested that the Labor Day holiday weekend tended to provide solid business for retailers in several Northwest Michigan downtowns.

At McLean & Eakin, Book Sellers in downtown Petoskey, general manager Susan Capaldi said sales were favorable for the store during the weekend, with the holiday appearing to draw more visitors to the area than it did last year.

"Traffic was really strong," she said. "The weather was in retailers' favor."

Becky Goodman, downtown director with the Petoskey Regional Chamber of Commerce, said Wednesday, that she'd heard encouraging reports from a couple of downtown businesses about their sales and traffic.

Although one merchant reported to Goodman that people still seemed to be reining in their spending somewhat because of the challenging economy, the downtown director added that the store's large customer turnout helped make up for that.

Although the Labor Day period didn't turn out as strong as holidays earlier this season at Boyne City's Beyond Borders art and gift shop, owner Jon Bauler said traffic and sales were fairly consistent during the weekend. And as a whole, Bauler said this summer season is the strongest his business — which began operating in Petoskey in 2004 and moved to Boyne City last year — has seen to date.

Bauler said several factors have aided in his store's performance.

One is the programming — such as Stroll the Streets on Fridays during the summer — "which Boyne City downtown leaders have established to draw locals and visitors to the business district. Another is the additional marina slips that became available publicly to boaters this year at the Water Street development.

And after meeting some customers from the East Coast who were making their first visits to Northern Michigan, Bauler added that Michigan's national tourism promotion campaign seems to have helped as well.

"All of those facets, little ones here and little ones there, accumulate to growth," he said.

Kay Seelye, owner of the Kilwin's Chocolates location in Charlevoix, said business traffic on Saturday was slower than the shop had seen during the 2009 Labor Day weekend, a factor she believes may be related to the cool, wet weather.

Although holiday visitors sometimes choose to shop if the weather precludes outdoor activities, "they always tend to head to the bigger cities where there's more variety of shopping than we have in Charlevoix," she added.

More shoppers turned out later in the holiday period Seelye said, bringing business results for her shop that were comparable to last year's solid Labor Day weekend performance.

In Harbor Springs, chamber of commerce executive director Scott Herceg said at least a couple of downtown merchants reported that Saturday's sidewalk sales yielded stronger results than those which took place during the Fourth of July holiday weekend — which is traditionally a summer season high point.

"I think people were still here and enjoying and having a good time (in spite of unappealing weather)," Herceg noted.

At The Outfitter in Harbor Springs, owner Josh Baker noted that the weekend was "very good" for the outdoor equipment/clothing store.

"Lots of foot traffic, lots of folks in," he noted. "They were not dissuaded by the incredible weather."

A 5-mile fun run which The Outfitter hosted this weekend as a fundraiser for the Harbor Area Regional Board of Resources (HARBOR INC.) drew 32 adult and 20 child participants. Including a match from shoe company Merrell, it raised $500.

East Jordan Area Chamber of Commerce executive director Mary Faculak said plenty turned out in her community for the holiday weekend, with plenty of campers at the local tourist park. Retail stores — such as Faculak's own EJ Shop sportswear store — and restaurants were busy as well, she added.

"Obviously, the outside events were a little challenging with the weather situation, but it was a very strong weekend," Faculak said.

Char-Em United Way plans 'Small Business Blitz'

In an effort to engage support from small businesses in Emmet and Charlevoix Counties for the United Way Campaign, Char-Em United Way is planning a "Small Business Blitz" on Wednesday, Oct. 6.

"We traditionally have support of larger businesses, which run employee campaigns, as well as many individuals," Char-Em United Way Executive Director Martha Lancaster said. "We hope the Small Business Blitz will give small businesses the opportunity to learn more about how they can help United Way meet community needs."

On Oct. 6, volunteers from United Way — many of them representatives of United Way's 26 partner agencies — will be visiting and calling on small businesses, both in and out of the downtown areas. The volunteers will provide information about United Way and ask for a pledge or donation. Pledges of $25 or more will be recorded on Lite 96.3 FM throughout the day. In addition, all businesses donating during the Blitz will be entered in a drawing to win prizes including ads in the Petoskey News-Review.

Organizers also plan to have "donation stations" in the downtown areas where donors can drop off their contributions.

Char-Em United Way has set a goal of $350,000 this year, and the Frey Foundation has offered an additional $20,000 challenge grant if the goal is reached.

"With economic conditions in Northern Michigan continuing to be serious, the need for the services supported by United Way is greater than ever," Lancaster said.

Early bird pledges and online donations for the Small Business Blitz are also welcome. Information about community needs and programs supported by United Way is available www.charemunit-edway.org. Donations can be made from that secure Web site. There is no minimum or maximum pledge.

Volunteers are also being recruited to help with the Small Business Blitz. For additional information or to make a donation over the phone, call (231) 487-1006.

Author to speak on paddling adventures

COURTESY PHOTO

Michigan author Doc Fletcher will present his "Canoeing & Kayaking through Michigan & Wisconsin" slide show at the Charlevoix Public Library, 6:30 p.m., Thursday, Sept. 23.

The show is a photographic journey down selected rivers from each of his two books, "Weekend Canoeing in Michigan" (2008) and "Michigan Rivers Less Paddled" (2009), and a sampling of rivers from his upcoming book about Wisconsin. Participants will take a virtual trip down each river and hear what makes that river uniquely Fun. Fletcher will discuss histories of nearby towns.

At the end of the program a drawing will take place for a free canoe or kayak trip, good for a day trip down one of Michigan's or Wisconsin's rivers. After the drawing, Fletcher will sign and sell copies of his two books. The canoe and kayak trips are donated by canoe liveries from Michigan and Wisconsin. For more information about Doc Fletcher, visit www.canoeingmichiganrivers.com. For information about this or other programs at the library call (231) 237-7340.

City declines McSaubia easement

STEVE ZUCKER
COURIER EDITOR

The Charlevoix City Council on Monday turned down a proposal by a city resident to place a conservation easement on the Mount McSaubia Recreation area.

The easement, which would place far-reaching restrictions on how the property could be used in perpetuity, was the idea of city resident John Campbell who brought the idea to city officials in March 2009.

Under such an easement, the city (or any future owner of the Mount McSaubia Recreation area) would be prohibited from dividing the property, conducting any commercial, industrial or mining operations, dumping, most types of construction, most tree cutting, most excavation, all-terrain vehicle use and most signs.

The areas currently used for skiing, sledding and ice skating — about 22 of the area's 64 acres — would have been exempt from the easement.

Ty Ratliff, a land protection specialist with the Little Traverse Conservancy said many people choose to exercise an easement on their property because they want to protect it from development in the future, even if they were to sell it or give it to someone else. Often the person granting such an easement will receive tax benefits from doing so.

In a memo to the city council, city planner Mike Spencer recommended against the proposed easement saying that the property is already protected by the city's charter that would require a vote of the citizens. In fact he noted that the Charter might have to be modified, or at least a vote of the citizen might be required to even allow for such an easement to be put in place.

Section 2.16f of the city charter requires that "the city council shall not have the power to sell, divide, lease, partition, plat, subdivide or dispose of any park or cemetery or part thereof, unless specifically approve by the majority of electors voting thereon at any general or special election." The charter also has similar restrictions on city property within 100 feet of the water's edge of Lake Michigan.

He also noted that the city would receive no financial benefit and the restrictions — which would be permanent — involve an outside organization, which would amount to a loss of local control of the land.

City attorney James Young said he has worked with such easements on many occasions and while they are effective tools, he does not see a specific threat from which the city would need to protect the property.

Speaking to the council Monday, Campbell said while he understands the restriction on the council disposing of the property, he finds nothing in the city's charter or rules that would protect the property from what the city might do with it at in the future.

"It's not today that I'm worried about. Its 10 or 20 years from now," Campbell said. "As public servants, you have an opportunity to protect the non-recreational uses of Mount McSaubia."

The council however, voted unanimously in favor of a motion to not move forward with the easement proposal.

DOCKAGE COST NEGOTIATIONS

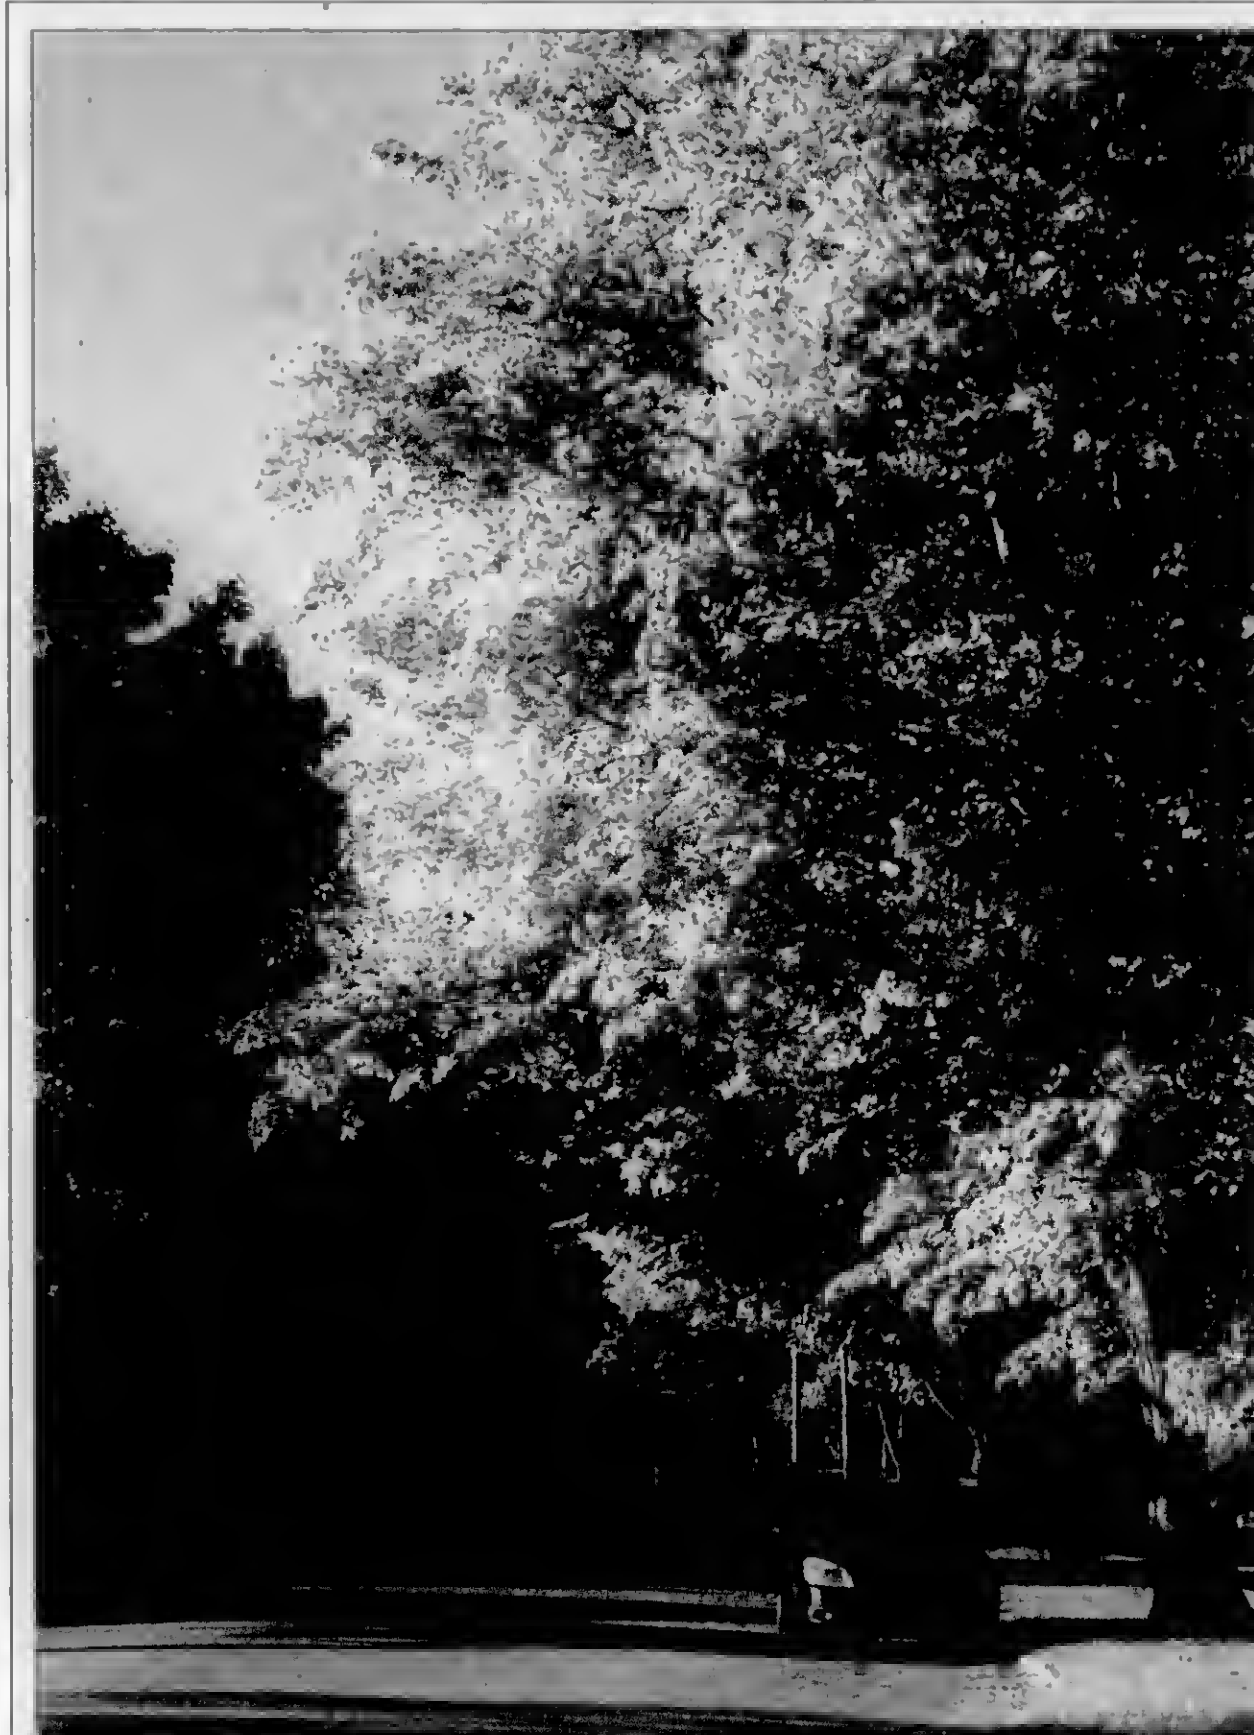

The council also heard from Keweenaw Excursions operator Jason Funky who is asking for a reduction in fee he must pay to dock his vessel the Keweenaw Star at the city docks for the 2011 boating season.

Funky, who for this year paid $15,000 to dock his vessel where on the north end of the marina that was formerly home to the U.S. Coast Guard cutter Acacia, said business was not as good as he had hoped this year and he is asking for a reduction in the docking fee to $4,000 or 2 percent of ticket sales upon reaching 4,000 passengers for the season. Funky said if he doesn't surpass at least 4,000 passengers, his fledgling business will likely not stay afloat.

Funky said his operation is an asset to the city, particularly because it brings people to town during the "shoulder" tourism seasons.

Council member Jill Picha said she supported giving Funky a break in the name of helping a new business get

It's a wrap for "Redneck Roots"

My plane landed safely but arrived an hour late into Cherry Capitol Airport. This was because of a brief delay in Detroit after passengers were belted for safety and given final instruction. Forty-five minutes later I'd swear I could feel the warmth of the tarmac below. Maybe it was the lack of air conditioning and bathrooms that made me feel like it was warmer than the temperature read. The captain notified us that the engines were in need of repair. So there I sat patiently waiting secured in seat 14 C. Some of us silently said our prayers that the mechanical difficulties were minor and we'd be up soaring in the clouds sometime soon. OK, so maybe it was only me who was doing the praying. Fifty strangers thrown together and some of us became friends as we passed the time away discussing outcomes of our little dilemma. Others were on their iPhones, laptops and listening to music on iPods. Thank goodness for technology. Once secured, I was grateful the plane took off and pilot and crew brought me safely back home.

When I arrived to Traverse City from North Carolina I was happy to be home but was already missing the camaraderie of my new and old southern friends. The south does provide some interest to me. There are fire ants that hide in the grass, mosquitoes big enough to carry a child away and little spiders too numerous to mention by name. I am sporting enough bite marks that I am certain I'm coming down with redneck malaria. This was all part of the fun working on a movie set. The weather in Charlotte was as warm and welcoming as the cast, crew, producers and director. This was the first time I had set foot into the wondrous world of make-believe to live briefly as a movie star. Getting fitted with wardrobe and having make-up done was more fun than getting ready for a prom. Seeing my reflection in a mirror with all that makeup confirmed my decision to skip an open casket and go right for cremation (when the time comes). Not a sight to behold for young and old alike.

This was such an educational experience. I now understand why talented and good actors are paid such steep fees. The amount of sleep one gets is determined by the amount of salary paid. A low budget film hoping to make it big involves little sleep, lots of work and determination plus moving things along quickly. The exquisite work of the director to 'doodle' every piece of each scene for the film and camera crew is a work of art. I am told many directors are actually artists in their own right and have works displayed in galleries. As a former art teacher, I was intrigued by the details of each frame drawn and the attention given to the tiniest of details.

Wardrobe and makeup artists are humorous, fun loving and a little crazy. I was intrigued by the number of tattoos one body can display. Camera, film and lighting crew are meticulous and serious as they want to limit their takes and keep the director happy. Actors — well, they are as dynamic and diverse as any group of extroverts you can put together in one room. Wonderfully talented, outspoken, complete with an inner child that needs to be recognized and noticed for their work.

This director had cast two standup comics in the list of main characters. Off camera, lots of joking took place. It reminded me of the old days spent in the teachers' lounge. The art of filming is tedious, with a hurry-up-and-wait attitude. Filming a movie reminded me of a small town fire department. Wait, wait and then rush to a scene wide eyed by the excitement of a fire but in this case the enthusiasm created by a camera rolling. If this funny, romantic comedy makes it to theaters next year, I'll be the first in line to purchase my senior citizen ticket. Of course, I might not be first in line as I may be busy purchasing a red carpet.

Northwest Academy expands computer-based education program

STEVE ZUCKER
COURIER EDITOR

Just a couple of weeks into its third school year pioneering a new computer-based education program, the state is allowing Charlevoix's Northwest Academy to increase the enrollment in the program by one third.

Northwest Academy officials recently received word from the state department of education that it may now offer up its "seat time waiver" program to an additional 25 students per year — bringing the total allowed up to 75.

Two years ago, Northwest was one of a handful of schools that chose to get in on the ground floor of the program which allows student to take their high school classes at home through online or computer based curricula that have been approved by the state.

Northwest Academy director Gary Stutzman said the program is designed for students who — for a wide array of reasons — don't fit into or can't attend a traditional classroom setting.

The school provides the student with the computer, the Internet connection (or software) and a mentor who they can contact with questions and work with students toward completing the classes.

Schools that have the program and follow all of the state's guidelines, can receive funding through the state per-pupil Foundation grant system.

Stutzman said he and other school officials see the increase in seat-time waiver as a ringing endorsement of how Northwest is operating its program. He noted that many of the procedures and policy's the state has adopted for the program have come directly from the success Northwest has had with its program.

Stutzman said the school will start filling openings in its seat-time waiver program immediately, starting with the roughly eight students that were on a waiting list.

Anyone interested in the program should call Stutzman at (231) 547-9000.

Northwest Academy is a public charter school, located at 115 West Hurlbut Ave. in Charlevoix. The school currently has about 40 students enrolled in its high school-level grades.

COUNCIL

started in town.

In his memo to the council, Straebel the city should support the tour boat operation and to that end he would support at docking fee reduction somewhere more in the area of 10 percent or 20 percent.

He said the city should run the marina like a business, noting that docking fees help pay the debt service for East Park, which is especially important given recent declining property values in the downtown development authority district. He also noted that the agreement it makes with Keweenaw Excursions will likely set the precedent for other commercial activity in the marina.

Ultimately, the council decided to have mayor Norman "Boogie" Carlson and Picha along with Straebel, meet with Funky in hopes of negotiating an docking agreement that could be brought back to the full council for its consideration.

CITY MANAGER EVALUATION:

Charlevoix City Manager Rob Straebel earned high marks on his annual performance evaluation, which took place during a closed session of the city council Monday.

The council also extended Straebel's three-year contract by a year and gave him a 3.5 percent raise.

In the last three years, Straebel would have been eligible for raises of 2 percent, 1.5 percent and 2 percent respectively — the same as other non-union city staff received, but he chose not to accept those pay increases. With the raise, Straebel's salary now stands at $83,399 per year.

Straebel, who just started his fourth year as the city manager, received fours and fives (on a five point scale, with five being the best) on all areas on which he was graded.

At the end of Monday's meeting, mayor Norman "Boogie" Carlson — with Straebel's approval — gave a summary of the evaluation. Carlson said overall the council gave the city manager a rating of about four and a half out of five. He said that overall, the council is very pleased with Straebel's performance in the position.

Prescription discount plan benefits humane society

BOYNE CITY — Since February the Community Discount Drug Card has been helping people save money at pharmacies while raising money for the Charlevoix Area Humane Society.

The card, which is free and available at the Charlevoix Area Humane Society office in Boyne City or online is accepted at pharmacies across the country for discounts, with a donation going to the Charlevoix Area Humane Society with every use.

"People using the card have saved almost $200,000 since we first printed them in February at an average of about $100 savings per family," said Bill Kosloskey, Community Discount Drug Card outreach coordinator.

When the card was first released there were only a limited number, but there will now be 10,000 printed, which will be handed out for free at area shops.

"The cards will soon be available at any store in the area that will let us leave them on their counter. They will just be in our little display and people can take them for free," Kosloskey said.

Kosloskey developed the card when he saw a need to help people in the struggling economy and realized he could help the Charlevoix Area Humane Society at the same time.

"There are a lot of people right now who don't have insurance and can't afford the high cost of drugs. The card helps, not only people who don't have insurance, but also people who have insurance and want to save money," Kosloskey said.

According to Kosloskey, to take advantage of the savings you simply pick up a card or print one off their web site and bring it to the pharmacist when picking up medication. It's activated the first time it's used and anyone at the home address can use it to save.

Not all drugs are discounted by using the card, but more than 50,000 pharmacies nationwide accept the card for thousands of different medications.

"There are no fees to use the card, it never expires and there are 60,000 different brand-name and generic drugs that the card can be used to save money on. It can be used to get a discount on drugs for people or pets," Kosloskey said.

By using the card people aren't only helping themselves through the savings; they are also helping take care of animals. Every time the card is used 85 cents goes to the Charlevoix Area Humane Society.

"The money we get from the Water pipe purchase:

The city council also unanimously approved purchasing materials for an upcoming water main replacement project on Stover Road. The council approved the lowest bid for $19,151 for the materials from East Jordan Iron Works.

The project, which will be done by city crews, involves replacing a 2-inch water line that runs behind the Walgreen's store to the intersection of Stover and Marion Center Roads with an 800 feet of 8-inch water main.

In other water system related business, Straebel told the council Monday that water main work on Bridge Street is expected to begin next week and should be wrapped up by Nov. 1.

2 Charlevoix residents among eddi Award winners

eddi Award winners are chosen for the positive impact they've made on arts and culture in Northern Michigan. This year's award winners include (from left) Lynn Dinning, Kirby Snively, Chuck Britton, Joyce Herbert, Judy Knowles, Jean Fought, Peg Emley, Carl Brien and Barry Bennett.

On Friday Crooked Tree Arts Center in Petoskey awarded individuals and local organizations for their contribution to the arts in Northern Michigan — two of them are from Charlevoix.

The eddi Awards are named for the late eddi Offield who was a much beloved and respected artist and patron of the arts and culture in Northern Michigan.

The eddi Awards, which began in 2001, now symbolize the personal and positive impact made by individuals and organizations on arts and culture.

For more than 40 years, Charles "Chuck" Britton of Charlevoix has designed sets for theater, earning him the individual patron award.

Britton taught in Boyne City for 18 years before retiring in 1989. Since then, he's designed sets for the school's theater productions.

Joyce Herbert of Charlevoix was awarded the eddi for arts and cultural leadership.

Herbert began serving on the Crooked Tree board of directors when she first moved to the area in 1978, and has been active ever since.

"I can't remember all the names of those I've worked with all these years, but I can see all your faces and I thank each and every one of you for your dedication," Britton said during his acceptance speech.

Visual artist, Lynn Dinning of Good Hart, was honored with the visual artist award. Dinning's blown glass pieces are found in collections around the country, and two weeks ago, Dinning received top honors at the Port Austin Art Fair.

"I'm so grateful to be part of such a great organization in our community," Dinning said as she accepted the award.

Kirby Snively of Harbor Springs won the performing artist award.

Snively, who sings and plays both guitar and harmonica, is one of the founders of the Blissfest Music Association.

He's been performing for 30 years and plays venues around Northern Michigan throughout the year.

The Little Traverse Chorale Society, which began 20 years ago, was honored with the arts and cultural organization award.

The chorale began with just 16 members, but today has grown to 60 and members perform two to three concerts a year.

The arts in education award went to Petoskey band instructors, Carl Brien and Barry Bennett.

Brien has worked with Petoskey students since 1976 and Bennett joined the team in 1987.

Together, the two men and their talented students have a 33-year string of first place finishes in band competitions.

"I'm very honored with this award," Brien said. "I'd like to thank you as a community and as parents — if it wasn't for you we wouldn't have such great students."

The Bay Harbor Foundation was awarded the benefactor award.

Since its formation in 2003, the foundation has given close to $1 million to 60 local charities.

"I don't think anyone could have foreseen the great impact Bay Harbor would have on Emmet and Charlevoix counties in such short amount of time," said Gary Albert, of the Little Traverse Civic Theatre, as he presented the award.

Finally, the lifetime achievement award was presented to Judy Knowles of Petoskey.

Knowles has been a dedicated volunteer for the arts since moving to Petoskey 11 years ago — organizing cultural field trips and coordinating volunteers, art sales and lectures.

"We are fortunate to live in Northern Michigan with all the support for cultural arts," Knowles said. "I thought when I moved here, I would check out the retirement scene, but I remained true to my calling, working in the arts."

New plaques will soon be displayed at the Crooked Tree Arts Center and will list all the eddi Award winners over the last 10 years.

Road work slated for U.S. 31 west of Petoskey

DAVID HOPKINS

A 3.6-mile stretch of U.S. 31 in Emmet County — from Camp Daggett Road to Eppler Road — is scheduled for shoulder repaving beginning in late September.

The shoulder of the road, which skirts Lake Michigan along the popular route between Charlevoix and Petoskey, is in need of repair because of cracks and erosion.

"There are areas along U.S. 31 where the shoulders are in great need of repair," Michigan Department of Transportation spokesperson Bob Felt said. Rieth-Riley Construction will be performing the $250,000 project, which will include shoulder work along with guardrail and culvert upgrades.

Traffic will be maintained with intermittent lane and shoulder closures on weekdays only.

The project will start the last week of September and will take approximately a month to complete. The construction should be finished before the end of October.

For up-to-date information on this project, go to the list of statewide lane closures at: www.michigan.gov/drive.
